WAR FOOD CONTROL REVIVED BY WILSON

Spurning Compromise on Treaty of Peace Foes Will Take Issue Into 1920 Campaign

Wrangling With Coal Bins Bare

LODGE DECLARES AMERICAN PEOPLE OUGHT TO DECIDE

After Conference With Chairman Hays, Lodge Says That There Is No Room for Further Compromise.

TREATY DEFEAT LAID TO ADMINISTRATION

President Wilson May Accept Challenge of Lodge and Let the Reservations of Treaty Foes Stand or Fall by Popular Decision.

Washington, November 21.—Compromise efforts to ratify the peace treaty were thrown into the background today by developments strengthening the possibility that the whole controversy might be transferred to the political arena for a decision by the people in 1920.

Senator Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and republican leader of the senate, declared in a statement there was "no room for further compromise" and urged that the reservations of the senate majority be carried into the campaign.

There was no formal expression to determine whether a like stand would be taken ultimately by President Wilson and the administration senators, but it developed that the president's senate supporters had no definite assurances as yet that he would reopen the subject for compromise by resubmitting the treaty when the new session of congress begins December 1.

The declaration of Senator Lodge reversed the position he and most other republican senators had taken toward injection of the treaty into politics, and was accepted in congressional and official circles as clothed with an added significance by Mr. Lodge's conference with Will H. Hays, the republican national chairman, just before the unsuccessful fight Wednesday for ratification with the majority reservations included.

Statement by Lodge.

Senator Lodge's statement follows:

"I have no especial comment to make. The case is very simple. After four months of careful consideration and discussion the reservations were presented to the senate. They were purely American in their character, designed solely to Americanize the treaty and make it safe for the United States.

"Under the president's orders the followers of the administration in the senate voted down those reservations. It was also shown by a vote that there was a decisive majority against the treaty with the reservations.

"Those reservations as presented to the senate will stand. There is no room for further compromise between Americanism and the supergovernment presented by the league. All I ask now is that we may have the opportunity to lay those reservations before the American people. To that great and final tribunal alone would I appeal.

"I wish to carry those reservations into the campaign. I wish the American people to read and study them. They are not like the covenant of the league. They are simple. I do not see that there is one of them to which any American can object. I want the people to see them, understand them, and think of them in every household, on every farm, in every shop and factory throughout the land. Then let them decide."

Wilson May Accept Challenge.

In his letter advising democratic senators to vote against ratification with the majority reservations, President Wilson characterized them as constituting a nullification of the treaty, and some of his senate followers do not consider it a remote possibility that he may decide to join the issue and let the majority program stand or fall by a popular decision in the campaign.

Should he take such a stand and declining to resubmit the treaty, let the matters stand for the present as they are, it was considered certain on all sides tonight that the result would be to put the ratification fight squarely into the presidential contest. There was nothing to establish definitely that he would do so, however, and the course of the administration senate leaders during

CASE OF JENKINS CAUSES WRATH AT WASHINGTON

ARMY GENERAL STAFF WORKS ON WAR PLANS

At One Time It Was Estimated Intervention in Mexico Would Require 450,000 Troops for Period of Three Years.

Washington, November 21.—State department officials still awaited tonight a reply to the note warning the Mexican government that any further molestation of William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, who has been arrested twice in connection with his recent abduction by bandits, would seriously affect the relations between the United States and Mexico.

While the text of the American government's communication has not been made public, the summary published by the state department indicated that it was one of the sharpest ever sent to the Carranza government. It said the United States was both "surprised and incensed" to learn of the reimprisonment of Jenkins and demanded his immediate release.

So far as was made known, no report regarding Jenkins reached the department today from the embassy at Mexico City, but officials believed that if he had not been released he soon would be as a result of the state department's demand.

Discussing the general Mexican situation today, state department officials revealed that before the world war the army general staff estimated that complete intervention in Mexico would require 450,000 men operating over a period of three years. Present estimates were not made available, but it is known that army officials hold that the force necessary at this time would be much less because of the increased army equipment, such as motorized transport, artillery and airplanes.

Complete Report From Jenkins.

During the day the department made public a complete report from Jenkins on his capture and his subsequent treatment in a hospital at Puebla after his friends had agreed to pay $150,000 in gold for his ransom, pledging their lives that the instalments would be forthcoming. It was under date of November 7 and amplified the account which Jenkins wrote to Representative Davis, of Tennessee, and which Mr. Davis made public yesterday.

Jenkins said that "a very important matter" was that, "although the local government could hardly be restrained from sending troops out immediately to punish my captors when they learned of my capture, they have not made the slightest effort to do so since I returned twelve days ago, although they have been invited to do so, but excuse themselves by saying that they will do so."

"The rebels are only a few miles distant," he wrote. "They have been there for months and years; they plant, cultivate and gather their crops entirely unmolested; the whole countryside is with them, and yet the government apparently makes no effort to drive them away, and give decent protection to this city. There are in the immediate vicinity of this city not less than half a dozen important bands of rebels, all of them well known to the government, and no determined effort has ever been made to fight them. This is the situation as it is today of this city.

Puebla is the second largest city in Mexico.

Jenkins also said it was "worthy of attention to take note of the attitude of the state government of Puebla towards this incident, for almost immediately after my capture the official paper of the governor published the opinion that I

Accused of Taking Woman to Hotels, Preacher Resigns

Woman Charges Cave Spring Pastor Brought Her to Atlanta During Conference and Stole Her Money and Gems.

Rome, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Rev. J. H. Hardy, pastor of the Methodist church at Cave Spring, in this county, resigned from his church and from the North Georgia conference today, following charges of immorality. He denies, however, that he is guilty and charges a frame-up or attempted blackmail.

The charges were made in the form of an affidavit from a woman named May Robinson, who says she was cashier in a Chattanooga restaurant and that Hardy took her to Atlanta during the conference session last week and brought her to Rome Tuesday, registering with her at a local hotel as man and wife.

She claims he left here early Wednesday morning before she was up, taking with him two rings, one of diamonds and one of sapphires, with $40 in money. She said in her affidavit that he gave her his right name but did not tell her he was a preacher.

She described him accurately and went with the marshal of Cave Spring to his house there. She states that she recovered her jewelry and money there, and told Marshal Paris, of Cave Spring, that Rev. Hardy was not the man she was looking for, but stated to police officers here that she did that merely to protect the man and that he was the same one who took her to Atlanta.

Rev. Hardy is twenty-eight years of age, a graduate of Emory college is married and has two children. He had served two years at Cave Spring, and had just been assigned there for a third year by the conference. He was highly regarded at Cave Spring, and people there are astounded at the charges against him.

He will not remain there, and has not decided upon his future plans. He asserts vehemently that the charge is a frame-up, the work of enemies, and that he never saw the woman until she came to his house at Cave Spring. His resignation was given to the presiding elder of the Rome district after that officer had made an investigation of the case today.

ENTHUSIASM HIGH AT COTTON MEET IN MACON FRIDAY

Former Congressman Lever, Wannamaker, Brown, Nixon and Others Make Stirring Speeches on the South's Prospects.

GOVERNOR PRESIDES OVER GREAT SESSION

Splendid Reports Made, But Time Too Short to Perfect State Organization—Later Meeting in Macon for This Purpose.

By T. B. Connor.
(Staff Correspondent.)

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Representative farmers and business men from all sections of the state gathered at the city auditorium here today to perfect the state organization of the American Cotton association. A number of speeches were made by prominent leaders of the movement, including former Congressman A. F. Lever, of South Carolina; J. Skottowe Wannamaker, of St. Matthews, S. C., president of the organization; Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, R. L. Nixon, of Washington D. C., special agent of the United States bureau of markets in charge of warehouse operations, and others.

DEMOCRATIC HEAD ATTACKS LEAGUE OF NATIONS FOES

Stirring Address Delivered at Capital City Club by Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of National Executive Committee.

REPUBLICAN RECORD IN CONGRESS SCORED

Spends Friday in Atlanta as Guest of Clark Howell, National Democratic Executive Committeeman From Georgia.

Willful foes of the league of nations covenant were bitterly arraigned at the Capital City club Friday night by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the national democratic executive committee, and the progress made by the United States in the past six years was pointed out as pleading eloquently for the democratic cause.

Since the democratic party came into power on the fourth day of March, 1913, its achievements in the way of domestic reform have constituted a miracle of legislative progress, he said.

The same group of republican leaders who were responsible for the opposition to the income tax, the farm loan system and the agricultural and labor bill, he called attention to as being the same men who are now leading the party, criticising the president of the United States and the league of nations; the men, he said, whose counsel led to trouble and whose advice had to be discarded before America could make progress.

Guest of Clark Howell.

Mr. Cummings arrived in Atlanta Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and spent the night as the guest of Clark Howell, national democratic committeeman from Georgia. He was entertained informally at the Capital City club by Mr. Howell and his remarks were delivered upon being called on by those present for a speech. Mr. Cummings will leave today at noon for Washington.

In attacking the "bad advisers who, hopeful that America has forgotten their bad advice, and are now tendering their suggestions as to the future," Mr. Cummings paid his respects to Senator Lodge, who, he said, proclaimed in the senate that the federal service system was foredoomed to failure; to Senator Root, who said that the federal reserve system would ruin the financial structure of America, and to Senator Penrose, who took the same position, and all three of whom opposed the passage of the shipping bill which was urged by Secretary McAdoo two years before the war began.

After the war political animosity followed the president to the peace table, continued Mr. Cummings. Rude and unskilful hands were thrust recklessly amid the interlacing strands of human destiny, at a time when every instinct of fairness pleaded for a whole-hearted support of the president. Political antagonisms and personal envy controlled the anti-administration forces.

War Set Great Task.

"The war had set a great task for the statesmanship of the world. The best thought of the world demanded that a serious attempt be made by the leaders of the allied governments to formulate a treaty of peace which should prevent the recurrence of war. Every rightful impulse of the human heart was in accord with that purpose.

"For the first time in the turbulent annals of the human race such a project had become feasible. The destruction of militarism, the crumbling of thrones, the dissolution of dynasties, the world-wide appreciation of the inner meaning of war and the final triumph of democracy had, at least, made it possible to realize the dearest dream which had crossed man's dark mind since the dawn of civilization. We had a right to expect a sympathetic support for such a policy from all patriotic Americans, quite irrespective of political affiliations.

"When we entered the war," con

CORPSE OF CHILD, MISSING FOR DAYS, FOUND BY HUNTER

Hammonton, N. J., November 21. The body of little "Billy" Dansey, for whom a nation-wide search had been conducted since his disappearance from his home here several weeks ago, was found by a hunter in a swamp near this place late today. After viewing the body, Coroner Cunningham expressed belief that the boy was the victim of foul play.

The swamp where the body was found is about two miles from the Dansey home. The body was nude, and this fact, the coroner said, is what led him to suspect foul play. Coroner Cunningham said it was impossible to tell without a more thorough examination whether there were any marks of violence.

Parts of the lad's clothing were found near the body. An inquest will be held at a date to be fixed later.

The child disappeared on October 8, and for weeks searching parties scoured the surrounding country. Many persons believed the boy had been kidnaped and supposed clues led officials to many sections of the country.

The boy was about 3 years old and was the son of Hercules Dansey, a farmer.

PARTIAL ECLIPSE OF THE SUN TODAY; LAST UNTIL 1930

"A partial eclipse of the sun will occur today between 7:42 and 10:25 eastern time," according to information received from New York.

This is the first eclipse of the sun since 1908, and according to astronomers will be the last until 1930, so haul out the old smoked glass and get your peep at it.

The following is a telegram received from New York Friday:

New York, November 21.—The moon will shut off some of the sunlight from most of the United States tomorrow morning when an annular eclipse of the sun will be visible in the United States for the first time since 1908 and the last time until 1930.

Western Texas and southwestern Louisiana will get the best view of the eclipse and the most darkness. They will be in a shadow path 225 miles wide and witness the whole annular phase, with a ring, or annulus of light surrounding the moon's disc.

In New York city the eclipse will begin at 7:42 a. m., eastern time, be at its maximum at 8:58 and end at 10:25.

Christiania, November 21.—The Swedish parliament, summoned to consider the invitation to join the league of nations, has decided to postpone action until next year.

IMMENSE HOLDING CONCERN PLANNED TO AID INDUSTRY

Sub-Committee of Members of Chamber of Commerce Named to Make Plans for $1,000,000 Company.

MONEY WILL BE USED TO FINANCE CONCERNS

Fund Needed for Promotion of Industrial Development of Atlanta, It Is Stated — Prominent Atlantans Favor Plans.

A subcommittee was created last night by the industrial promotion committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to work out a plan for the inauguration of a $1,000,000 holding concern that is proposed for the purpose of aiding undercapitalized industries that wish to locate here, to advertise the advantages of the city, and to otherwise assist in the industrial expansion of Atlanta.

This committee, when named today by Chairman James L. Logan, will be instructed to draft a plan for the approval of the industrial promotion committee at an early meeting, after which the matter will be laid before the chamber of commerce for action.

Discuss Industrial Situation.

The above action was taken last night at a dinner in the Chamber of Commerce cafe, when members of the industrial promotion committee, as guests of Chairman Logan, discussed every phase of Atlanta's industrial situation and its future needs and prospects. A representative gathering of business men was present and the motion to take steps toward organizing a holding company or underwriting concern to assist in the expansion of industrial Atlanta was made by W. M. Clemens, who served as commercial secretary of the Mobile Chamber of Commerce before coming to Atlanta to enter the newspaper field.

Mr. Clemens, in explaining the plan, declared that through the

SECRETARY WILSON VAINLY WORKING FOR AGREEMENT

Miners Reject Proposal Made by Operators and the Latter Reject Proposition Made by the Miners.

GARFIELD AND HINES FAVOR DRASTIC PLANS

To Bring the Coal Strike to End — These Plans Will Be Placed Before the Cabinet at Its Next Meeting.

Washington, November 21.—Secretary of Labor Wilson stepped to the front again tonight in an effort to bring miners and operators together after a proposal by each side had been rejected and the slate wiped clean.

Mr. Wilson is said to have formally presented a definite proposal for settlement of wage disputes which would send bituminous miners back to work before the country was in the throes of a coal famine, but its nature was not disclosed. It was generally believed, however, that he suggested a wage increase of about 31 per cent.

Both sides united in asking the labor secretary to join the joint subscale committee after the miners had definitely rejected a 20 per cent wage advance, and the operators had finally refused to agree to a counter proposal from the workers of a 40 per cent increase, a seven-hour day and six days week with half holiday on Saturday.

When the conference adjourned after a six-hour session, Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of the operators, declared that their offer had been withdrawn and that the date was now clean.

Secretary Wilson said that progress had been made and that he would meet the subcommittee again tomorrow afternoon.

Comparative data on increases in the cost of living and wage advances to miners since 1914 was submitted by Mr. Wilson, who declined to make public his proposition.

The 31 per cnt increase, said to have been proposed, would make up the difference between wage increase figures and the cost of living announced by the secretary at the opening of the conference last week.

Ultimatum by Operators.

An ultimatum served by the operators that their offer represented the maximum was reaffirmed tonight by Mr. Brewster, who declared it could not be increased unless "the government says we should do it."

When the conference failed to agree on either side's proposition, the operators suggested referring the dispute to arbitration, but the miners objected. The operators proposed a tribunal of nine members to be chosen in one of three different ways: Each side to pick four members and the eight to select the umpire; each side to name four and the president of the United States the ninth, or each side to name three and the other three to be chosen by the president.

The counter proposition from the miners, scaling down their earlier demands, was submitted by John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers, after he had conferred with Secretary Wilson. Mr. Lewis stated that the new demand for a 40 per cent wage advance for all sorts of work represented the "margin" between the wage increases received by the miners since 1914 and the jump taken by living costs.

The mine workers also insisted that all local differences not covered by interstate agreement be referred back to the districts in which they originated for settlement.

The offer of the operators as finally rejected by the miners today was slightly different from the terms submitted yesterday, Mr. Brewster said. The operators stood fast on the amount of the wage increase, but agreed to waive de-

DRASTIC STEPS TAKEN TO AVERT SUGAR FAMINE

All the Broad Powers Exercised by Hoover During the War Are Revived and Transferred to Attorney General Palmer.

SHARP CURTAILMENT IN THE USE OF SUGAR

Supply for Candy and Soft Drinks to Be Limited—Price of 12 Cents a Pound, Wholesale, for All Sugar Except Louisiana Crop.

Washington, November 21.—President Wilson today placed the government again in control of the nation's food supply by transferring the authority of food administrator to Attorney General Palmer.

Revival of the war-time functions of Administrator Hoover resulted directly from government efforts to avert a famine in sugar, but the powers delegated to the head of the department of justice will be also to help put down the ever-mounting cost of living.

For the present the attorney general will not put into operation all of the machinery permitted under the executive order signed by the president, but should conditions arise to make it necessary, the full pressure of all the broad power vested in him will be exerted to meet them.

Mr. Palmer's staff will begin immediately to build up a sugar distributing system which will allocate all sugar stocks in the country. It will provide an equitable system of distributing supplies and will defeat any concentration or hoarding, officials said.

To Increase Sugar Prices.

Plans, tentatively decided upon, provide for increasing the price of all sugar, excepting the Louisiana crop, to 12 cents a pound, wholesale.

Through this increase, new sources of supply are expected to be opened. With assurances that a fair margin of profit, said to be about $1.54 a hundred pounds, would be allowed, sugar refiners are ready to enter the Cuban markets and purchase all available stocks, it was stated. Thus, officials believe the increased price will avert a shortage which threatens to become a famine during the next 60 days.

Beet sugar refiners already have tentatively assented to the plan, it was learned, upon assurances that a higher price than now prevails would be established. Cane sugar dealers will be called into conference at an early date. They also are understood to favor the arrangement providing the price is raised, as is planned, so that they will not be involved in any heavy losses which they say would result from buying Cuban sugar at the present prices in Cuba and selling at 10½

Sugar Cut for Candy and Drinks.

Immediate action also is contemplated in curtailing the consumption of sugar by manufacturers whose products are not regarded as essential food. This will apply particularly to soft drink dealers and candy manufacturers. The abnormal increase of sales of these articles and the consequent heavy drain on the sugar supplies is traceable, officials declared, to the enforcement of prohibition.

While it has not been definitely determined, the cut in sugar supplies to these classes of trade probably will be about 50 per cent. Officials declared that if the exigencies of the situation demanded, they would reduce the allowance to soft drink and candy plants to 25 per cent of their normal requirements.

Arrangements have been completed, subject to changing conditions of the sugar situation, whereby beet and cane sugar refiners will enter the Cuban markets immediately. The department, however, will exact a signed agreement with firms entering that trade to consign all of their purchases to this country. This will mean that American dealers will get a large proportion of the 4,000,000 tons of raw sugar yet available in Cuba, officials said.

The Normal Consumption.

Normal consumption of sugar in the United States is abou 4,000,000 tons. In other years, about 3,000,000 tons was imported from the Cuban fields to which was added the average production of approximately 1,000,000 tons of native grown. But officials were alarmed lest European dealers should continue their heavy purchases, already in excess of 1,000,000 tons, in Cuban markets and deprive this country of the full supply it usually gets there. The refiners who have agreed to go into the Cuban trade have been urged, it was said, to use all haste that the stocks may not be exhausted before this nation is supplied.

The danger of a sugar famine will be greatest next month, it was said, as stocks are rapidly being depleted and in many sections already are exhausted and the necessity for garnering all available supplies from outside becomes daily more urgent.

WHOLESALE DEALERS PUT UNDER ARREST.

Chicago, November 21.—Eleven wholesale sugar dealers were arrested today and twenty-four others were expectedto be taken into custody soon on charges of profiteering. Warrants for thirty-five wholesalers, jobbers and retailers were issued by a federal commissioner. The chrrges were exacting an exorbitant price or conspiracy to obtain an excessive price for sugar in violation of the Lever food control law.

The thirty-five dealers are alleged to have sold sugar at prices ranging from 15 to 25 cents a pound.

CASE OF JENKINS CAUSES WRATH

had been instrumental in my own kidnaping and that I had formed a plot with the rebels and other friends of mine to cause international difficulties, also that it was the intention to collect this ransom from the Mexican government and divide it," etc.

"It is impossible," said Jenkins, "to express my indiganiton at this outrage on the part of the local authorities . . . I am glad to say that the best element of this city has recognized in these attacks, only an effort on the part of the governor to avoid the responsibility of his criminal neglect of the protection of the city."

The consular agent itemized the expenses he incurred in connection his abduction, placing the total sum of $357,341.91 Mexican gold. In addition to the $300,000 Mexican gold paid or to be paid to the bandits, the loss included $50,623.65 Mexican gold stolen from the safe in the agent's office; $5,550 expenses and lawyers' fees for Lic Mestre, a friend of the agent, who helped to arrange for his release and who has been arrested by the Puebla state authorities in connection with the abduction, and small sums for hospital fees for himself and his wife.

Jenkins has announced his intention to appeal to the government for aid in defraying those expenses. State department officials said today that because of the Mexican government's laxity in trying to clean out the rebel bands, it had failed to give proper protection to the consular agents, who might have grounds for a claim against the Mexican government for the ransom money.

Jenkins in Penitentiary.

Mexico City, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—William O. Jenkins, the American consular agent at Puebla, spent Thursday in the penitentiary, where he held a long conference with Matthew E. Hanna, secretary of the American embassy in Mexico. Mr. Hanna has gone to Puebla to keep the embassy advised as to the developments of the case.

EXTREME MEASURE MAY AVERT FAMINE

Coal Situation Assuming Aspects of Grave National Crisis—Only Record Production Can Save the Day.

By Robert T. Barry.
The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, November 21.—Only extreme measures by the federal government can avert a fuel famine assuming all the aspects of a grave national crisis. Rceord production of coal and express train distribution by the railroads alone appear capable of saving the situation.

The federal officials no longer indulge in unjustified optimism or misleading statements. They talked straight from the shoulder today and it was possible to obtain an official estimate to the extent of the menace that looms ahead.

Replying to appeals by important middle western business interests for some measure of immediate or prospective relief, Henry B. Spencer, chairman of the emergency central fuel committee of the fuel and railroad administrations, declared that unless production can be increased very materially and very soon, the country will be without coal by December 20.

Such is the prospect for Christmas—the yulelog losing its ceremonial dignity and becoming a necessary source of warmth in many American homes—while coal miners in the most important field remain on "vacation" and their leaders wrangle with operators in a hotel room in Washington.

Cling to Forlorn Hope.

Federal officials are clinging to a forlorn hope that something may happen to avert the disaster attending a coal famine, but they are being pushed into such a corner that only another stroke of the industrial paralysis ordered by Dr. Harry A. Garfield in January, 1918, suggests itself as an effective solution. They are leary of that. Memory of the national wrath which broke about Dr. Garfield's official head is not so hazy as to permit the administration to rush into a repetition of such an order without finding every avenue of escape closed.

Officials thought today they saw a ray of hope in the railroad administration's report on production for Wednesday of this week. It showed that the output on that day was 41.9 per cent of normal as against 37 per cent on Tuesday and about 20 per cent during the latter part of last week.

In face of the fact that the nation now is running its railroads, public utilities and industries and heating its homes almost entirely on "stored coal," production at the rate of 42 per cent of normal may modify the menace, but cannot remove it entirely.

Avoid Responsibility.

The situation has reached the point where Dr. Garfield and Walker D. Hines, the director general of railroads, do not desire to assume responsibility for what may happen unless some extreme measures are called into action. They conferred at noon today with A. Mitchell Palmer, the attorney general, but reached no conclusion. Mr. Palmer left the capital to be gone over Sunday. If the outlook is no brighter upon his return, there will be further conference on Monday and the whole matter then laid before the cabinet on Tuesday for decision.

There appears slightest excuse for disguising the true import of what a repetition of the industrial suspension order would involve. Industries, except those engaged in the production of the daily necessaries of life, schools, theaters and offices would have to be closed. Passenger service on railroads would be curtailed and only necessary freight allowed to move.

In justification of such a regulation, officials point to the fact that already schools and industries are being closed in the middle west. The situation west of the Mississippi river has been acute for several days. It would be but a matter of days when the wave of industrial paralysis would move toward the Atlantic seaboard. Industries, with coal on hand, might operate, but the real sufferers would be the poorer classes, the improvident workers of the cities east of Pittsburg, who might be unable to obtain coal by the bucket or basket.

Little Mining Here.

No coal is being mined between the Mississippi river and Denver, none in Illinois and very little in Indiana and Ohio. West Virginia, Virginia, parts of Tennessee and Pennsylvania, are producing coal. The railroad administration is resorting to heroic measures to keep a steady run of cars into those districts and the production figures for yesterday relate the result. To meet the situation in the middle west an average of 2,000 cars a day are being diverted to that section.

But all of this effort avails little when production is less than half of normal now, ten days after the strike was thought to have ended with the blare of trumpets from John L. Lewis about "we are Americans." Coming after a week of absolute idleness in all of the union fields this additional lack of production is beginning to assert itself.

The coal in transit and on the rails carried over for about two weeks. The pinch is just beginning to be felt.

A step to conserve coal for American homes was taken today by Dr. Garfield. He issued an order prohibiting the exportation of anthracite coal, effective at once. His order provides: "That on and after November 21, 1919, no anthracite coal produced in the United States shall be sold, shipped or distributed except to dealers or consumers, and for use and consumption within the United States, its insular possessions and Canada."

Blame R. R. Administration.

Coal operators argue that much of the current difficulty is due to the interference by the railroad administration with the normal methods of distribution. They insist that just as soon as the federal officials began issuing diversion orders and priorities, coal in transit became jammed and precious time was lost while official red tape was unraveling. The owner of a middle western steel mill stated today that his company owned its own mines and had the miners there ready to produce coal, but was unable to get the cars to haul it. It was unable to get any promise of cars.

The tremendous loss in production during the last three weeks comes on top of a shortage which had threatened for many months, causing a bitter controversy between the railroad administration and the National Coal association over the alleged car shortage during the summer and resulting in an investigation by the Frelinghuysen committee in the senate.

The shortage now impending threatens to deal a death blow to the government's fight for the cost of living. Industrial suspension can mean anything except decreased production, and that is the genesis of higher prices. It is a grave problem and it traces back many months to the lack of foresight or something else on the part of Washington officials. C. E. Lesher, of the geological survey, which keeps in touch with coal production, was shouting "Wolf" as long ago as September. The operators and the railroad administration continued their merry debate over the cause of decreased production in the summer, but no one appeared to take the whole situation in hand to avert the disaster which Mr. Lesher kept saying was in prospect. Nothing happened until the miners' strike appeared inevitable and Dr. Garfield was summoned from a university chair to "hold the bag." It is safe to assume he will pass the responsibility along the line to where it belongs—President Wilson's cabinet.

STILL WRANGLING, WITH COAL BINS BARE

Preparing for Drastic Steps.

The coal situation was discussed today by Attorney General Palmer, Fuel Administrator Garfield and Director General Hines, of the railroad administration. Dr. Garfield said they would meet again Monday. It is understood that drastic plans were agreed upon if necessary to bring the coal strike to an end, and that these plans would be laid before the cabinet Tuesday.

Dr. Garfield emphasized in a telegram to Governor Harding, of Iowa, refusing to delegate the power of fixing coal prices to state executives, that the federal government intended to retain control of the strike situaton. In official circles it was said that action by the states at this time would greatly embarrass the attempt to reach a settlement here. Dr. Garfield's message was taken to mean that governors would not change the wage scale in an effort to get the miners back to work, as the fuel administrator refused to allow increases in maximum coal prices to meet increased cost of production.

An embargo of export on anthracite coal, effective today, was announced tonight by the fuel administration. The order directed that "no anthracite coal produced in the United States shall be sold, shipped or distributed except to dealers or consumers, and for use and consumption within the United States, its insular possessions and Canada."

As any contract negotiated by the miners and operators must be approved by Dr. Garfield, some of the operators contended today no further wage advance could be offered without direct authority from the fuel administrator.

Southern Oil Mills Suffer.

Unless coal is obtained to keep southern cottonseed oil mills in operation the loss of thousands of tons of seed on account of wet weather is threatened, according to representations made at the central coal committee here.

Telegrams have been received from all parts of the south and protests were made by delegations representing the Cottonseed Crushers' association from various states.

All inquiries received the reply that no departure would be made from the priority list announced by the fuel administrator until production of coal is resumed and the present crisis has passed.

CUT IS PREDICTED IN RAIL TRAFFIC WITHIN 24 HOURS

Chicago, November 21.—The daily increasing coal shortage today had begun to menace additional industries and threaten slightly the nation's food supply, with the further prospect of a sweeping curtailment of passenger traffic within 24 hours. As the bituminous coal miners rounded out three weeks of idleness, it became known through a statement here by the regional coal committee that the big Chicago packing plants "have about two weeks' supply" of coal left, and that "when they have used that the committee will not be able to release any coal to them."

The immediate future of the steel industry today was causing concern, according to one Pennsylvania manufacturer, and in the Chicago district, the Corn Products company, at Argo, Ill., announced suspension, its other plant at Pekin, Ill., both having a capacity of 100,000 bushels of corn a day, already having been closed. The regional coal committee indicated it expected extensive shutdowns during the next ten days unless production on a large scale were resumed.

Director General Hines, of the railroad administration, announced after his two-day conference here with the seven regional directors, it became known today, that he would lay the facts of the coal situation before the cabinet so ne might be relieved of any personal responsibility for curtailment of industry. In keeping with that, many of the federal railroad managers here said they expected sweeping reductions in the number of passenger trains within 24 hours.

In the general situation as regards the mines themselves, only slight changes were apparent today. They did not point to increased productions.

Governors of all states possessing bituminous mines today had telegrams from Governor Harding, of Iowa, suggesting concentrated action to take over the mines and grant the workers a substantial increase pending the result of the joint wage conference at Washington.

In Colorado, where a second strike has been ordered for tonight, a court order restraining the district officials from putting it into effect was in force. It was obtained by Victor E. Keyes, state attorney general, who based his plea on a state industrial commission law requiring 30 days' notice of a strike.

New strikes in the New River field of West Virginia were reported spreading.

The week's supply ration for Chicago and the northwestern region, which extends to the Pacific coast, was in effect today. The southen states, east of the Mississippi river, were also on a ration basis, which limited purchases for home use to one ton.

NAME LAST DELEGATES TO A. M. E. CONFERENCE

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The A. M. E. conference in session at old St. Philip's, New street, is largely attended, and J. E. Brown, A. Parker, S. W. Woods, B. J. Ross were the last of eleven delegates to be elected. The report on missions, read by Rev. A. L. Sampson, was adopted today. Pastorial reports showed that 1,650 persons have emigrated north during 1919. Rev. R. D. Stinson, of Atlanta, and President R. R. Wright, of Savannah, will address the conference Saturday night on practical education for the masses. Many of the reports of pastors were read today and the session was in many respects enteresting.

Dr. E. H. Coitt, of South Carolina, addressed the conference. Rev. J. T. Hall spoke of how missionary workers have often failed in their mission because of self-centeredness.

Many important changes are expected by the preachers. The report on the state of the country will be read by Dr. R. V. Branch Saturday morning. The edpcatinal report was made tonight by Dr. W. G. Alexander and was very satisfactory to the conference, it is said.

Bishop Flipper made the opening address by telling what had been accomplished by negroes in the last twelve months by way of education and stated that he thought the negroes can and should do much more. Speeches were made by Rev. C. M. Manning, A. B. Cooper, P. W. Greatheart and W. A. Fountain. A contribution was taken for education.

RANSOM REPUDIATES THEFT CONFESSION

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—W. L. Ransom, taken with R. B. Strikland, express employers, in connection with the disappearance of $10,000 en route from the Citizens' and Southern bank here to the Sylvania bank some weeks ago, now declares that his recent alleged confession to complicity in the taking of the big sum was all a fake and that something like third degree work of officers forced him to confess.

He says now he had absolutely nothing to do with the taking of the money. Strickland was a flagman on the Atlanta and Savannah railroad. Not a clew to the whereabouts of the money has yet been found.

SAVANNAH BUILDERS SERVED ULTIMATUM

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Contractors here today received formal notice that if a demand for 20 per cent increase in wages is not granted carpenters the union men will walk out Monday. If they strike construction now assuming tremendous proportions here would be tied up, as allied artisans will also probably strike. A threat of this sort of tieup was made some weeks ago, but failed to materialize.

"ACTION ON RADICALS," URGES SAVANNAH POST

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—"Chatham County Post No. 36, of the American Legion, strongly urges prompt congressional action against individuals and organizations un-American," was the brief, meaty wire dispatched today to the two senators from Georgia by officers of the legion here.

U. S. JUDGE GIVES BEER TO ST. LOUIS

Injunction Is Granted Against Enforcing War-Time Prohibition, Pending Further Litigation.

St. Louis, November 21.—On the ground that beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content is not intoxicating, Judge John C. Pollock, of the United States district court, today handed down a decision granting a temporary injunction to restrain the United States district attorney and collector of internal revenue from interfering with the manufacture and sale of such beer by St. Louis brewers.

Judge Pollock's decision, while confining itself to a ruling on 2.75 per cent beer, calls attention to the fact that war was being waged at the time the constitutional prohibition amendment was submitted by congress to the state legislatures and that congress at that time did not attempt to arrogate to itself the passage of a prohibition act as a war measure. The state legislatures voted on ratification, the decision said, on the promise of congress that after the necessary number of states had ratified the amendment a year would be permitted to lapse before it should be enforced by the government.

Congress therein recognized the rights of the states, even in war times, the decision said, and it had not now the right to infringe on state powers with reference to prohibition enforcement.

In passing the enforcement act, the decision said, congress attempted to re-exercise war powers when the war emergency no longer existed and tried to justify by one section of the constitution an act which was forbidden by another section.

The decision furtner points out that congress, in this instance, has passed a law which "does not pretend to concur with the state laws of Missouri, but is in direct conflict with it."

The judge cited the words of President Wilson in his veto message on the prohibition enforcement act as proof that to all practical intent the war was over. He asserted that his act took away the police powers of the states and violated the eighteenth amendment to the constitution.

The injunction was made effective at once and will remain in force temporarily until a ruling on the entire question of the validity of the war-time prohibition act is handed down.

COLUMBUS PLANNING TO WELCOME MARSHALL

Columbus, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—A busy day is assured Vice President Thomas R. Marshall tomorrow while in Columbus on his lecture tour in behalf of the Loyal Order of the Moose. Committees will meet him at the train and he will be the central figure in a street parade in which civilians and officers from Camp Benning will take part.

Luncheon will be given in his honor and he will meet Columbus citizens at an informal reception. Later he will confer the Moose obligation upon a class of candidates and at night will make an address at the First Presbyterian church.

BOLSHEVIK ACTIVITY REPORTED AT MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., November 21.—The first organized bolshevik activities to be officially noted in the southeast have appeared in Mobile with the fixing of signs over United States recruiting posters urging shipyard workers to combine for "the new order."

United States Assistant District Attorney Pegues announced today that wholesale arrests are likely to follow soon.

BIG REWARD OFFERED FOR THE KIDNAPERS

Nashville, Tenn., November 21.—Officers of the Nashville Trade and Labor council today offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction "of the unidentified parties who unlawfully seized and deported J. B. Lawson," national organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, who led the street car strike at Knoxville.

Boys Like Good Looking Clothes

"Clothes Like Dad's"

Hand-tailored clothes for the boy who is just getting ready for young manhood are an investment because they give to him an added self-respect, a desire for better things, a pride in his appearance that could not be generated in any other way.

These "Clothes Like Dad's" are what the growing boy will like. He will be greatly pleased first when he sees how really like Dad's they are; he will be comfortable in them because they fit and the snappy, smart appearance he presents when he looks in the mirror will make him want to hike home in them instead of changing back to his old suit. And you will be proud of him, too, Mother, Dad, because you want your boy to look just as manly and—well, just a little smarter and neater than the boy next door.

Everything you could possibly want for the youngster, no matter what age, can be had in our store for boys. All of the best quality and of assured durability.

Silks For Every Dress Requirement

If you ever become familiar with a person who buys merchandise for this store you will be impressed with the fact that nothing counts except quality. In the SILK SECTION this is decidedly noticeable, for surely no finer selection of silks for every possible dress requirement could be assembled.

There are lustrous satins and smooth Georgettes, there are kimono silks and shirting, there are plaids of prettily blended colors and brocaded silk with marvelously beautiful designs, and the prices throughout this department are so low as to excite curiosity as to the source of supply.

Silks are hard to get; the production is falling off, and the cost of manufacture is increasing daily, but our SILK DEPARTMENT is complete with silks that were purchased under more favorable conditions than exist today and as a result the women of this section are offered values they cannot duplicate now or in the future.

To convince yourself you have only to handle the exceptional values offered, to feel the quality and to see the beauty of them.

NAME DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE

C. A. Titus Re-Elected President of Laymen's Association at Meeting of Methodists of Georgia.

Sessions of the Methodist Episcopal conference for Georgia held in Ponce de Leon Avenue church were largely attended Friday. During the morning four young men were admitted into conference full membership—Williard H. Cochran, Millard H. Smith, former Captain F. A. Dunning and Claud M. Rogers. A fine report of the work on Tallapoosa district was given by Rev. E. J. Hammond, D. D., superintendent.

The Laymen's association held meetings both morning and afternoon, but assembled at the noon hour together with pastors and visitors to hear an address on evangelism by Bishop F. D. Leete. The address was very inspiring and was well received.

At 4 o'clock a strong sermon was preached by Rev. C. C. Hall, D. D., of the East St. Louis district of southern Illinois conference. Last evening President Frederick W. Hixon of Chattanooga university, made a glowing address on Christian education, and reported the splendid condition of the institution over which he presides. The president of Conference Seminaries at Athens, Tenn., Epworth, Ga., and Mt. Zion, Ga., J. L. Robb, C. M. Rogers and L. S. Trimble, participated in the service.

During the day elections to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church were held. The session is to be held during the month of May, 1920, in Des Moines, Iowa, and will be a body of 850 delegates from all the conferences in the United States and foreign lands. The clerical delegates, which will be sent by this body to the general conference, are Rev. E. J. Hammond, D. D., of Tallapoosa district, and Rev. O. J. Carter, D. D., pastor of Ponce de Leon Avenue church, of this city. The lay delegates elected by the lay electoral conference are: Mrs. F. D. Leete, of this city, and Burr Stokoe, of Fitzgerald.

The Laymen's association re-elected for its president C. A. Titus of this city, who presided over the sessions. The first vice president is L. S. Trimble, of Mt. Zion; second vice president, J. O. Hipp, Ellijay; third vice president, A. D. Dunagan, Gainesville; fourth vice president, A. M. Amons, Copper Hill; secretary, W. E. Wehner, Atlanta; treasurer, G. S. McElroy, Bowdon.

Today's sessions open at 9 o'clock with a devotional service. Reports will be made by the superintendent and pastors of Atlanta district. Bishop Leete will give a talk on evangelism.

At the afternoon session of the conference, Dr. John L. Fort, of New York city, will speak on the centenary movement. At 7:30 p. m., Mr. E. B. Caldwell, a former missionary in China, now with the board of foreign missions, will be the speaker.

Sunday morning there will be a love feast at 10:15 conducted by Rev. E. F. Dean, of Folkston. Bishop Leete will deliver the conference sermon at 11 o'clock. At 2:30 p. m. ordinations will take place, followed by an educational sermon by President Hixon. At 7:45 p. m. the Rev. J. M. Melear, D. D., editor of the Methodist Advocate Journal of Athens, Tenn., will be the preacher.

Meals are served at the church for the convenience of all attendants at the services, and all the conference sessions are open ot the public.

SENATOR SHIELDS WILL NOT RESIGN TO PLEASE CRITICS

Knoxville Tenn., November 21.—United States Senator John K. Shields today gave out a statement in reply to demands from the Memphis cotton exchange that he resign because of his support of reservations to the proposed league of nations, in which he declared he would not resign and that he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

Senator Shields in his statement also referred to an editorial in The Memphis Commercial-Appeal. He said in part:

"I am proud that every vote I registered was for America and against concessions to foreign nations. I do not care to enter into any controversy with The Commercial-Appeal. The statement that it makes that I promised in my primary campaign to support President Wilson's fourteen points is incorrect and besides is absurd in the light of what took place at the peace conference at Paris. The fourteen points of President Wilson were not an issue in my campaign and I never at any time pledged myself to support them."

Stores Are Burned.

Hazelhurst, Miss., November 21. Fire destroyed four stores, a garage and a shoe shop here today with the damage totaling $500,000. The fire started in a two-story brick building before daybreak and at times threatened the town. The cause is uknown.

SPECIAL SESSION OF COURT DENIED

Charges Made by Attorneys for Fairburn Bank Refuted in Answer Filed by William B. Green.

The ruling of Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, renying a special session of the superior court of Campbell county for the trial of the defendants; and the answer to the bank's civil proceedings against his property by William B. Green, former vice president of the Fairburn Banking company were the chief developments Friday in the case of embezzlement that is charged against Green, Mrs. Catherine Bradstreet and Clarence Bradstreet by the bank.

Judge Hutcheson's ruling automatically postpones the case until the regular session of the Campbell county superior court, which will convene on the first Monday in February. The counsel for the prosecution, through Reuben R. Arnold, had appealed for the special hearing on the ground that it was necessary to keep the bank out of the hands of a receiver, and Attorneys H. A. Allen and Dickson & Camp, for Green, protested against the session on the grounds that no assistance would be given the financial status of the bank by such a move.

Green's Formal Answer.

Green's formal answer to the bank's petition, filed Friday afternoon by his attorneys, denied all the allegations that he had misappropriated funds of the bank, and consequently denied that funds of the bank had found their way into the hands of the Bradstreets through him.

His answer, which was dictated to him by Mr. Allen, and which he himself transcribed on the typewriter, took up the petition of the bank paragraph by paragraph, denying the allegations.

Green stated that he could neither declare nor deny that he was insolvent because, he declared, since the robbery and burning of the bank, the bank had filed a petition against him trying to hold him responsible for the funds and property that Green claims were taken from it by the robbers; and that he had otherwise been mistreated to the extent that his funds had been dissipated so extensively that he could not say whether or not he was solvent. Green denied, however, that he had any money or property which belonged to the bank, and denied that the bank had a right to have a receiver appointed to take charge of any of his property.

Green denied that he had turned over the sum of $1,500 to Mrs. Bradstreet for the purchase of a diamond necklace at a local jeweler's; and also denied giving her money for the purchase of a $750 diamond that the bank charges he did.

Denies Buying Autos.

Without any comment at all, Green denies that he gave Mrs. Bradstreet money with which to purchase either of her fine automobiles, the home on St. Charles avenue, the $5,200 worth of wearing apparel brought from one Atlanta store, or the store on East Lake drive which Mrs. Bradstreet is said to have presented to her father, A. P. Queen.

Green further stated in his formal answer that the bank had no title or interest in any of the property that the bank specified in its petition, because he had never unlawfully taken any of the funds of the bank and given or loaned it to Mrs. Bradstreet or any one else, and that if any of the Bradstreets' property was purchased with property or funds of the bank, he had absolutely no knowledge of it.

As to the bank's claim of insolvency against Mrs. Bradstreet, Green declared that he could neither deny or admit the allegations, because he knew nothing about the condition of Mrs. Bradstreet's financial affairs.

Denies Giving Money.

Green denied having given Mrs. Bradstreet money to the amount of $5,500 in June and August of 1919, on two separate occasions, as he denied that he had absolutely nothing to do with the $3,700 that is on deposit in the Lowry National bank to the credit of Mrs. Bradstreet.

Denial was made by Green to the claim that the bank had any right to put his property in the hands of the receiver, and he admitted that he was indebted to the Fairburn bank to the amount of $40,000, but that it was covered by notes on which he was either maker or endorser, and that the notes are in the possession of the bank. He closed his answer with a denial that there was need of an accounting between him and Mrs. Bradstreet.

A meeting of the stockholders of the bank on Monday will be to formulate plans for the intended rehabilitation of the bank, and the voluntary assessment on the stockholders to assist in putting the bank back on an operating basis.

Richmond, Va., November 21.—(Special.)—The Hebrew Orphans' home of Atlanta is left a $1,000 legacy from the estate of Philip Witlock, wealthy philanthropist and retired tobacco man, who died recently, according to his will probated today.

A number of other eleemosynary institutions are similarly remembere. The bulk of his estate, which is valued at $650,000, goes to his widow and children. Mr. Whitlock, as a member of the Richmand Grays, witnessed the execution of John Brown at Harper's Ferry. Another member of that command was John Wilkes Booth, later the slayer of Abraham Lincoln.

With Winter Just Commencing We Offer In a Sale Charming Dresses for Children, Junior Girls and Small Women

There are nearly five months of chilly weather ahead of us, weather which will have a tendency to keep styles in dresses much as they are today. And here we are selecting from a splendid dress stock, numbers that are decidedly popular and reducing them radically in price. Mothers who have been wondering how to supplement the wardrobes of the children now have their problem solved, and fortunate is the woman who wears a junior girl size dress, for there are some exceptionally good values offered here in the larger sizes.

For Children, Sizes 6 to 16

Dresses of Serge, Tricotine, Taffeta, Jersey and Heather. With the charm of childhood in every line, there are a few Velvet Dresses, too, and they are in all the desirable colors the season has approved.

We have grouped these Dresses into three prices which offer opportunity to save not to be ignored. In the first group are Dresses which regularly sold for up to $25.00. In the next group Dresses for which we asked up to $35.00, and in the third group all the finer models for children, which were priced to $49.50, have been placed. For Saturday we offer these exceptional values to the Mothers of Atlanta for $14.75 $19.75 and $24.75

For Juniors and Small Women

Here are Dresses that hold the graceful, elusive charm of youth. In piquant, distinctive styles, developed in Satins, Georgettes, Tricotines, Velvets and in the softly beautiful Duvetyne. These Dresses, too, have been grouped into three price groups, and in the first values are offered in Dresses which sold regularly to $37.50. In the second group are Dresses which brought $52.50 earlier in the season, and in the third group, comprising the very highest class Dresses we have had, are values to $69.50. These are priced for Saturday at a great reduction and it is suggested that to derive complete benefit from this sale you must come while selections are complete.

$19.50 $29.50 $39.50

Tailored Velvet and Plush Hats for Children

Practically all the tailored velvet and plush hats we have had for children this season are included in these two groups, which represent exceptionally good values. There are hats in many models to suit any individual taste and at this low price the opportunity to purchase will not last long—

39c and 89c

Coat Suits for Juniors and Small Women

Suits that sold to $49.50 are included in the first group and suits valued as high as $60.00 are included in the second. Developed in Tricotines and Velours, in the desirable colors and in approved styles. Offered Saturday at very great reductions in price—

President to Exercise Constitutional Rights To Beat Lodge Faction

Republicans Not to Be Permitted to Pigeonhole Treaty or Run Off With Campaign Capital.

By J. A. Hollomon.
(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, November 21.—Now that the smoke of battle is clearing and the international situation may be appraised with calmer judgment and a keener sense of national honor, in which every true American, regardless of politics, is vitally concerned, the peace problem, as it relates to this country, may be summed up as follows:

The president will promptly veto any concurrent resolution declaring the war at an end. While such a resolution will have no international effect, as some kind of a treaty must of necessity be negotiated and ratified, at the same time the president is not going to permit the Lodge faction to keep pigeonholed the Versailles treaty in such a manner as threatened, nor is he going to permit the republican politicians in the senate to run off with any campaign capital for 1920.

It is not customary for concurrent resolutions to be sent to the white house for approval, and perhaps never in history has the constitutional provision to that effect been seriously regarded, but the fundamental law is with the president in this and he is going to avail himself of it.

Provision of Constitution.

Article I., section 7, paragraph 3 of the constitution, reads as follows:

"Every order, resolution or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and before the same shall take effect shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be re-passed by two-thirds of the senate and the house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill."

That this settles the Lodge plan to end the war by a scrap of paper, regardless of duties and obligations that are as sacred as the cause for which the boys fought and died, is a foregone conclusion.

When congress convenes on the first of December the president's message, on which he began serious work today, will review in detail the war and the labors around the peace table, in the light of the action and the temper of the republican majority in the senate as he knows it now better than when he convened the special session six months ago.

To Lay Open Scandal.

He will plunge into the question in a fighting spirit and lay open the whole scandal of six months of senatorial nagging with the integrity of the nation at stake abroad, and the turmoil and unrest of the people accentuated at home. He will do so, however, with the force of patience and logic. The president believes a compromise is possible even between now and when congress convenes, and that following the straight-forward argument of his message he will be able to withdraw the treaty from the senate pigeonhole where it now rests, resubmit it at once to that body and secure its ratification before the Christmas recess.

In the president's message he will hold that the nations of the world can never settle down to the work of reconstruction, to producing what they need, and to cutting the high cost of living until the treaty of peace is disposed of, and he will insist in emphatic language that congress attend to this particular matter without delay, and then pass on to the other exceedingly grave problems confronting the country.

Anxious to Dispose of Treaty.

With the national campaign facing both parties and the domestic problems grave and becoming more serious each day, especially the industrial unrest, it is known that all the senators of both parties would like to see the treaty out of the way. That the Lodge reservations as adopted can be modified is reasonably certain, and while the strict administration leaders are prone to accept any reservations there is no getting away from the fact that I have maintained steadfastly from the beginning a compromise must and will be effected.

No one expects recurrence of prolonged debate in the senate, going over and over the same ground traversed since last June. The administration's terms of compromise must be concisely stated and will be subjected to brief discussion, followed promptly by decisive voting.

There has been much speculation as to how, at the final moment, Senator Lodge rallied to his support the entire majority party. It is explained in the challenge by the president when he wrote to Senator Hitchcock on the eve of the vote that the Lodge reservations would nullify the treaty. That gauntlet alone forced the unbroken front which Lodge put up during the battle in the final hours of the extra session. It was known that "mild reservationists" on the republican side were ready to support Hitchcock in certain compromise proposals, but when the president attacked all the republicans resolved to stick with their leader, although in some previous stages of the fight they had opposed him.

"This is the politics" that entered into the fight and played the hand straight in the extra session's last game.

NO COMPROMISE ON PEACE TREATY

the day seemed to indicate the opposite. They continued to talk compromise and predicted that the republicans would modify their attitude, making it possible to clear away the whole controversy before the campaign opens.

They were confronted with the fact, however, that the republican group of mild reservationists, on whom hope of a compromise was placed, had served notice that any further compromise negotiations must be conducted with the republican leader himself. The closing stages of the fight which preceded the ratification vote multiplied evidences of republican solidarity behind the reservations, many decisions in the parliamentary maneuvering being decided by virtually strict party votes.

Even among the irreconcilable foes of the treaty on the republican side the statement of Senator Lodge was accepted with satisfaction. Some of this group have said openly they would leave the party unless it declared next year for outright rejection of the league of nations covenant, with or without reservations, but they took the view tonight that the situation was developing a satisfactory speed. By the time the national convention met, they predicted, it would be ready to go further than Senator Lodge did in his statement.

Wilson to Discuss Situation.

The only expression of the president's intentions was a white house announcement early in the day that he would have nothing to say until he sent his message to congress at the beginning of the new session on December 1. At that time, it was said, he would go into the treaty situation. Senator Underwood, of Alabama, prominently mentioned for the democratic leadership in the next session, talked over the outlook with Secretary Tumulty, but did not see the president.

The general belief on both sides tonight seemed to be that any compromise negotiations will have to wait until the session begins. Most of the senate membership has left Washington and the general disposition is to await the president's message before attempting to go further with compromise efforts. Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, in charge of the treaty for the administration, will leave tomorrow for Omaha. He said tonight that he was uncertain whether he would see the president before his departure.

One compromise plan discussed today was to refer the treaty, if it were resubmitted by the president, to the foreign relations committee, with the understanding that it would remain there until some agreement had been reached by private negotiation for its ratification. With two-thirds of the senate lined up for such a program, it was pointed out, the treaty could be brought out of committee, cloture adopted and the whole matter speedily disposed of without taking the senate's time from pressing legislation.

The republican leaders emphasized that some such plan must be adopted if the treaty is to be considered at all, declaring that railroad and other legislation which the treaty crowded out of the special session just closed must not be longer delayed.

Action of Allied Powers.

Action by the supreme council at Paris in fixing December 1 as the date for formal proclamation of a state of peace between the powers ratifying the treaty of Versailles fulfilled the expectations of administration officials. After the senate had ended its special session without ratifying the treaty the general feeling here was that Europe would not wait longer for this country's decision.

Under the treaty's provisions the exchange of ratifications could have been made as soon as three of the great powers had ratified, but the date was delayed, it was announced, largely because it was desired to have the United States a party from the first. All four of the other great powers, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, now have ratified.

The effect of the promulgation of peace will not, it is held by the state department, directly affect the legal status of war existing between the United States and Germany, but it will mean that the important work of rehabilitating Europe will begin without the participation of this country.

Besides bringing the league of nations formally into existence, the event will bring into force a prodigious list of obligations, which must be performed by Germany. They touch upon great and small matters in many parts of the world and are subject to time limits ranging from fifteen days to fifteen years.

Establishment of League.

For the establishment of the league no definite time is stipulated in the treaty, but the inference generally drawn is that it will be set up at once. There are many references to subjects upon which it must pass within a few weeks from the coming into force of the treaty.

Definite time limits, to be reckoned from that date, are stipulated, however, for the execution of a great many of the treaty provisions. Thus various commissions, including that which is to take charge of the Saar basin and that which is to delimit the Polish-German frontier, are to be set up within fifteen days of the establishment of peace.

Within three months the German army must be reduced to 200,000 effectives, all unauthorized munition plants must be closed, Germany must hand over all of her military and naval aeronautical equipment, including the remnants of her proud Zeppelin fleet, and must modify her laws and conform with various treaty provisions.

The time limit for reduction of the German navy personnel to its prescribed strength is two months, and by the same date the German warships named in the treaty must be delivered to the allies. One month is the limit for delivery of the last scrap of submarine equipment and the German forts which the treaty names must be disarmed within two months and dismantled within six.

In matters relating to finance and financial reparation the dates for the most part are fixed on the calendar and the time of coming into force of the treaty does not affect them.

No date is fixed for the appointment of the reparations commission, but the presumption is that it will begin work immediately.

Sweeping Provisions.

Other sweeping provisions are definitely set forth as becoming effective on the date of the exchange of ratifications. Germany immediately loses title to all her colonies and to all her surface warships not in home ports. Shantung passes formally to Japan and Great Britain's protectorate over Egypt is legalized.

Germany immediately accepts as binding upon her some fifty treaties relating to many subjects and agrees to accept in future many other treaties yet to be negotiated by the allies. Prisoners of war are to be repatriated, the treaty says, "as soon as possible" after the date of effective peace. German troops must be withdrawn from various sections, including portions of East Prussia and Poland, within fifteen days. Coal deliveries to Belgium and France must begin at once.

To meet all of her other obligations within the period to be reckoned from December 1, Germany will be compelled to set up a multitudinous and detailed system of accounting. Among other things, she must turn over to Belgium within three months 10,000 goats. Within one month she must replace the gold which was in the Reichsbank when the war began to the credit of the Ottoman public debt. She has only six months to restore to the British empire the skull of Sultan Mkwawa, which was stolen years ago from South Africa.

Wilson to Fall.

The white house is being watched closely for developments, but so far silence has reigned there and those who had hoped for a formal declaration of peace by presidential proclamation have had their attention directed to the statement of President Wilson last August in reply to a question by Senator Fall in which the president said:

"I feel constrained to say in reply to your first question not only in my judgment I have not the power by proclamation to declare that peace exists, but that I could in no circumstances consent to take such a course prior to the ratification of a formal treaty of peace."

Supporters of ratification of the treaty have not given up hope of its ultimate adoption. At the regular December session of congress they plan to present to the senate a compromise proposal which they believe will be acceptable to both factions.

The mild reservationist group of senators apparently held the balance of power and both republicans and democrats are working to swing their support. The group followed the republican leadership in the dramatic battle during the closing hours of the last congress, but the democratic leaders believe they have a plan which the "mild reservationists" will approve.

Republicans and democrats each have challenged the other to carry the issue to the people.

ARMY STILL LEADING NAVY IN ENLISTMENTS

Four enlistments were received in the United States navy yesterday by the Atlanta recruiting station in the Postoffice building. The new "gobs" are William H. Woodward, Jackson county; John Colt, Barre, Vt.; Clifford Pruett, Cummings, Ga.; Edward N. Applegate, Trenton, N. J.

The army was five ahead of the navy, having accepted nine men for enlistment. All of these are from Georgia. Of this number seven will be sent to Fort Oglethorpe. They are Clifford Williamson, Hogansville; Henry D. Everett, Alma; James L. Aldridge, New Lacy; Wyatt W Holmes, Augusta; Joe Pirkle, Griffin; Thomas O. Powell, Albany; Leslie Jacobs, Columbus. Daniel E. Trammell, of Clayton, will be sent to Camp Benning and Charles T. Graham, of Loganville, to Camp Gordon.

Among the enlistments in the navy Thursday were: Lee Hunt, Elk Point, S. Dak.; James L. Kimbrell, Maxwell, Fla.; C. O. James, Union Point, Ga.; Andrew D. Tubre, Houston, Texas; Walter Anton Bierman, Albany, Ga.; Joseph R. Hughes, Watkinsville, Ga.; Columbus West, Canton, N. C., and William Cone, Pinehurst, Ga.

PACT IN EFFECT ON DECEMBER 1

Supreme Council Fixes That Date for Formal Ratification of the German Peace Treaty.

Paris, November 21.—The supreme council today agreed upon December 1 as the date when the German peace treaty will be formally ratified.

Further informal discussions have been held with the German representatives now here in connection with the negotiation by the allies that a protocol must be signed by Germany guaranteeing fulfillment of discussions have been confined chiefly to the methods of procedure in considering the protocol. As yet the Germans have not stated whether they will sign the document.

The American delegation still is without instructions to its participation in the peace conference following the failure of the senate to ratify the treaty, but Henry White attended the meeting of the supreme council today as representative of the United States, Under Secretary Polk being absent in London, and the entire delegation is continuing its work in the belief a compromise ratification resolution will be agreed to in the United States senate.

This view apparently is shared by most of the members of the council, who are anxious for the continuance of the United States in the deliberations of the peace-making body. The council, however, is working out plans so enforcement of the treaty will not be hindered if the United States fails to ratify the treaty later.

The next meeting will be held Monday.

BRITAIN TO PUSH LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

London, November 21.—"The inability of the United States representatives at Paris to deposit President Wilson's ratification of the German treaty at the same time those of other powers are filed, will not prevent the remaining allied and associated powers from proceeding to carry the treaty into effect," said Andrew Bonar Law, government leader in the house of commons today, in answer to numerous questions regarding the status of the treaty as a result of the American senate's action.

In answer to a question from Sir Donald MacLean, Mr. Bonar Law said:

"Without doubt there will be no slackening in the determination of Great Britain to do all in her power to take the lead in seeing that the league of nations becomes an effective instrument of human progress. I think it would be a mistake to assume that all possibility of help from the United States is gone."

Referring to the possibility of an alteration in the date of formal ratification of the treaty (which has been tentatively fixed for December 1), Mr. Bonar Law said:

"That must depend upon whether there is a possibility of a change in the view of the senate at its meeting in December."

Asked whether the action of the United States would affect the Anglo-French-American treaty, he said:

"Our understanding in that treaty, which so far has been unratified by the United States, was contingent upon its also being carried by the United States. Another situation might create a new condition of affairs."

BRITON'S ARE DIVIDED ON SENATE'S ACTION.

London, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Keen regret, tempted by hope, on the one hand, and outspoken approval of Senator Lodge and his supporters on the other hand, are the outstanding notes in the London newspaper comment on the subject of the United States senate's action on the Versailles peace treaty.

The Daily News, which is a warm advocate of the league of nations, and an admirer of President Wilson, expresses the thought that, although the situation is grave, it is not yet desperate and looks forward to the reintroduction of the ratification resolution with the hope that "the ten days between now and the next session will be fraught with issues momentous for the world."

"Short though the interval will be," the newspaper adds, "it will be long enough for the true will of America to assert itself, and long enough for the opposing parties in the senate to come to an agreement. The world will await the decision with an anxiety it need not affect to conceal. * * * A league of nations with which America is not associated would find its power and moral authority lamentably curtailed."

"If this was the end we should have occasion for acute dismay," says The Express. "With the withdrawal of America, the league could have small chance of survival as a preventive of war, but we do not believe the idealism which brought America into the war will allow that great republic to leave its worl undone. We regret these perilous delays, but still have confidence in America and the treaty."

The Morning Post, which is an opponent of the league, remarks the league has begun its "ill-omened career by endangering and possibly wrecking a great peace treaty." The newspaper declares President Wilson "altogether misread the temper and spirit of his own countrymen." Everybody kow-towed to him in Paris, where he received such servile adulation from British ministers that his judgment may have been upset," it adds.

The Morning Post thinks that the obvious reason for the senate objecting to the covenant of the league of nations was that "there are in America still citizens who have robust faith in their own nation and heartfelt pride in the covereign freedom of the United States."

"When they found their president bent on transferring their rights and independence and subordinating the United States to a council in which their country must always be in the minority," the newspaper adds, "their pride of race and nationhood revolted."

The Journal regards the attitude of the republican party as "worthy of free men and citizens of the great republic and a refreshing change from the international spirit which has grown sick of the native hue of British patriotism."

GETS 28 EGGS A DAY NOW, FROM 34 HENS

Chas. C. White, Well-Known Breeder, Tells How. Costs Nothing to Try.

"I gave Don Sung to 34 utility Buff Orpingtons and the egg yield increased from 7 to 28 a day. Don Sung is a wonder and I am now giving it to all my hens regularly."—Chas. C. White, Manager Cherry Hill Farm, Flackville, Ind.

Mr. White is the well-known breeder and exhibitor. He wrote the above letter in December, after his test had shown a gain of 21 eggs a day from 34 hens. We will make you the same offer we made him. Here it is:

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 293 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.—(adv.)

GREAT IMPERATOR YIELDED TO BRITAIN

New York, November 21.—The United States shipping board today surrendered the steamship Imperator to the British ministry of shipping. The vessel was received by E. M. Raeburn, director general of the ministry, in behalf of his government. He announced the vessel would be operated by the Cunard line. It is expected to sail for England within the next ten days.

Washington, November 21.—With the delivery of the steamship Imperator to the British government in New York today the shipping board loses possessio nof one of the two largest ships afloat. The Leviathan, the other monster liner, is still owned by the shipping board, and is undergoing repairs before being put in the transatlantic service. The vessel was only recently turned over to the board by the war department.

Contrary to popular opinion, the largest ships are not the most profitable, officials of the board said today. It will cost from $4,000,000 to $4,500,000, they said, to put the Leviathan in commission again, and considering the large crew necessary and the tremendous cost of operation the return from the liner will not be as much as the proportionate profits from a medium-sized vessel.

Transfer of seven former German liners now held in New York to Great Britain, Chairman Payne stated, depends upon the disposition of the American-owned tank steamers in the custody of the British in the Firth of Fourth.

The shipping board has proposed to the supreme council, Mr. Payne said, that the tankers be delivered to the United States and the former German ships be turned over to Great Britain until the ultimate ownership is decided.

Lieutenant Kuhrt Is Back in Atlanta, After Long Absence

Lieutenant Henry G. Kuhrt, an Atlanta boy, after many thrilling experiences in France, where he was in command of the motor transport service at Rochefort, a French port, for several months, and convoy officer in southern France, is back home.

Lieutenant Kuhrt has many experiences to tell about the work of himself and his men. For several months he was acting as commander of a M. T. C. company at Rochefort, where his duties were to assemble and remove motor trucks after they were removed from the transports.

Kuhrt enlisted at Camp Gordon in the motor transport service in the summer of 1917. He was later promoted to sergeant and sent to Jacksonville to attend an extensive course of training. He later received his commission as lieutenant and sailed for France in September, 1918.

GRAND JURY RETURNS 25 TRUE BILLS FRIDAY

Twenty-five true bills were returned by the Fulton county grand jury Friday morning. Several indictments were returned for receiving stolen goods in connection with the alleged number of robberies said to have been committed by F. B. O'Rourke, now in jail awaiting trial.

It is charged by the police that O'Rourke sold goods valued at $7,000 which he is alleged to have taken from trucks of the American Railway Express company at the Terminal station.

SALOON SUBSTITUTE SOUGHT BY Y. M. C. A.

Detroit, Mich., November 21.—The passing of the saloon has placed upon the Young Men's Christian association and kindred organizations the responsibility of furnishing a substitute, Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told delegates to the international Y. M. C. A. convention here tonight.

"No matter what may be said of the baneful influence of the saloon," Mr. Ferguson said, "it must be admitted that men received a cheerful welcome there, and in order to keep their feet on the ground and their eyes bright, equally cheerful and more worthy places of congregation must be afforded."

MRS. BURKE SAYS IT'S ONLY RIGHT TO TELL

"I believe Tanlac is the greatest medicine ever put before the people," said Mrs. Mary C. Burke, of 610 South Twelfth street, Nashville, Tenn.

"The truth compels me to say I wouldn't take anything for the good Tanlac has done me," she continued, "for I know I tried about everything that was recommended for my trouble the last four years, trying to get relief, but nothing did me any good till I got hold of Tanlac. I couldn't eat anything without suffering terribly afterwards and I fell off in weight and lost so much strength that I had given up completely. Then one of my friends suggested that I try Tanlac.

"I did so and I can now eat as heartily as anybody and every bite I take helps to build me up. I have gained several pounds in weight and can sleep like a baby at night. I feel like a different person from what I did before I began taking Tanlac and I recommend it to everybody, for I think it is no more than right for me to tell other sufferers how to get the relief I did."

SHOUSE MAY BECOME SUCCESSOR TO GLASS

Is Widely Indorsed to Head Treasury Department of United States.

(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, November 21.—Jouett Shouse, of Kansas, former member of congress and now assistant secretary of the treasury, loomed strong today among the list of men being considered as the successor to Carter Glass as secretary of the treasury.

Indorsements of Mr. Shouse have been received at the white house, it became known, from many sections of the country and from some of the most influential national and state leaders in the democratic party.

There have been no formal conferences of administration officials and the president over the cabinet post left open by Mr. Glass' acceptance of the appointment as United States senator from Virginia, but it was learned that of all men mentioned for the place Mr. Shouse has been indorsed most widely. Several governors, national committeemen and more than a score of congressmen have sent letters of indorsement to the president. Their support was unsolicited by Mr. Shouse, who, it was said, had expected to retire from the treasury early in 1920. He was urged to allow his friends to present his name.

Mr. Shouse represented the seventh Kansas district in congress for two terms, and early in 1918 was appointed assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of war risk insurance. He found the bureau of war risk insurance the weak spot in the whole administration organization and has labored to bring about efficiency in that bureau.

Indicted on Charge Of Obtaining Money By False Pretenses

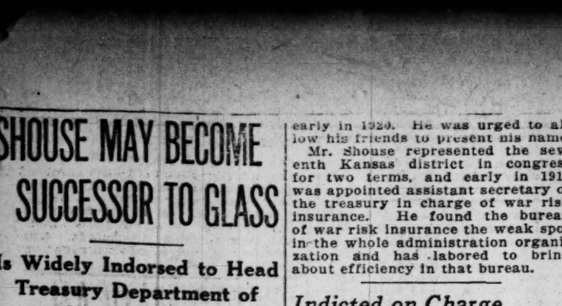

New York, November 21.—A. Labert Lautman was arrested today on an indictment charging that he obtained money under false pretenses by getting subscriptions to a book known as "The Scribes' Review of America, 1914-1919," which he said would be sent to "all papers receiving the Associated Press and the United Press service." He is said to have masqueraded as "the United Press service," a play upon the name of the United Press association, which brought about his arrest.

The book purported to be a record of the achievements of captains of industry in helping to win the war. Prospective subscribers were informed the book would be published once in four years and would be "very exclusive." They were offered descriptions of their work for sums ranging from $250 to $1,000.

Lautman, it is claimed, obtained appointments with prospective subscribers by representing himself as "city editor of the United Press." His home is in Jersey City.

ENGLAND MAY PROTECT HER HOME MARKETS

Bill Is Offered to Protect Great Britain's Home Industry.

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

London, November 21.—(By cable.) The long awaited bill to prevent the dumping of foreign goods into Great Britain has appeared and on examination it turns out to be a measure for making permanent the bureaucratic control of trade which was adopted as war emergency.

The heart of the proposal lies in the establishment of a trade committee to regulate the importation of goods with a view to prevention of dumping and the safeguarding of key industries and industries affected by the depreciation of foreign currency. This committee is to consist of four political departmental chiefs, three permanent officials and ten members of parliament.

The board of trade is to have actual control of trade regulation subject to approval of this committee, though the board has certain emergency powers. Dumping is to be prevented by imposition of what amounts to a new duty equivalent to the difference between the price at which the goods are sold and the foreign value of the goods, though there are certain reservations such as depreciation in quality. It is proposed to protect key industries by total prohibition of imports, subject to the grant of licenses by the board of trade, the powers granted to the board of trade to investigate matters concerning ownership, management, control, prices and profits in the key industries are very wide.

The list of goods coming under the heading of key industries is much shorter than that put forward as necessary to manufacturers' associations; this list, however, includes coal tar derivatives, synthetic drugs, certain chemicals, optical glass, tungsten, carbons, magnetos, hosiery, needles and gas mantles.

The bill also includes provision for a temporary restriction of certain exports and empowers the board of trade to carry out export credits and an insurance scheme. Opposition to the bill is expected if only because there is no provision for the protection of the British industry and labor against the products of underpaid labor abroad.

LABOR WILL FORM POLITICAL PARTY

Chicago, November 21.—Men active in the movement for a permanent labor political party, as launched with a temporary organization in Chicago last August, began arriving today for the first national convention which opens tomorrow. It generally was expected that candidates for president and vice president would be nominated. Max Hayes, of Cleveland, chairman of the national executive committee, said that the party probably would adopt a platform embracing public ownership of railroads, telegraphs, telephones, mines and possibly steel, meat and other industries, as well as declaring against speculation in land.

NEGRO EDITORS DENY CHARGE BY PALMER

Baltimore, Md., November 21.—The editors of the four negro newspapers published here today joined in an open letter to Attorney General Palmer expressing their belief that the recent report to the attorney general that bolshevism and I. W. W. propaganda is making converts among the negroes is unfounded and deny that un-American ideas have taken hold among their race.

They say there are few radical publications among the negroes and that the negroes, through their press, "will continue to demand every right of American citizenship."

Attendance Honors For National House To Box and Ricketts

Washington, November 21.—Two members of the house, Box, democrat, Texas, and Ricketts, republican, Ohio, romped away with all attendance honors during the special session just closed, each having voted on all of the 214 roll calls.

Clerks checking up today found that they stood alone in this respect and at the top of the class, and members explained that if it was a school instead of a law-making branch of the government, each would have received a blue ticket.

It takes about forty minutes to call the roll, so Representatives Box and Ricketts were present at least 126 hours, or about twenty-one working days out of the six months session.

AMERICAN EXPORTS GAINED IN OCTOBER

Washington, November 21.—American exports in October, 1919, were valued at $632,000,000, an increase of $35,000,000 over those in September and of $130,000,000 over those in October a year ago, according to a statement today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Exports for the ten months ended with October were valued at $6,501,000,000, an increase of $1,440,000,000, compared with the corresponding period last year.

October imports totalled $416,000,000, a decrease of $20,000,000 from the high mark of September, but an increase of $169,000,000 over those in October, 1918. For the ten months' period imports amounted to $3,112,000,000, a gain of $543,000,000 over the corresponding period the year before. This figure for the first ten months was higher than that recorded for any previous full calendar year, the statement said.

WOMEN ARE ALLOWED IN PARTY CONVENTIONS

Chicago, November 21.—Women may sit as delegates in the republican and democratic national conventions and vote for the nomination of a candidate for president of the United States, according to an opinion given today by Attorney General Brundage.

The opinion reverses all practices in effect since Illinois became a suffrage state and may result in the election of some women delegates to the national conventions of both political parties next year.

RECEPTION OF WALES PLEASING TO ENGLAND

London, November 21.—Appreciation of the welcome extended the Prince of Wales in the United States was expressed today by Earl Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs.

"England is deeply touched by the warmth of the reception the United States has accorded the Prince of Wales," he said. "There could be no surer indication of the depth of the real friendship which unites the great English-speaking nations. England has watched the events of the last few days with eager interest and rejoices in this new manifestation of mutual affection and esteem."

AUSTRALIA EAGER FOR U. S. FLEETS

Sydney, [illegible] November 22.—Commenting on the reported intention of the United States Asiatic squadron to visit Australia, The Sydney Daily Telegraph recently said editorially:

"The American fleet may be assured of an enthusiastic and unanimous welcome. Our welcome will show how eager we are to frustrate the work of those who would spread suspicion and misunderstanding between the peoples of the British empire and of the United States."

THREE BUILDINGS BURN AT SING SING

Ossining, N. Y., November 21.—Three buildings in the Sing Sing prison yard were destroyed this morning by a fire believed to be of incendiary origin. The loss is estimated at more than $200,000.

The burned buildings were located some distance away from the prison itself. Most of the prisoners were in the yard when the fire broke out, but there was no disorder, many of the inmates assisting in fighting the flames.

U. S. AID WANTED TO RELIEVE VIENNA

London, November 21.—Premier Lloyd-George replying to question in the house of commons said he saw no hope of amelioration in the economic situation of Vienna without the help of the United States. The British had already given aid to the Viennese government amounting to three and one-half million pounds sterling, but the premier announced that Great Britain did not intend to continue to bear the greater part of the burden of the famine in that country.

COL. HASKELL, U. S. A., PRESENTED TO POPE

Rome, November 21.—Colonel William Haskell, U. S. A., high commissioner for the four great powers in Armenia, was presented to Pope Benedict today by Monsigno O'Hearn, rector of the American college. The children of Colonel Haskell also were received by the pope.

The pontiff was keenly interested in Colonel Haskell's description of the situation in Armenia, that country being one of those for the freedom of which the holy see has indefatigably worked.

INDICTED AS RECEIVER OF STOLEN PROPERTY

New York, November 21.—David Sullivan, broker, arrested Tuesday in the campaign of the district attorney's office to rid the financial district of a band of alleged swindlers, was indicted today on a charge of having criminally received stolen property. His bail was reduced from $75,000 to $45,000 by Justice Francis B. Delehanty.

Sullivan is charged with having received two hundred shares of Crucible Steel company stock stolen from a messenger boy. The stock was received in this city after it had been accepted as collateral for a $14,000 loan by a Washington, D. C., bank.

Samuel Marder and Hyman Horowitz, who said they were brokers, were held by Magistrate Cobb in $10,000 bail pending an investigation of how a certificate for 100 shares of American Hide and Leather company stock came into their possession.

FRENCH PRESIDENCY FOR CLEMENCEAU

Paris, November 21.—Interviewed by a representative of the newspaper Oeuvre relative to the political situation, Rene Viviani, former premier, has stated that Premier Clemenceau will remain in his present office until January and then will become president of the republic. M. Viviani is quoted as denying any intention to become a candidate for president of the chamber of deputies in opposition to Paul De-

STRIKERS UNDERSOLD MASTER BUTCHERS

Chicago, November 21.—Investigation of charges of profiteering on the part of Chicago master butchers, which were made during the strike, which ended today after a duration of three weeks, disclosed that the four retail shops opened in various parts of the city by the strikers have been selling meat at a lower price than the wholesale price.

To substantiate their charges of profiteering, the strikers opened the four stores, which were operated by individuals, and yesterday their quotations for meat of medium grade follow: Porterhouse steak, a pound, 18 cents; sirloin steak, 15; round steak, 15; chuck roast, 8½ to 12½; lamb chops (loin), 18; stewing lamb, 10; pork chops, 26; smoked hams (sliced), 40; lard, 30, and veal cutlets, 25 cents.

The master butchers doing a cash-and-carry business quoted the following prices: Porterhouse steak, a pound, 28-35; sirloin steak, 28-32; round steak, 25-30; chuck roast, 18-25; lamb chops (loin), 29-40; stewing lamb, 10-18; pork chops, 35-40; smoked hams (sliced), 50-55; lard, 32-35, and veal cutlets, 35-45.

The master butchers asserted that the strikers' shops carried the poorest grades of meat and which they did not handle. A government inspector also declared that the strikers' shops sold only inferior grades.

PARLOR BOLSHEVIKI ASSISTING RADICALS

New York, November 21.—Checks totaling $100,000 donated to the communist party of New York by some of the city's "parlor bolsheviki" are in the hands of Chief City Magistrate McAdoo, it was learned today. They were seized in the raids on radicals November 7 and 8 and will be submitted to the extraordinary grand jury investigating seditious activities here, it was announced.

When the list of contributors to the communist movement is made public the people of New York will realize how far its ramifications extend, Deputy Attorney General Berger said.

"People in both social and religious circles, according to our discoveries, are bolsheviki to the bottom of their hearts," he added.

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED BY HIGH-POWER WIRE

Covington, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—John Whittemore, age 28 years, an employee of the Georgia Railway and Power company, while working on a transformer station at Porterdale Thursday about noon, came in contact with a live wire of 38,000 volts, which knocked him backwards, setting him on fire, from which he died in about 10 minutes.

He fell about 15 feet and struck on his head, tearing an ugly gash in his forehead, another on the top of his head and a third on the back of his head. He was also fearfully burned.

T. G. Carter, foreman of the Georgia Railway and Power company, who was working with Whittemore, was painfully but not seriously hurt. Mr. Whittemore is survived by his mother and father, of Madras, near Newnan; two sisters and one or two brothers. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF IRISH AFFAIRS

London, November 21.—Despite the opposition of well organized elements in Ireland to any sort of settlement there is a prospect of an early peaceful arrangement of Irish affairs. The financial side of the scheme submitted to the cabinet by Mr. Long's committee has now been submitted to a sub-committee of which the chancellor of the exchequer is a member and the subcommittee has been asked to report without delay.

When a bill has been drafted it will be submitted to parliament promptly and as far as can be seen at this moment parliament will be asked to sit through January in order to deal with it.

BRITISH ARE SELLING OBSOLETE WARSHIPS

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

London, November 21.—(Special Cable.)—Now that the Indomitable, a battle cruiser, has been placed on the list "for sale" process of weeding out all of the earlier built dreadnoughts will begin in earnest in the British navy. The Indomitable herself is marked down for early disposal, in company with the Bellerophon and the Superb, while a sister ship, the Temeraire, now serving as a schoolship for naval cadets, is expected to share the same fate.

PAN-GERMANS PAY FINE OF HELFFERICH

Berlin, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Pan-German friends in Bremen of Dr. Karl Helfferich, the former German vice chancellor, have telegraphed him 900 marks with which to meet the fine imposed upon him for his refusal several days ago to answer questions, propounded by the subcommittee of the national assembly which is inquiring into war responsibilities.

"Bremen citizens regard your affair as the people's affairs," said the message accompanying the money.

ANTI-BRITISH MATTER IN REGARD TO EGYPT

London, November 21.—In the house of commons today Edward Shortt, home secretary, referred to the immense amount of anti-British propaganda with reference to Egypt purporting to emanate from the American press and circulated here in the form of pamphlets. He declared that it was most difficult to take action looking to the suppression of these publications. He explained that seditious utterances and allegations of atrocities by British soldiers were first distributed to newspapers in the United States by propaganda bureaus there and were clipped from these papers and republished in Great Britain as opinions expressed by the American newspapers.

WAR DEPARTMENT REVERSES POLICY

Baker Charges the Tool Builders' Association Is Attempting to Prevent Sale of Surplus Army Stocks.

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, November 21.—The war department today reversed itself on a policy which for months prevented the American consumers from obtaining the benefit of the surplus stocks of food, clothing and other necessaries accumulated by the army during the period of the war.

The American canning industries and other interests were the beneficiaries of a policy set forth by Mr. Baker that "every effort will be made to prevent a disturbance of the American market in the disposal of surplus army stocks," and it was not until investigation by market, and announces that the congress had forced another course that this attitude was abandoned.

Today the war department charges the National Machine Tool Builders' association with bringing pressure to bear on congress to prevent machine tools held by the government from reaching the American present policy of the war department is "to give the American people the opportunity to derive any benefit that may insure to them through the sale of these surlus stocks."

Bring Pressure on Congress.

"Attention has recently been invited," says the department statement, "to the pressure that is being brought by members of the National Machine Tool Builders' association upon members of the congress to have the legislative branch of the government direct the athempt to market as large a part as possible of its surplus of machine tools in European countries."

The war department has a large stock of surplus machine tools. It is attempting to market these tools to the best advantage of the government, and, with this obpect in view, is offering machine tools for sale both at home and abroad. By contract, dated September 5, last, it sold to Belgian manufacturers, in whose interest the Belgian governments had established considerable credit through American financiers, more that 2,500 machine tools, which are now being selected by Belgian representatives and put in transit; it is negotiating with the French government for the sale of an additional large number of machine tools held by the war department in the United States.

Strong Demand.

But there is a strong demand on the part of American users of machine tools for certain types of tools of which the war department has a stock. The American manufacturers need these tools to increase their production and enhance the wealth of the nation. They are willing to pay good prices for those which they desire to acquire. The department stands ready to sell its surplus stock of machine tools to these domestic users. It is filling its machine tool orders in the sequence of their receipt. No machine tool is being held off the market to be applied upon the Belgian contract. Tools are consigned to that contract only after they have been actually selected by the Belgian representatives.

"The surplus supplies held by the war department were acquired with funds furnished by the American people; the war department proposes to give the American people the opportunity to derive any benefit that may inure to them through the sale of these surplus stocks."

ENTHUSIASM HIGH AMONG COTTON MEN

Governor Hugh M. Dorsey called the meeting to order and presided at both morning and afternoon sessions.

Much enthusiasm was developed and the local organization of more than half of the counties in the state was reported, but owing to the fact that many of the delegates were compelled to leave early in the afternoon in order to catch trains, organization of the state was deferred for a later meeting to be called at a near date in Macon.

Lever Strikes Keynote.

Former Congressman Lever struck the keynote as to the purpose of the organization when he declared that he would never be satisfied until conditions of living in the country had been made equal to that in the city by giving the farmer a higher return for his labor, thereby enabling him to take his women out of the fields and to educate his children. The movement from farm to city might be checked and by that way only, he said.

Both Mr. Lever and President Wannamaker declared that the problem of cotton was a serious concern just now not only to the southern farmer, but to the entire world. The demand for our staple has been enormously increased and word has gone out from the cotton spinners that 35,000,000 bales would be the minimum needed to supply the world's needs next year instead of the 23,000,000 bales which was the average yearly production of the world.

Mr. Wannamaker said that the cotton speculators of Liverpool and New York had gotten themselves into a position unprecedented in their experience. He told how the sellers in the Liverpool market of July cotton had been forced at enormous losses to have their contracts extended to October because it was impossible to get the cotton to fill them, and how, in October, a continuance of the same situation had brought them to the most serious crisis of their lives.

Not Enough Cotton.

"There is not enough cotton in existence in the world," he added, "to fill the contracts of the shorts. There are now only 12,000 bales of certified cotton in New York to fill orders for cotton sold aggregating more than 1,000,000 bales. New York has Liverpool by the throat. Explanatory of the slump in the New York cotton market last week, I received this telegram from a man in that city:

"'The bulls and bears have joined hands to permit the bears to get the cotton they have sold so that they may be able to deliver it to the bulls. I know of one southern firm which offered $2,000,000 in New York recently in order to be allowed to cancel contracts for December cotton to be delivered at 25 cents a pound and they were turned down.'

"Any man who sells spot cotton under existing conditions is a fool unthinkable. No organization in the world is now attracting the attention that is being given the American Cotton association, because the world is beginning to realize that the cotton farmer has at last the situation in his own hands. I have asked the cotton farmers to hold back 2,000,000 bales from the market and have been roundly charged with encouraging profiteering for doing it, but if you will do this you will be able to name your own price."

Cotton Worth More.

Mr. Wannamaker said that the president of the New England cotton manufacturers had told him that they could pay 50 cents for cotton and make money.

"The south is at last coming into her own," he added. "Nine-tenths of the clothing of the world is made from cotton, and the world must be clothed. You were paid during the last eleven years thirteen billions of dollars for your cotton against seventeen billions for the wheat growers of the west. This is why land is selling at $500 per acre in Iowa and $1,000 per acre in Egypt against $60 per acre here. Back this movement and you will live to see farm lands in Georgia bringing $800 an acre, Georgia white women taken out of the cotton fields, equal advantages of education offered to your children as compared with those of the city, and well-painted, well-lighted and well-furnished farm cottages dotting every hilltop in your state."

Cotton Organizations.

Mr. Wannamaker told of the plans of a meeting to be held in Columbia on December 2. He said that it was proposed to build warehouses in every South Carolina county and to organize a cotton bank in that state similar to the one proposed by Governor Dorsey for Georgia. He gave his unqualified support to the Dorsey plan and urged those present to take stock in it, as it would greatly aid in carrying out the warehouse projects of the association.

A resolution offered by State Organizer D. F. McClatchey at the morning meeting asking that Governor Dorsey be invited to explain the prospectus of the cotton bank, was unanimously adopted, but owing to his having to catch a train to keep an engagement in Atlanta, the governor did not have time to do so.

John B. Cannon, of Spartanburg, prominent South Carolina banker, aroused much enthusiasm by his description of the success of organization in Spartanbug county. It was told how $150,000 for a bonded warehouse was raised in a single day from farmers and how this amount was underwritten to the extent of half a million by local bankers and business men, and four weeks ago the warehouse put into operation.

Hold From Market.

"Today in Spartanbug county," Mr. Cannon continued, "when cotton goes below 40 cents not a bale is offered on the market. Ten thousand bales are stored in our warehouse; our banks lend 30 cents a pound on this cotton, charging 7 per cent interest."

Mr. Nixon told of the advantages offered by the federal warehouse act, and declared that hte Washington department would be glad to furnish information to county organizations starting warehouses and give them any aid possible. The last speaker of the afternoon session was Representative Harvie Jordan, of Jasper county, who pointed out some defects in the present system of grading and also of compressing cotton.

Morning Session.

The principal event of the morning session was the address of former Congressman Lever, who is now chairman of the federal farm loan bank board. While waiting for Mr. Lever to arrive, Governor Dorsey as chairman presented J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, who made the opening speech of the day.

Mr. Brown reviewed briefly the history of marketing conditions for cotton since 1914, showing how the terrible collapse in the market caused by the outbreak of war in Europe had compelled southern farmers, in defense of their very existence, to create some sort of an organization. At that time guaranteed prices were fixed by the government on every important farm product except cotton. Farmers of the north and west had been taken care of while the southern planter was left face to face with want, being compelled to urge people to take his product at almost any price.

While prices improved in 1915 and 1916, owing to the inadequacy of the production to meet the greatly increased demand for cotton, brought about by the war, our farmers were still at a great disadvantage compared with those of other sections. In 1917 we began to be squeezed between the upper and nether millstones of organized labor and organized capital and in the fall of that year cotton sank below 20 cents, he said.

Begin Holding Movement.

Then it was that the holding movement began. The cotton manufacturers were making more money than they ever had done before and could then have paid 30 cents per pound for cotton and made money. They answered our holding movement with a proposition to fix prices for cotton, which we opposed because we knew the source from which they came. Two bills were introduced in congress, one fixing the price at 15 and the other at 20 cents per pound. Governor Allen, of Kansas, went so far as to threaten us with prosecution under the Sherman act.

"We defied them" Mr. Brown continued "and we have won the victory. You have seen cotton already selling this fall at 41¼ cents per pound. The brief history that I have outlined explains the reason for the American Cotton association and justifies it. About a year ago R. S. Neely, of Waynesboro, suggested the idea of a great cotton bank, and that idea has been taken up and put into shape by Governor Dorsey, and we expect to make it a concrete fact. Cotton must be stabilized and we of the south, who are interested, will see that it is done."

Mr. Lever was given an ovation on his entrance into the hall. He was presented by Governor Dorsey as the man who, during his service in congress as chairman of the committee on agriculture, had been instrumental in the enactment of legislation of more importance to the farmers than any other in this generation.

Lever's Speech.

Mr. Lever said, in part:

"Our entire social, industrial and economic life is bound up in cotton. An adequate price for that product means better paid teachers and preachers, better schools, better roads, better homes and better everything else that makes life worth while. It is not surprising that Dr. Cree told you that 40-cent cotton would make certain the success of the $75,000,000 campaign of the Baptists. There is a close connection between the two.

"Year after year the growing tendency of the movement from country to town has been noted and many schemes have been proposed to check it. There is but one way to do it, and that is to make living conditions in the country equal to those in town. I shall not join the back-to-the-country movement until that is done.

"There is no more tragic or pathetic figure in American life than the average country woman. See her bowed under her tremendous tasks, milking the cows, tending the chickens, superintending at the slaughter of the hogs, keeping the house and nursing the babies, with no opportunities except possibly to go to church once a month and to town once a year, and you need not wonder why the boys and girls leave the country."

Social Unrest.

Mr. Lever referred to the unrest prevalent in the country and continued:

"The remedy for all this unrest is the conversion as rapidly as we can of every homeless man in America into a home-owning man. Sixty-five per cent of the men in America are now homeless; 47 per cent of our farmers are tenant farmers. I want to see the time come when every American farmer can walk into his house and say, 'This is my own home.' The man who owns something has something to fight for. The cotton question from the southern point of view is the most vital question in the country today."

Mr Lever referred to the problem of immigration and declared that if he were still a member of congress he would vote "for such a tight immigration law that a cambric needle could not get through it." He would give all foreign-born persons already here, he said, ten years in which to learn English, and if they did not in that time he would charter ships to send them back home. If they could not love the Stars and Stripes they should be sent back to live under a flag that they could love.

The speaker said that this was the first time in history when every interest in the south had joined to protect the farmers' interests in cotton, the banker, the merchant, the professional and business man having at last realized that cotton was not the farmer's product alone.

"If the farmers should go on a strike one month," he added, "for a six-hour day and a five-day week, every business institution in the south should be compelled to close. Heretofore the man who produced it has been the only man who touched cotton that has had a voice in its price. A large element of the blame for this rests upon you farmers yourselves, and it is through the instrumentality of the American Cotton association that we expect to find the means of changing this condition."

Federal Banking Act.

Here Mr. Lever gave a brief account of the federal reserve bank act, the farmers' loan bank act and the federal warehouse act, the three most important pieces of legislation, he said, that had been enacted since Lee's surrender so far as the southern farmer is concerned. The warehouse act, of which scarcely anybody had even heard, has really put into the hands of the planters the instrument which was to make them free. To carry out the terms of this act and provide bonded cotton warehouses in every county, owned and operated by the farmers and business men of that county, is the goal towards which the American Cotton association is striving.

"That will give you a chance to feel for the first time in your life that the cotton which you and your wife and babies have made and picked is really your cotton," he declared. "Then you will be able to market your product throughout the year on terms which you shall have some voice in choosing instead of forcing seventy per cent of it to market between September and December, when the price is lowest. There will always be a certain amount of distress cotton which must be sold during these months, and consequently it is all the more important to make it possible to hold back a large part of the crop for later marketing."

The opening invocation was by the Rev. Dr. R. E. Douglas, of the First Presbyterian church of Macon. Dr. A. C. Cree, secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Baptist convention, thanked the cotton association organizers for postponing their meeting until after the Baptist convention. He said that the seventy-five million dollar drive which the Baptists of the south were making for church extension throughout the world gave them a special interest in the aim of the cotton association, as forty-cent cotton would assure its success.

IMMENSE HOLDING CONCERN PLANNED

chamber of commerce a fund of $1,000,000 or more should be raised, 20 per cent of which could be drawn upon each year, and that this fund could be used for financing undercapitalized industries, or concerns that wished to expand. He declared that stock could be taken in the concerns so aided, allowing the industry the privilege of buying the stock back when desired. He stated that all industries that wished to be benefitted under such a plan should be thoroughly investigated not only as to responsibility and potential ability to pay its way, but should also be investigated as to its economical value to the city.

Plan Survey of Conditions.

The plan also carries with it a general survey of the industrial conditions of Atlanta, looking into the labor situation, schools, housing facilities, amusements, and general conditions liable to effect industries.

The motion was seconded by R. W. Barnwell, who highly favored the plan, and by B. H. Collins, of the Security Sales company, who said that the south needed financing concerns in order to encourage the location of industries.

Other members of the board favored the plan in a discussion that preceded its being put to the house, and when the motion was voted on it was unanimously adopted.

The meeting of the industrial promotion committee of the chamber of commerce was called together by Chairman James L. Logan, who said that his object in bringing the members together was to ask for a renewal of the Atlanta spirit, and to stimulate the committee, as a part of the chamber of commerce, to get into action with a view toward making Atlanta the city it should be from an industrial standpoint. He declared that he wanted to place before the committee the questions of securing an appropriation for the work from the chamber of commerce, and to secure a fund for advertising the city.

Conditions Discussed.

Spirited discussion followed the statement of Mr. Logan and many of the committeemen present, as well as Secretary Robinson, of the chamber of commerce, said that a general campaign of advertising was not the best, as it served largely to attract undesirables, and would prove of no practical value to the city.

It was also pointed out that the best plan to be adopted was to raise a fund for the purpose and then seek out the enterprises that would prove of economical worth to the city, and to have a commission to go after those industries. In this way, it was explained, there would be no lost motion, and the city would secure only those industries that would be beneficial to the city as well as profitable to the enterprise.

Work Is Indorsed.

Mr. Logan read letters from members of the committee indorsing the work he proposes to accomplish through the committee of industrial promotion, and the chairman also called attention to a number of prospective enterprises that are now seeking Atlanta locations. Mr. Logan told of the enormous benefits that would accrue to Atlanta by pushing the work that this committee has undertaken, and showed something of the potential value of the body to Atlanta. Recounting the efforts that have been made by him as a member of the real estate board, and going into the history of the movement to promote industrial life in the city for the past four years, Mr. Logan called upon the committee for earnest co-operation.

In the general discussion that followed the address of the chairman by several members of the committee, which is made up of prominent business men of the city, a number of expressions were made concerning the general situation in Atlanta.

R. K. Rambo, of the John Silvey company, stressed the need of bringing industries to the city that would prove beneficial to Atlanta and that would profit by being located here. He said that Atlanta now needs a finishing plant for such cotton goods as are made into underwear by northern mills and shipped back here with the cost of freight rates both ways. "The goods that are made into B. V. D.'s," said he, "are finished in other cities, when they could be finished and manufactured here just as well." Mr. Rambo also said that a comfort factory, manufacturing these articles from linters, should be here. There are millions of dollars worth of these comforts sold each year, he declared, and Atlanta should have her part in the industry.

Congestion Is Shown.

Bolling H. Jones spoke of the congested housing conditions that face the people of this city, and of the importance of having houses for labor when inviting industries to come to the city. Mr. Jones also spoke of the value of colored labor, and said that the people of Atlanta should have more consideration to the proper treatment of colored people here. He said that they should be provided with facilities for amusement, and allowed to pursue happy and comfortable lives.

A big building to be erected by the business men of the city in which a big exhibition of the manufactured articles made here could be displayed was also advocated by Postmaster Jones. He gave a plan by which such a building could be constructed, and showed by the example of such an enterprise in Evansville, Ind., that it would be of immense value to the city.

R. W. Barnwell, a prominent realty man, spoke briefly, paying a tribute to the efforts that have been made by Mr. Logan in seeking to interest outside organizations in locating in Atlanta, and said that the chamber of commerce would undoubtedly co-operate with the movement to expand the industrial life of the city.

Vice President W. H. Miller, of the Southern railway, spoke interestingly, saying that the good points in the city should be dwelt upon, and the few objections and drawbacks that can be picked out should not be mentioned so much. He told of the many advantages Atlanta now has, and advocated in addition to the present advantages the erection of a large bonded warehouse, where merchants could store goods, and withdraw them when needed, or use the certificates for financing.

Future Most Promising.

Mr. Miller said that the railroad he represents has expended many millions preparing for greater traffic in the years that are to come, and declared that the future of the south is most promising. Atlanta, he said, is the gateway of the great south, and predicted a wonderful future for this section. He said that the sympathy of the Southern railway is with industrial development of Atlanta and the south, and that the railroad could be relied upon to assist wherever possible.

Robert S. Wessels, of the Pittsburg Plate Glass company, spoke of the labor situation, and agreed with Postmaster Jones that something more must be done for the colored laborers. The colored people are not allowed to go to parks and have no amusements, and he said that there is also mighty little that the white man can do in Atlanta after his labor is finished. "We must widen out on this question," said he, "if we expect to hold labor. We are a little too tight!"

M. L. Thrower, a prominent realty man, said that he agreed with Messrs Jones and Wessels that the colored people were not given sufficient facilities for pleasure, but declared that a park had been donoted to the colored people by the churches committee, and said that the industrial promotion should get busy and get the city and county to fix it up for colored people. He said that the colored people were leaving the city and that they would continue to leave unless Atlanta allowed them to live peacefully and happily as they could in other cities.

Mr. Thrower also spoke of the housing conditions in the city and said that more houses would have to be erected and more liberality shown.

Wants Open Shop.

J. F. Trazzare, of the Employers' association, spoke on the labor situation and said Atlanta must go on record as favoring the open shop. He said that all prospective industries asked particularly about the labor situation when seeking locations.

Dr. W. J. Blalock, president of the Fulton National bank, spoke of the increased banking facilities of the city, saying that when his bank moved into its present quarters in 1912 the deposits of the Atlanta banks were about $30,000,000. Today he declared the deposits in the banks of this city will total $114,000,000, as evidenced by the figures of last Friday.

At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was given James L. Logan, chairman, for the splendid dinner he had provided, and he was congratulated upon the great movements that he has inaugurated for Atlanta's upbuilding.

Those present were: James L. Logan, chairman; R. W. Barnwell; H. P. Hermance, W. T. Perkerson, Dr. W. J. Blalock, John E. Murphy, W. C. Wardlaw, Norman C. Miller, J. E. Mellett, B. H. Collins, M. M. Emmert, R. K. Rambo, R. S. Wessels, M. L. Thrower, J. F. Trazzare, J. W. Leroux, Henry W. Miller, W. M. Clemens, Bolling H. Jones.

Attempt to Derail Seminole Limited; Officials Probing

Americus, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Several crossties placed on the Central of Georgia tracks near LaCrosse, in Sumter county, derailed the engine of the Seminole Limited today, but no one was hurt and the property damage was light.

Sheriff Harvey, who investigated the affair, is of tthe opinion that the obstruction was placed on the tracks by persons who hoped to rob tourist passengers on board. There is no clue as to the identity of the miscreants.

Investigation in Progress.

Macon, Ga., November 21.—Central of Georgia railroad officials are investigating an attempt in Sumter county early today to wreck the Seminole Limited, presumably for the purpose of robbing the Chicago-Jacksonville tourist train. At the little town of LaCrosse ties had been placed upon the track. The locomotive of the southbound Seminole Limited was derailed, but no one was injured.

KILLED BY FIRE TRUCK ON RUN IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—William Laurel, of South Carolina, ran into the middle of the street ahead of Associate Fire Crief Toshach's car as the department was on a fast run to a Canal and Indian street fire today, it is said, and was instantly killed.

Many Entertain At Dinner-Dance.

The first of the series of dinner-dances to be given during the winter at the Georgian Terrace took place last evening and was the occasion of assembling many bright parties. The rose dining room and palm room were decorated with flowers and palms, and the music was unusually good.

Among those entertaining was Mr. and Mrs. George Walker their guest of honor, Mrs. Trimpi, of New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCall entertained a party of eight, celebrating the birthday of their son, Captain Howard McCall. Mayor Graham Johnston entertained a party of six, and Mrs. Gordon Smith entertained six guests. Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Carroll entertained a party of six, and Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Lyle had six in their party.

Mrs. Benjamin Smith entertained a bright party. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Beidler, of Chicago entertained six guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Werner Byck had ten guests in their party, their table in the small private dining room. Many others joined the dinner parties afterward, and the regular dancing began afterward.

A feature of entertainment was the fancy dancing of Solomonoff, the Russian dancer, and Josephine Chaffin, who interpreted the Hungarian Rhapsody.

A very interesting and amusing feature was an American classical jazz by Virginia McRee, Katherine Jones, Anne Faulkner and Elizabeth Leopold.

South Georgia Conference Notes

Dublin, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Rev. J. M. Bass has had a year of wonderful success as general evangelist. He has held 14 meetings and had 1,204 accessions to the church on profession of faith. During the year he conducted revival services at Oklahoma City, Mangrum, Okla.; Charleston, W. Va.; Elkins, W. Va.; Little Rock, Ark.; Moultrie, Hartwell and LaGrange, and a number of other cities.

Rev. J. E. Sampley reports a good year on the Soperton circuit. This circuit was formed three years ago and paid $700. This year it paid more than $2,000 for ministerial support, and has raised for all purposes $5,555. Two churches have been remodeled, a number of family altars erected and 112 accessions to the church on profession of faith.

A delightful social feature of the conference was the banquet at the New Dublin hotel for the conference class of 1910. The members of this class are Revs. Paul Mushe, Columbus; J. F. McCord, Oliver; H. T. Freeman, Marshallville; S. C. Olliff, Macon; J. D. Smith, president of South Georgia college, McRae; C. M. Infinger, Mitchell; Silas Johnson, Americus; A. J. Moore, Macon; J. A. Sconyers, Perry; and G. W. Hutchinson, Hazelhurst. During the nine years there have been 7,386 additions to the church under the ministry of the members of this class.

Secretary's Report.

The corresponding secretary of the Sunday school board of the Episcopal church, south, makes the following encouraging report:

"Since the general board met in 1918 our Sunday school work has been seriously interrupted in consequence of the distraction of war, the scourge of influenza, and the concentration of our forces upon the centenary task. The Sunday school statistics for the year follow:

"Number of schools, 1,670; officers and teachers, 145,065; pupils, 1,647; total enrollment, 1,792,574. During the year 57,484 Sunday school pupils have joined the church. The minutes of the annual conferences show that there was contributed for missions in the Sunday schools during 1918 $260,978, an increase of $18,253 over 1917. The Sunday school offerings amounted to $54,360, an increase of $11,272 over the previous year.

"During the year there have been enrolled as students in the standard training course 8,380 students. This is an increase of 7,987 over last year. The real significance, however, of this number of enrollments is not in the numerical increase so much as in the improvement in the character of the work, in the proportion of classes that have been organized with evident determination to prosecute the study of the course, and in the number who are actually taking the examinations.

"The number of certificates for successful examinations issued by the department this year is 4,066."

FIGHT ON ILLITERACY PLANNED FOR FULTON

County Committee Will Hold Meeting at State Capital This Morning.

The campaign to reduce illiteracy in Fulton county will be put actively under way at a meeting of the Fulton county committee which will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the office of Governor Dorsey at the capitol.

Already more than sixty counties in Georgia have been organized to begin blotting out illiteracy and more than 5,000 students have entered the illiteracy classes.

The last census shows that there are 825 illiterate white voters in Fulton county and a total number of 2,500 white persons 10 years old and over, all of whom are illiterate. Educational aid to all these will be undertaken by the Fulton county organization.

Members of the executive committee are Governor Dorsey, C. J. Haden and M. D. Brittain, state superintendent of schools.

The members of the county committee are John A. Manget, chairman; Dave Woodward, Joseph A. McCord, J. Epps Brown, Allen Johnson, John J. Eagan, Jacob Elsas, Evan E. Allen, W. F. Dykes, Harry Schlesinger, J. W. Simmons, Asa G. Candler, Dr. C. B. Wilmer, F. S. Etheridge, Dr. M. Ashby Jones and W. M. Nixon.

138,997 BOTTLES OF "NEAR-BEER" GO INTO SEWER

Zion City, Ill., November 21.—From a platform six feet high 138,997 bottles of 2.75 per cent beer today were emptied into a specially built trough that ran to an open sewer.

Mayor W. H. Clendenin poured the first bottle and Chief of Police Becker and his aides finished the operations. The ceremony was postponed several days ago to permit construction of the platform and trough so as to prevent "contamination" of the city's streets. The empty bottles were sold to a junk dealer for $2,148.

The beer was ordered destroyed by Judge Claire C. Edwards, of the Waukegan circuit court, after it had been confiscated when seized from smugglers from Wisconsin.

SEWANEE CADETS WILL BE LODGED IN PUTNAM HOUSE

Sewanee, Tenn., November 21.—Announcement was made today by the Right Rev. A. W. Knight, vice chancellor of the University of the South, that the Putnam House, Palatka, Fla., has been engaged for the accommodation of the Sewanee Military academy for the balance of the session, and would be opened January 3, the burning of the main barracks of the academy at Sewanee having necessitated the securing of other quarters.

MACON IS UNWORRIED BY SHORTAGE OF COAL

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—There is little likelihood of many Macon manufacturiing plants having to shut down because of the dropping of manufacturers in the southeast from the priority list of coal consumers. A canvass of the local situation shows that a majority of the larger manufacturing plants obtain their supply of electric current from the Central Georgia Power company, which has a big power dam at Jackson, on the Ocmulgee river.

Most of those plants which operate by steam have at least a month's supply of coal on hand. A large amount of steam coal which was on hand at Camp Wheeler when the government discontinued the camp found its way in the hands of large consumers here and right now it is proving a Godsend.

FUNERAL FOR MOORE AT SPARTA SATURDAY

Sparta, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Judge Wellborne Moore, who was killed in an auto accident at Haddock yesterday, will be buried at Sparta Saturday morning. It is reported an election will be called shortly to name is successor as representative from Hancock county.

BIG PACKERS UNFAIR, ACCORDING TO COLVER

Atlantic City, N. J., November 21. William B. Colver, member of the federal trade commission, today charged the big meat packers with using unfair methods in answering his attack upon them.

The charge was made in an address to the American Specialty Manufacturers' association, in convention here.

Mr. Colver said:

"The wholesale grocers are contesting the invasion of the packers in a hard-fought suit before the interstate commerce commission. It is not only the merchandising, but also the manufacture of unrelated food products that lie in the line of their march. The momentum of a great organization and of great resources, and the willingness to operate at a loss while gaining a foothold makes their appearance in any line a real cause for apprehension.

"For pointing these things out the commission has incurred the wrath of the Chicago packers. Their press agents, their lawyers, their economists and their lobby have filled the air with charges against the commission, but they do not deny, nor can they disprove the things I say today.

"Abuse takes the place of statements. They have charged the members of the commission with conspiracy and with what amounts to treason. We have replied and have demanded and now demand any proof of the charges made by Senator Sherman last July. But no proof is offered. Meantime are the packers guilty of a conspiracy in meat packing and of ruthless invasion of scores of other lines of industry, or are they not? Are they a public blessing or a national menace? These are the questions that are important to you and to the public generally."

Murderous Assault Charged by Chauffeur To Chief Law Enforcer

Montgomery, Ala., November 21.—Conrad W. Austin, chief of the law enforcement department of Alabama, appointed recently by Governor Kilby, was notified today by the court of common pleas that a warrant had been sworn out for his arrest, charging assault with intent to murder. The warrant was sworn out by George Miller, an automobile chauffeur, and it is claimed that Mr. Austin fired into the automobile driven by Miller, thus endangering his life. Mr. Austin laughed when told of the warrant and said he knew nothing about it.

Mr. Austin was later placed under arrest and Governor Kilby and State Insurance Commissioner A. W. Briscoe signed his bond to appear in court December 2. Bond was for $300.

WORLD WAR OFFICERS ORGANIZE AT MACON

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—A chapter of the American Officers of the World War is to be organized here on December 2, the organization being open to officers of all ranks. Committee to arrange the details of the meeting and also to pass on memberships have already been named and during the next two weeks a campaign will be carried on to reach the quota of members required by the general staff of the organization, which has headquarters at Detroit, Mich.

The organization will take part in reconstruction work, further local, state and national undertakings and will devote a good deal of attention to social activities. It is strictly non-partisan as far as politics is concerned. It is understood plans have been made for the organization of 140 local chapters on December 2. It is not proposed the organization shall conflict in any way with the American Legion.

Dr. Proctor to Preach.

There will be a special service for young men at the First Congregational church, colored, Sunday night, when Dr. H. H. Proctor will deliver the substance of the address he gave to 100,000 colored soldiers in France, on "The Five Points of Manhood." There will be three other 4-minute speakers an live topics. One hundred young men from the colleges are invited to take part. The Camp Gordon orchestra will assist in the rich musical program provided, in which a number of vocal artists will be heard. At 11 a. m. Dr. Proctor will preach on the subject, "Speak Out!" There will be a special Endeavor Thanksgiving program at 7 p. m.

Two Killed by Explosion.

Two men were killed in an explosion at the Black Powder mill of the Grassell Powder plant, Lowellville, Ohio, near here late today, when a spark from machinery ignited powder in one of the manufacturing huts at the plant. The property damage was confined to the hut.

TENNESSEE LADY RUN-DOWN

And Hurt in Side of Her Head—Is Benefited by the Use of ZIRON Iron Tonic.

After severe illness, overwork, worry, grief, accidents, etc., the greatest need of the weakened system is a tonic that gives quick, dependable strength. In such cases, try Ziron Iron Tonic.

Ziron is a pleasant medicine, having the strengthening effects of iron with other valuable building ingredients. Read what Mrs. Emma Manus, of Lascassas, Tenn., says about it:

"I was weak and run-down, not able to do my work. My trouble was all in the side of my head. I heard of Ziron and got a bottle, and I am glad to say it has done me more good than anything. Ziron is a splendid tonic."

Try Ziron. It may be just the medicine you need. Ziron contains no habit-forming drugs. It is a safe, reliable tonic, good for children, men and women.

Your Blood Needs ZIRON

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

HEADACHE

Caused by Acid-Stomach

Yes, indeed, more often than you think. Because ACID-STOMACH, starting with indigestion, heartburn, belching, food-repeating, bloat and gas, if not checked, will eventually affect every vital organ of the body. Severe, blinding, splitting headaches are, therefore, of frequent occurrence as a result of this up set condition.

Take EATONIC. It quickly banishes acid-stomach with its sour bloat, pain and gas.

It aids digestion—helps the stomach get full strength from every mouthful of food you eat. Millions of people are miserable, weak, sick and ailing because of ACID-STOMACH. Poisons, created by partly digested food charged with acid, are absorbed into the blood and distributed throughout the entire system. This often causes rheumatism, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, heart trouble, ulcers and even cancer of the stomach. It robs its victims of their health, undermines the strength of the most vigorous.

If you want to get back your physical and mental strength—be full of vim and vigor—enjoy life and be happy, you must ret rid of your acid-stomach.

In EATONIC you will find the very help you need and it's guaranteed. So get a big 50c box from your druggist today. If it fails to please you, return it and he will refund your money.

HOSPITAL REPORT MADE AT DUBLIN

Major Guinn Explains the Larger Wesley Plan. Treasurer Urges Centenary Funds Collection at Early Date.

By Rev. W. A. Brooks.

Dublin, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Major R. J. Guinn, of Atlanta, gave an encouraging account this morning at the South Georgia Methodist conference of the work of the Wesley Memorial enterprises. A new building for the Wesley Memorial hospital is to be erected on the campus of Emory university, he said. When this hospital is erected and equipped it will be the best hospital south of Johns Hopkins.

Speaking of the medical department of Emory university and the shortage of practicing physicians, Bishop Candler declared that "doctors are becoming so scarce that it is difficult for the average man to shed his appendix."

The conference centenary treasurer, W. R. Rogers, of Macon, was introduced today to the conference and urged prompt collections of the centenary pledges. Rev. E. M. Sanders, of Statenville, was located at his own request, and Rev. P. T. Holloway, of Sasser, returned Y. M. C. A. secretary, thrilled the conference by relating some experiences which occurred while he was in France Request has been made for the appointment of Rev. W. G. Allaben, of Arkington, to Y. M. C. A. work.

The board of finance has apportioned $16,400 to the superannuated ministers and to the widows and orphans of deceased preachers. The board will be able to pay this year $125 on each apportionment.

Pastors' Reports.

An offering was mdae to liquidate a mortgage on the home of Rev. C. C. Hines, an honored superannuated minister of Helena. The pastors from the Americus, Columbus and Cordele districts made their reports today, and it was shown that the present year has been one of great spiritual prosperity among Methodists in south Georgia. Reports from seven other districts are yet to be made.

Rev. Silas Johnson, of Americus, preached to a large congregation this afternoon. This evening the anniversary of the church extension board was held, Dr. S. A. Neblitt, of Nashville, Tenn., being the principal speaker.

Early morning services held each day at the conference are highly inspirational and edifying. The present session of the conference is one of the most deeply spiritual and impressive in the history of the institution.

Revs. Marvin Vincent, Norman M. Loving, Edward P. Drake, J. Lytle Jones, Asbury W. Quillian and C. A. Morrison were elected to elders' orders. Revs. Quincy J. Pinson, J. S. Sharpe and E. A. Heath, of this class, are in orders. Revs. L. E. Brady and B. C. Pritchett were continued in the class of the third year. Rev. W. L. Wright, of Hawkinsville, has been called home on account of the critical illness of his father. Among the young ministers who make most excellent reports of their labors are Rev. Luther A. Harrell, of Butler, and Rev. George F. Erwin, of Damascus.

JONES IS APPOINTED CONGRESS DIRECTOR

Atlanta Man Made Assistant Director of Southern Commercial Congress.

Appointment of John Ashley Jones, of Atlanta, as assistant director of the Southern Commercial congress, which convenes in Savannah on December 8, has been announced by Dr. Clarence J. Owens, director general of the congress. Mr. Jones, who is state agent of the New York Life Insurance company, has been secretary of the insurance division of the congress for a number of years.

Upon Mr Jones will devolve the duty of assuring a full attendance of commissioned delegates from the state. Governor Dorsey will commission 100 delegates and many more will be named by mayors of various municipalities.

Mr. Jones will communicate with these officials and learn definitely whether the delegates in their territory designated by the governor will be able to attend the congress and he will also ask on behalf of the director general that other delegations composed of those interested in the purpose of the congress be appointed by the executives of the different cities.

The congress will be in session through December 10. Several thousand delegates will assemble in Savannah for the congress, and to the platform will come 100 men and women of national and international renown, including foreign diplomats and trade commissioners, members of the cabinet and of the congress of the United States, governors of states and a group of experts to discuss economic subjects relating to the south.

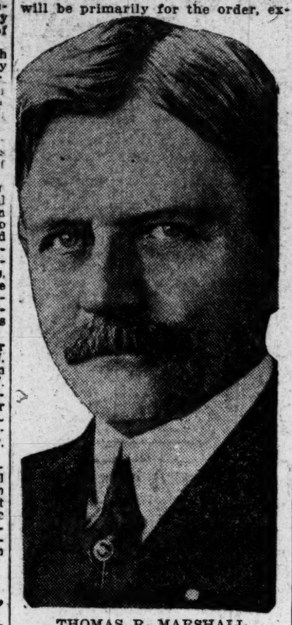

The congress will be presided over by Honorary President Duncan U. Fletcher, United States senator from Florida, and President Robert W. Bingham, of Louisville. The woman's auxiliary will be presided over by Miss Louise G. Lindsley, of Nashville, Tenn., and the house of southern governors by Governor Dorsey, chairman of the house.

Among the chief topics of interest to come before the congress will be the south's part in the American merchant marine; the south's part in the solution of the economic problems of the nation; and the extension of the trade of the southern states with aLtin-American countries.

MARSHALL HERE ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Vice President of United States Will Deliver Lecture at Auditorium Under Auspices of Order of Moose.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall will arrive in Atlanta Sunday morning for an address that he will deliver Sunday night at 8 o'clock in the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose. The vice president's address will be primarily for the order, explaining its motives and work, but will be an address of universal interest, and the public is invited to attend.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL

Mr. Marshall comes to Atlanta from Columbus, where he speaks today, and will be met at the terminal station tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock by a delegation headed by Governor Hugh M. Dorsey, who will escort the distinguished visitor to the Piedmont hotel, where he will make headquarters during his stay in the city. Representative citizens of Atlanta will compose the committee of welcome that will accompany the governor as an escort to Mr. Marshall.

William Truckett Giles, the supreem lecturer of the Loyal Order of Moose, will be in the vice president's party, as will be Colonel Frank P. Morton, who has recently been appointed district supervisor of Georgia, with headquarters in Atlanta. Colonel Morton left for Columbus last night, to be present at Mr. Marshall's address there tonight, and will return to Atlanta with the party.

The address of the vice president is expected to be unusually well attended, as the opinions and judgments of so renowned a man as Mr. Marshall are of invaluable interest at this time in the country's post-war restlessness. It is thought that Mr. Marshall will touch in his talk upon the probabilities and possibilities that are now centered about the peace treaty and the legislative activities of the session of congress that convenes on December 1.

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international fraternal organization with more than fifteen hundred ada, and throughout all the Engada, an throughout all the English-speaking nations of the world. The vice president, who is an active and energetic member of the order, has been identified with the organization for many years, and is making a limited number of addresses in behalf of the order for the purpose of telling the people in the various parts of the country the history, work and motives of the order, and explaining its benefits.

He does not, however, confine his addresses absolutely to his set subject, it is said, for he realizes that the people are anxious to hear from him expressions on topics of national interest that are foremost in the public mind.

Prior to his election as vice president of the United States, Mr. Marshall was governor of Indiana, serving in that capacity for four years, from 1909 until 1913. Mr. Marshall is known as one of the foremost legal authorities in the United States, having had a large practice in Indiana for many years before his election to the governor's chair of the state.

The Loyal Order of Moose of Atlanta extends to every citizen of Atlanta, and to all who are in the city Sunday night, a cordial invitation to hear the address of Vice President Marshall.

GOVERNMENT WILL FIX PRICES, SAYS MANGET

Committee Fails to Act on Manget's Recommendation in Regard to Meats.

"If we don't stop it the department of justice will," John A. Manget, Fulton county food administrator and chairman of the Fulton county fair price committee, said last night in regard to alleged profiteering on the part of Atlanta butchers.

At a meeting of the committee in the chamber of commerce Friday morning, the committee failed to take any action on Mr. Manget's recommendation for a maximum price of 35 cents per pound for choice cuts of beef, despite the fact that he produced statistics to show that they paid an average of 19 cents per pound wholesale. He also produced statistics to show where beef, the average cost of which was 12½ cents per pound, is sold at an average price of 25 1-3 cents per pound.

100 Per Cent Profit.

Mr. Manget charged that the Atlanta butchers are making a profit of 100 per cent on all meats sold, and introduced a resolution placing the maximum price at 35 cents for choice cuts with the same percentage over lower grades. At this juncture, J. H. Bullock engaged in a heated argument with Mr. Manget, stating that if this margin was selected as a maximum it would force the market men out of business.

A committee headed by J. P. Allen, president of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, was appointed by Mr. Manget to prepare statistics by the next meeting when the prices on clothing and other necessities will be discussed by the committee. The meeting, which was set for Wednesday, has been postponed until Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The discussion on the sugar situation was one of general interest, affecting in more or less degree every member of the committee. After all sides had been heard from, Mr. Manget allowed a margin of one and one-quarter cents per pound to wholesalers and two and one-half cents per pound to retailers. Under new regulations issued from Washington Friday, this will make the price of sugar approximately 16 cents per pound to consumers with the exception of the Louisiana crop, which will be allowed a maximum of 17 cents wholesale, while the Cuban crop will sell for 12 cents wholesale.

Akin Is Appointed.

W. T. Akin, prominent Peachtree grocer, was appointed to the committee by Mr. Manget in place of J. L. Morris, who was forced to resign on account of illness. Earl H. Cone was appointed to represent the retail druggists and J. L. Barnes the produce men.

A committee to prepare figures on the butchers' side of the question was appointed by Mr. Manget, as follows: J. H. Bullock, chairman; W. T. Akin and Mr. Kistner, from the retailers, and Mr. Wolfe, of Armour & Co., and Mr. Hill, of Swift & Co., for the packing houses.

In view of the fact that none of the members from the various organizations will take part in arguments outside of their immediate interest, Mr. Manget indicated that he would appoint a much larger number of consumers on the committee to balance the votes of each particular line of trade. This, he said, will enable the consumers to be represented equally with the various lines of business affected in each necessity which will come under the scope of the committee.

It is expected that several important reports from committees will be heard at the meeting Friday morning and Mr. Manget urgently invited consumers to be present.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO BE CONDUCTED FOR REV. SIMPSON

A memorial service for Rev. A. B. Simpson, president and founder of the Christian and Missionary alliance, whose death occurred October 29, at Nyack, N. Y., will be held at the Gospel Tabernacle, 79 Capitol avenue, Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

The services will be led by Ulysses Lewis, of Atlanta and Toccoa, who is vice president of that organization, and who was chiefly instrumental in forming the Atlanta branch in 1897, a work being continued under the name of Gospel Tabernacle.

The program will include a song by Mrs. W. P. Davis and messages by Rev. R. A. Forrest, superintendent of southern district of the Christian and Missionary alliance; and Dr. T. R. Kendall, Sr., pastor of Inman Park Methodist church, an old friend of Dr. Simpson. Testimonies will be heard from many whose lives have been influenced by addresses given by Dr. Simpson at a number of conventions held in Atlanta in past years.

Dr. Simpson was born December 15, 1844, at Bayview, Prince Edward Island, of Scotch-Presbyterian parents. For fifty-five years he occupied leading pulpits, including the Thirteenth Street Presbyterian church and the Gospel Tabernacle, both of New York city. He wrote many books and pamphlets and gospel hymns, and was editor of the Alliance Weekly. The Christian and Missionary alliance, an interdenominational society founded by him, has more than one thousand white and native missionaries in sixteen foreign lands.

The past few years our shoes have been more extensively advertised than ever before. Stamping W. L. Douglas name and the retail price on the bottom of the shoes before they leave the factory has saved the wearers millions of dollars, and guarantees them the best shoes in style, comfort and service that can be produced for the price.

A great demand for W. L. Douglas shoes has sprung up in leading countries in Europe and Asia. Our domestic business has increased so that our sales have actually doubled in four years. In 1915 the sales were $8,069,928.41 and in 1918 $16,680,343.46. The past six months' business was at the rate of over $20,000,000 per year.

In common with other great businesses we need additional capital to meet the urgent requirements of increasing domestic and foreign trade. The new conditions of business also demand more capital. The cost of labor and material has nearly doubled so that twice the amount of capital necessary under the old business conditions is now required.

Taxicabs use WEED TIRE CHAINS

Because they can't afford to take chances and because, with Weed Chains, they get greater mileage out of their tires.

It's a business proposition, pure and simple, with taxicab companies. They use Weed Chains for economy and accident insurance.

The main incentive for the use of Weed Chains is the accident-preventing feature—a most important factor as it means the saving of lives and property.

But further than that it is known from bitter and costly experience that the continual, constant and yet hardly perceptible slipping of the rubber tire-surface on wet roads and pavements—only the foot or so of lost traction at a time—is an alarming expense item—wearing out tires just the same as if you pressed them against a rapidly revolving grindstone.

Taxicab companies have learned from experience that only by the use of Weed Chains can this continuous wear on tires be prevented. Their drivers are ordered to put on their Weed Chains "at the first drop of rain" because of the thousands upon thousands of dollars that are thus actually saved every year in tire service and the elimination of skidding accidents. Wouldn't it be well for you to learn wisdom from the fellow who really knows?

Be as wise as the taxi driver and always put on your Weed Chains "at the first drop of rain."

Weed Chains are also made to meet the demand for an efficient traction and anti-skid device for trucks equipped with single and dual solid tires or with the very large pneumatic tires. They are so constructed that they satisfactorily meet the requirements of heavy truck service in mud, sand or snow.

FORMER ATLANTAN, WOUNDED IN WAR, AT HOSPITAL HERE

Still suffering from wounds received in the St. Mihiel drive on September 12, Lieutenant Hugh S. Thompson, son of T. C. Thompson, former mayor of Chattanooga, was Friday brought to the base hospital at Fort McPherson from a hospital in New York, to undergo further treatment.

Born in Atlanta twenty-six years ago, Lieutenant Thompson has been a resident of Chattanooga since he was a boy of 5 years of age and now, after serving "overseas" with the Forty-second or Rainbow division, he is brought back to the city of his nativity to be cured of the injuries which he received in the world war.

During the activity of the Forty-second division prior to the St. Mihiel drive, Lieutenant Thompson was twice wounded, and it was while leading his platoon over the top that he was hit the third time, a rain of machine gun bullets tearing his right leg to such an extent that it has taken the highest medical skill in the United States to save the limb and his life.

Lieutenant Thompson is one of the most popular young men of his home city and has many friends in Atlanta who will be glad of the opportunity furnished them to visit him while convalescing here.

SECOND CARLOAD OF SUGAR SEIZED IN GAINESVILLE

Libel proceedings have been instituted against a second carload of sugar that was seized at Gainesville, Ga., Friday morning by government officials. The shipment, which consisted of 60,000 pounds, was consigned to E. Collis, of Gainesville, and is declared to have been handled by F. J. Thompson, of Atlanta, as a broker.

It is stated that part of the sugar has already been sold, and that agents of the government have been notified to stop its further sale, and to trace that which has already been sold with a view to ascertaining how it is being used. If as much as a barrel of the sugar is found to have been sold to any person other than an established merchant, or if sugar to an amount exceeding two barrels has been sold to any merchant, the district attorney has directed that libel proceedings be instituted against these amounts also.

This is the second carload of sugar to be seized since Revenue Agent D. J. Gantt began the investigations in North Georgia. Mr. Gantt reported to the district attorney that Gainesville was being used as a center of supplies for moonshiners of North Georgia, and that immense amounts of sugar, molasses and empty kegs had been shipped to Gainesville from Atlanta within the past few months.

The first carload consisted of 180 barrels of sugar and was consigned to E. McClure, a merchant of Dawsonville, and the condemnation hearing against this shipment will be called in the district court next Friday.

HULME FOUND GUILTY; GIVEN LONG SENTENCE

S. B. Hulme, young automobile mechanic, who was recently released from the State Insane asylum, was sentenced to serve not less than ten years and not more than fifteen years by a jury Friday morning in the criminal division of the superior court. He was convicted on the charge of robbery.

Hulme was accused with his companion, Horace Loyd, of robbing Albert Tollerson, a crippled taxi driver, on Brown's Mill road on the night of May 19, 1919, and then escaping in Tollerson's car. Loyd entered a plea of guilty to the charge of robbery before Judge J. R. Terrell in the emergency division of the superior court last June and was sentenced to four years on the chaingang.

Hulme when arraigned entered a special plea of lunacy and was found insane. He was sent to the asylum and after remaining there four months was returned to Atlanta for trial, the physician at the asylum declaring him sane. Hulme was sent to the county reformatory in 1914, he then being less than 16 years of age, and was released from that institution in 1917.

APARTMENT HOUSE CATCHES FIRE FRIDAY

An apartment house at 606 Edgewood avenue caught fire early Friday morning from sparks falling on the roof and the building and household furnishings suffered considerable damage before the flames were extinguished by the firemen.

The roof of the house was completely engulfed by flames, but the firemen were successful in putting out the blaze before further damage was done.

The building is a three-story brick structure, owned by M. L. Thrower, local real estate dealer. The occupants, some of whom were asleep at the time, were: M. L. Andrews and family, Graham Perdue and family, D. W. Tahsell and family and C. C. Scofield and family.

NEGRO SOCIAL WORKER LOCATES IN ATLANTA

Jesse O. Thomas, who was for a number of years principal of Voorhees industrial school at Denmark, S. C., and later supervisor of negro economics for the state of New York and who recently resigned the latter to become field secretary of the National Urban league for social service among negroes, has established headquarters in this city.

His office is located on the third floor of the Odd Fellows' building, 200 Auburn avenue. The National Urban league has for its purpose the bettering of the living, housing and working conditions of colored people, the increasing of the educational and mechanical efficiency of negro wage earners, the reduction of infant mortality, the promotion of health and sanitation, the reduction of juvenile and adult delinquency and the general uplift and social betterment of the whole people.

200 UNHAPPY COUPLES ARE SEEKING FREEDOM

More than 200 undefended divorce suits will be heard by Judge John B. Hutchinson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, in the Fulton superior court next week, who will preside in the absence of Judge W. D. Ellis, who is in Charleston, S. C.

Among the cases that have been placed on the calendar is the suit of Mrs. Searle Winchester, who attained notoriety in Atlanta about a year ago when she married Winchester while he was confined in the Fulton tower, after he had shot her.

DEMOCRATIC HEAD ATTACKS LEAGUE FOES

tinued Mr. Cummings, "it was primarily for unselfish purposes, and in the background of our efforts stood the knowledge that world civilization was at stake.

"World civilization is still at stake," he declared, "and, in some ways, even more in danger than it was during the war. America can not afford, even from the most selfish standpoint, to make of America a slacker nation, attempting to draw back with the task half finished.

"We must of necessity go forward. Our duty is manifest. We should enter into this covenant gladly—not grudgingly. We should have been the first of the great nations to ratify it. We have won the moral leadership of the world. Are we to permit the political blunderings of mere partisans to impair or to forfeit that leadership?"

Summing up the results of rejection of the treaty, Mr. Cummings said it would mean the repudiation of the president and his action before the whole world, and the repudiation of the president in such a matter as this would mean the humiliation of the United States in the eyes of civilized mankind and would brand the nation as a people incapable of taking rank where we belong as one of the geratest of the world powers.

Mr. Cummings' Speech.

The speech of Mr. Cummings in full is as follows:

"The democratic party came into power on the 4th day of March, 1913, its achievements, in the way of domestic reform, constitute a miracle of legislative progress. Provision was made for an income tax, thereby relieving our revenue law of the reproach of being unjustly burdensome to the poor. The extravagancies and iniquities of the tariff system were removed and a non-partisan tariff commission was established. Pan-Americanism was encouraged, the great reaches of Alaska were opened up to commerce and development; dollar diplomacy was destroyed; a corrupt lobby was driven from the national capitol; a workmen's compensation act was adopted; the federal trade commission was created; child labor legislation was enacted; the Smith-Lever bill for the improvement of farm conditions was passed; farm loan banks were established; the parcel post and the rural free delivery were developed; a corrupt practice act was adopted; a good roads bill was passed and the federal reserve system was established. This last law not only reformed an archaic currency system but placed our financial affairs upon such a sound basis that we successfully met the vast expenditures made necessary by war, and without strain or panic, were able to supply the needs of our allies. When war came we supplied the necessary legislation. The selective draft law was passed; a war finance corporation was created; the office of alien property custodian was established, war risk insurance was provided, while the ship building laws re-established America's supremacy upon the seas. Vocational education was provided, industry was successfully mobilized, the navy was expanded until it became the second in size in all the world and the first in efficiency.

"An army of nearly four million men was organized and more than two million soldiers, fully equipped well officered and indomitable in spirit were safely transported across three thousand miles of sea, where they turned the tide of battle, won imperishable glory and triumphed in the greatest war that the world has ever known.

Petty Criticisms.

"Petty criticism of minor defects and individual officials may, for a time, attract superficial attention, but the significant things, the great outstanding facts of the last six years, plead eloquently for the democratic cause. To readjust the processes of peace so as to serve the activities of war was an undertaking requiring leadership of unexampled skill. So striking has been the result, so prompt has been the response of the people, so free have our public affairs been from any suggestion of scandal or improper influence, that it scarcely lies in the mouth of those who conducted the Spanish-American war to indulge in the luxury of criticism. Not only were these results accomplished under democratic authority, but the very terms upon which hostilities came to an end were formulated by a democratic president. Our leader became the world leader. His words carried into every quarter of the globe and the statemen of the allied governments accepted his leadership.

"An observing citizen cannot fail to be aware of the unusual efforts which republican leaders have been making for the last two or three years to regain the mastery of the machinery of government. To this purpose, they have brought all their ingenuity, have summoned all their resources, have magnified beyond all reason minor errors of judgment in the conduct of the great war, have mobilized the forces of irritation and discontent, and have made tacit concessions to certain elements, which, to say the least, show tendencies toward open sedition. A campaign of slander against the president has been waged relentlessly. Even at this hour the hand of malice knocks upon the door of the sick room in the white house.

"As I read the speeches of strict and unrelenting partisanship I wonder what phrases of abuse, what language of vituperation, what infective, what recital of blunders and crimes would have agitated the political atmosphere if the president of the United States had led the country to the disastrous conclusion of an unsuccessful war. Every epithet of reproach has already been exhausted in an attempt to discredit the leadership of America's president at a time when America's prestige was never greater. America's power never so vast and America's success never so transcendent. The campaign of slander, which is the very spume of politics, has been reserved for America's greatest leader in the hour of America's greatest triumph. To listen to the spokesmen of the republican organization is to gather the impression that America lost the war, and has been forced into a discreditable peace, humiliating to all lovers of constitutional government and freedom. I do not know how others may feel about it, but as for myself, I am proud of the heroism of American men and women. I am proud of the role that America has played in the affairs of the world. I am proud of the work which America is doing for the world. I am proud of the power of my country and of the manner in which that power has been used: and I am proud of the leadership of President Wilson.

A Challenge.

"Little more than a year ago General Haig, with the bluntness of a soldier, said 'The British army is fighting with its back against the wall.' About the same time Lloyd-George said 'It is a race between Wilson and Hindenburg,' and at that very moment, France was clinging like a drowning man to the rock of Verdun, and turning agonizing eyes toward America. And America arrived. The war was won and I challenge the critics of the administration to suggest how, within the bounds of human possibility, the war could have been won more promptly or with less loss of American life. The republican party is rendering small service to America when it converts the machinery of its organization into an instrument of attack upon American leadership and American honor.

"The gentlemen who are now leading the republican party, criticising the president of the United States and warning the people against the policies of Wilson and the league of nations, are the bad advisers of old, the discredited leaders, the men whose counsel led to trouble and whose advice had to be discarded before America could make progress. Is this too general an assertion? Let me be a little more particular. Was it not Senator Lodge who proclaimed in the senate that the federal service system was foredoomed to failure? Was it not Senator Root who said that the federal reserve system would ruin the financial structure of America? Was it not Senator Penrose who took the same position? And did not all these gentlemen oppose the passage of the shipping bill which was urged by Secretary McAdoo two years before the war began? Was it not this same group of leaders who were responsible for the opposition to the income tax, the farm loan system and the agricultural and labor bill? These are the same bad advisers who, hopeful that America has forgotten their bad advice, are now tendering their suggestions as to the future.

"Unable to agree upon any constructive program of their own, they unite in unfaltering opposition to anything and everything that is proposed by President Wilson.

Political Animosity.

"Political animosity followed the president to the peace table, senatorial pronounciamentos of a censorious character were issued from time to time, a "round robin" was widely circulated and, indeed, every device which partisanship could develop was employed for the purpose of weakening the influence of our commission at Paris and making the task there still more difficult. Rude and unskillful hands were thrust recklessly amid the interlacing strands of human destiny. At a time when every instinct of fairness pleaded for a whole-hearted support of the president, political antagonisms and personal envy controlled the anti-administration forces.

"The war had set a great task for the statesmanship of the world. The best thought of the world demanded that a serious attempt be made by the leaders of the allied governments to formulate a treaty of peace which should prevent the recurrence of war. Every rightful impulse of the human heart was in accord with that purpose. For the first time in the turbulent annals of the human race such a project had become feasible. The destruction of militarism, the crumbling of thrones, the dissolution of dynasties, the world-wide appreciation of the inner meaning of war and the final triumph of democracy had, at least, made it possible to realize the dearest dream which had crossed man's dark mind since the dawn of civilization. We had a right to expect a sympathetic support for such a policy from all patriotic Americans, quite irrespective of political affiliations.

"At this critical juncture in human affairs republican leadership completely failed. In the face of the greatest problem in the world republican leaders saw fit to remember only that they were republicans. Many times in history men have had an opportunity to speak for the freedom of a country or of a people, but never before, since time began, have statesmen been afforded the opportunity to speak for the freedom of the world. The issue involved the highest considerations of morality and humanity. The opportunity for service was as great as the need of the world, and the failure to render it must stand as a reproach for all time.

"When we entered the war it was primarily for unselfish purposes; but in the background of our effort stood the knowledge that world civilization was at stake. World civilization is still at stake, and, in some ways, even more in danger than it was during the war. America cannot tolerate international chaos. We cannot afford, even from the most selfish standpoint, to make of America a slacker nation, attempting to draw back with the task half finished. We must of necessity go forward. Our duty is manifest. We should enter into this covenant gladly—not grudgingly. We should have been the first of the great nations to ratify it. We have won the moral leadership of the world. Are we to permit the political blunderings of mere partisans to impair or to forfeit that leadership?

Covenant Already Established.

"The covenant of the league of nations has already been established. It is embodied in the treaty of peace, and that treaty has already been adopted by Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy. The ratification by three or more of the great powers makes the treaty an existing fact of history. The remaining signatories are taking the preliminary steps to indicate their acquiescence in this settlement of the world war. Is America alone to stand out against this world settlement? Is America alone of all the civilized nations to refuse her assent to the terms of the treaty and place herself in opposition to her former allies and friends? Is American honor, which was held so high on the fields of France, to be trailed in the dust because a part of the senate, blinded by prejudice or inflamed by malice, would prefere to thwart the purposes of the administration, even at the cost of humiliating America in the sight of the world? Has this alternative, to which republican leadership would guide us been fully understood? It is astounding that Senator Lodge, the republican leader in the senate, should counsel such a policy of reckless folly, for it involves a direct repudiation of his own better judgment.

"In 1899, when the treaty with Spain was under consideration, Senator Lodge said:

"'We must either ratify the treaty or reject it. Suppose we reject the treaty, what follows? Let us look at it practically. We continue the state of war, and every sensible man in the country, every business interest, desires the re-establishment of peace in law as well as in fact. At the same time we repudiate the president and his action before the whole world, and the repudiation of the president in such a matter as this is, to my mind, the humiliation of the United States in the eyes of cilivized mankind and brands us as a people incapable of great affairs or of taking rank where we belong as one of the greatest of the world powers.'

"Are we not justified in asserting that the present opposition arises from partisan motives, and indicates indifference to American honor? I have too much confidence in the sense of justice and the essential sanity of the American people to believe, for a moment, that they will permit partisanship or personal prejudice to wreck the greatest project in behalf of humanity which the world has ever known."

CAPITOL GOSSIP

Attend Macon Meeting.

There were quite a few vacancies around the different offices at the state capitol on Fridayfi due to the attendance of a number of officials at the statewide rally being held in Macon by the Georgia division of the American Cotton association.

Among the officials who went were Governor Dorsey, Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, Director L. B. Jackson, of the bureau of markets; Major Devereaux F. McClatchey, executive secretary of the Georgia division; Harvie Jordan, who is in charge of organization work in the national headquarters of the American Cotton association, located in the capitol. All expect to be back at their regular posts Saturday morning.

Will Wind Up Work.

When the old lease on the state railroad property expires on December 27, the Western and Atlantic Railroad commission expects to wind up its work permanently.

The properties are now under the control of the federal goverument and it is not likely that there will be any formalities to be observed when they are turned over to the new lessors, the N. C. & St. L., beyond a receipt of acknowledgment from that road to the state. This receipt will state that the new leasor is to take control of the property whenever the federal government turns the railroad back to private ownership. The real estate property of the state has recently been separately leased in Chattanooga.

It is expected that when the commission turns in its final report at the next session of the legislature, it will suggest that both branches pass a resolution dismissing the commission from further duties and responsibilities. C. M. Candler, chairman, and the governor, are the only members of the commission who have served without compensation.

Annual Tax Meeting.

The first annual state convention of county tax collectors, receivers and boards of assessors will be held in Atlanta in December. State Tap Commissioner Henry J. Fullbright is busy arranging for the meeting, but the exact date has not yet been decided upon. It is especially desired that there shall be no conflict with the dates of the Southern Commercial Congress which meets in Savannah December 7 to 10.

The Atlanta gathering is of considerable importance, inasmuch as it will conclude special work which has been conducted by Commissioner Fullbright through district or groun meetings for the past several months, and will also have considerable bearing on the enforcement of the state tax laws in 1620.

Tax Repohts Made.

Reports of taxes collected by the 155 counties in Georgia have been coming into Comptroller General Wright's office promptly this year. Friday all but nine of these counties had filed their reports, complete on all taxes collected up to the first Monday in November, which marks a new record.

General Wright attributes this splendid showing to the work of the several tax investigators lately sent out by Governor Dorsey to search out tax evaders and collect special taxes.

Final collections by all tax collectors must be in the comptroller's office by December 10, after which date the state begins to apply interest to all unpaid taxes.

Banking Quarters.

In order to arrange office space for the new state department of banking, Edwards and Sayward, Atlanta architects, are now making a survey of the ground floor of the state capitol.

The new department will formally open on January 1. T. R. Bennett, superintendent of banking, executive in charge, was appointed by Governor Dorsey several months ago and took the oath of office on Thursday. He is now temporarily occupying a part of the office of Claude A. West, executive secretary. The governor has now called in the architects, however, to see if there isn't a way by which the executive offices can be enlarged by taking in certain space now used for other purposes and thus making room for the banking department.

In this respect, a previous report was made to the governor early last summer, following a complete survey of the capitol by the same architectural firm. At that time they stated that by providing the proper heating facilities and carefully rearranging the space on the ground floor of the capitol, sufficient room could be secured on this floor alone to care for the entire overflow of the state offices, which are now scattered in several adjacent buildings.

40 CLERKS DISCHARGED AT SOUTHERN SHOPS

Spencer, N. C., November 21.—Forty clerks of the Southern railway shops here, discharged yesterday when they refused to obey an order to "check" on beginning and quitting work, still were idle today. The clerks claim a lockout. While clerks of only one department now are affected, it is believed in railway circles unless the matter is settled, other departments will be involved.

FRANCE GUARANTEED AID BY GREAT BRITAIN

Paris, November 21.—Stephen Pichon, French foreign minister, and Sir Eyre Crose, assistant under secretary for foreign affairs of Great Britain, last night exchanged ratification of the treaty guaranteeing British aid to France if, without provocation, she is attacked by Germany.

Sir Eyre is the representative of Great Britain in the supreme council during the absence of Premier Lloyd-George.

The announcement today of the ratification of the treaty caused considerable surprise, because it had been generally understood Great Britain would not ratify the treaty before the United States did.

Although the treaty was ratified last night it does not come into force until the similar treaty with the United States has been ratified.

WAGES INCREASED FOR LONGSHOREMEN

New York, November 21.—The national adjustment commission today made an award of 80 cents an hour and $1.20 an hour for overtime to the deep-sea longshoremen in the North Atlantic district. This is an increase of 22½ per cent over the scale of wages in force up to October 6 last.

The award will go into effect December 1. President T. V. O'Connor and Vice President Joseph Ryan, of the International Longshoremen's association, labor's representatives on the commission, asked for 85 cents and $1.25, it was learned when the body adjourned tonight. Three of the five members voted for 80 cents and $1.20, whereupon Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Ryan moved that it be made unanimous.

Consideration of wages for the coastwise workers will be taken up in Washington December 5, it was announced.

Sprays and Local Application Will Not Cure Catarrh

Don't deceive yourself, if by the persistent use of sprays, douches, salves and other local applications, you have stopped the discharge from your nose and throat. The trouble will return in a more aggravated form.

It is said that the glands of the nose and throat act as an "emergency plug for the human sewage system;" that when the kidneys, skin and lungs are unable to properly dispose of some of the impurities that collect in those organs, such impurities are thrown out though the glands of the nose and throat.

Head colds, due to exposure, must not be confused with that chronic aggravated condition of the nose and throat traceable to impure blood.

The best way to relieve this condition of chronic catarrh is by cleansing the blood of all the impurities that have collected in the system. There is no better treatment than Plough's Prescription C-2223, the great blood purifier. This reliable alterative prescription treatment corrects the impure state of the blood, gives the tissues an opportunity to exercise their normal functions and results in the relief of the catarrhal condition so dangerous to good health.

To secure the best results in taking Plough's Prescription C-2223, the liver should be made active and the bowels regular. 2223 Liver Pills are recommended especially for this purpose. These pills do not sicken or gripe. One pill is a lose and only three need be taken a week to keep the liver and bowels in a healthy condition.

Plough's Prescription C-2223 can be supplied you by any good druggist in large bottles for $1.50, the Pills for 25c; or the 2223 Laboratory, Memphis, Tenn., will mail both postpaid on receipt of $1.75. Samples of the Liver Pills and leaflet regarding Plough's Prescription C-2223 will be sent you without charge on receipt of this clipping with name and address.—(adv.)

PORTS OF THE SOUTH.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce cannot be too earnestly commended for its movement to head off the government's alleged purpose to sell to private interests the ships that were built or otherwise acquired by it for war purposes, and that are now under the jurisdiction of the United States shipping board.

Ever since this country first became a factor in the maritime commerce of the world its foreign shipments of merchandise have very largely been funneled through New York and a few other ports on the north Atlantic coast, those of the south Atlantic and gulf coasts receiving little of it.

This condition gradually developed into one of positive discrimination against the southern ports, to the great disadvantage of southern and western shippers and consumers of trade commodities of export or import. Under the old system the ports of the north enjoyed a veritable monopoly upon American foreign commerce, and the bulk of that which passed between southern and western shipping points and foreign ports was hauled miles out of its way, part of it past the southern ports, to or from the northern trade funnel-mouth.

The needless expense to which this policy has subjected the people of the sections adversely affected by it, both in loss of time and freight charges, is obvious.

When, as a war emergency measure, the government established a federal merchant marine, and took steps to redistribute the foreign commerce of the country, so as to utilize all of the ports, north and south, with only their adaptability and the economy of time and haulage taken into consideration, it looked as though a new day for southern and western commerce had dawned; and if that policy remains in effect the next few years undoubtedly will see a tremendous development in the facilities and business of the south Atlantic and gulf ports.

On the other hand, if the government should now dispose of its merchant marine the ports of the south would be in grave danger of losing much, if not all, they have gained. That is to say, if the government's ships are sold they probably will be bought by interests which will find it to their advantage to reinstate the policy of starving the southern ports and diverting the great bulk of the country's transoceanic commerce through the ports of the east.

Already a considerable portion of the country's foreign shipping, under federal control, has been diverted so as to pass through the southern ports. Especially is this true as to trade between this country and Latin America, and that between the southern and western parts of the country and European ports; and every indication points to the conclusion that the commerce through these ports will be tremendously increased as time goes on unless the present scheme of the government is completely upset—as it would be were the government to sell its ships to private owners.

This would entail a loss in commercial prestige which the people of the south and middle west can ill afford; and it is to be hoped that civic and commercial organizations and shipping interests generally throughout these sections will lose no time in joining with the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce in taking whatever steps may be necessary to forestall such a disastrous possibility.

DESECRATION OF TREES.

Albany (Ga.) club women have started a movement to protect the shade trees bordering the highways of that beautiful section of the state "against deliberate vandalism and thoughtless abuse."

The movement is as commendable as it is timely, and there is not a community in the whole state to which it might extend with any other than beneficial effect.

Under the head of "deliberate vandalism" in the treatment of trees might be classified such common acts as mutilations with pocketknives and hatchets, either with "malice aforethought," for pure cussedness or for pastime; and under "thoughtless abuse" we might charitably place the even more common assaults of the sign poster.

It is to the offenders of the latter class that The Albany Herald, in an editorial highly commending the campaign of the club women, expressly directs its attention.

"The particular enemy of the shade tree that beautifies the country road," says The Herald—"is the sign poster, for he not only mars the beauty of the tree trunk by covering it with signs held by nails driven through the bark, but by that very act exposes the tree to the attacks of insect enemies. A break in the bark of a tree is an invitation to bugs and worms, of whose numerous tribes every section has its share, and the tree which has been plastered o'er with signs of tin, wood and cloth, all held in place by nails or spikes, will have its vigor lessened and its lease on life materially shortened."

The editorial goes on, very truthfully, to call attention to the facts that—

"Growing along the public highways radiating from Albany are some of the most beautiful trees in the world—huge chestnut oaks and others of the oak family; cedars; sycamores, elms and many more. As nature has made them, they are things of beauty, and their grateful shade gladdens the summer wayfarer. But as the sign-poster has decorated them, they are pathetic reminders that modern commercialism is a stranger to the beauties of nature."

There is truth in every word of this; for, while a tree may not be perceptibly injured—but, perhaps, improved in health—by a few iron nails driven into its wood, the "treatment" can be overdone; and as to the posting of a sign on the boll of a wayside tree, it affords a conspicuous target for idle "pistol-toters" and small boys and adult nimrods to shoot at and perforate with bullets and birdshot, to the defacement of the landscape and the unquestionable injury of the tree.

Advertisers of gasoline, tires, patent medicines and chewing gum, pancake flour and axle-grease, seem to lose sight of the fact that the trees bordering the highway belong, not to them, but to the public. Nobody has a legal right to nail a sign on a public tree any more than he would have to fell the tree with an ax, or set fire to it.

That being the case, the sign posters who desecrate and disfigure and destroy the highway trees at will are technically trespassers upon the rights and property of the people; and no power short of the legislature could place them within the law.

It would be in order for the tree-loving citizens of Georgia to suggest that the general assembly enact a special law prescribing the tree protection which the Albany Woman's club bespeaks—a law under which nobody would be authorized to post a sign on a tree without first procuring a permit from the state—and then see to it that the law is enforced.

No lover of trees and the beauties in Nature—no citizen with a soul, in other words, to say nothing of community pride—could reasonably take exceptions to such an act of legislation. Instead, if a movement to that end were started all such citizens would co-operate in carrying it to success.

In the jails for sale on account of prohibition, there's lots of room for the sugar profiteers.

So much to be thankful for, we'll hardly be able to get around to it all in one Thanksgiving Day.

Song of the Tired Brother.

Make it nineteen-fourteen just for tonight.
I am so tired of forty-cent meat,
Sixty-cent butter and three-dollar wheat;
Tired of high prices on meal and on corn
And everything else just as sure as you're born;
Tired of sugarless coffee and tea,
Tired of oatmeal as "flat" as can be.
O for a whole sack of sugar so white—

LIFE AFTER DEATH

They are not dead, they've only gone
Across to the other shore;
Their spirits are near to those who are dear,
Now and forever more.

A phantom band, around us they stand,
"There is no death," they say,
Their presence assuring us, guiding us still,
Shedding light on this earthly way.

Though gone, they are nearer and dearer,
They are safe from sin and strife.
And our souls look onward and upward
To them, and everlasting life.

Followers of the Mormon faith today will observe the birthday anniversary of Heber J. Grant, who succeeded to the presidency of the church following the death of Joseph F. Smith a year ago. President Grant is the first native son of Utah to become head of the church. He was born in Salt Lake City in 1856. Since early youth he has been prominent in the affairs of his church and at various times he has fulfilled ecclesiastical missions to Japan, Mexico and other countries. In addition to his work for the church he has been prominent in business and finance, being president of a bank in Salt Lake City and a director in a number of large industrial, financial and insurance corporations. He has also found time to take an active interest in politics, having served in the upper house of the Utah legislature and as a member of the city council of Salt Lake City.

What the Great War Has Done for India

BY NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS

In making their entries on the profit and loss side of the great war many Americans find it difficult to find reasons for gratitude, but from India come strange statements. When Rudyard Kipling was welcoming the first American troops to London, he said: "As I see it, the gain, the immense outstanding gain that has come to us out of all this furnace of affliction in which we have walked is that this very war has welded by common endurance, by common knowledge and by pain shared together, the decent-minded, kindly, clean-thinking peoples of the earth." This novelist, who knows India so well, is fully convinced that the greatest achievement thus far wrought by the horrors of the devastating strife has been the awakening of the three hundred millions of India to the wonders of the nations of Europe, and the achievements of the people of the United States.

A recent writer, returning from Calcutta, has emphasized the new attitude of India. Riding in a railway train from Bombay to Calcutta, this gentleman met an Indian soldier who was returning home after two years in France. He asked the Indian what was the most wonderful thing he had seen in France or England, and received this answer: "You will smile, I know, when I tell you that the most wonderful thing I saw was a cow." In India that animal known as a cow is a little creature about three feet tall, that can be persuaded to yield only two or three teacups of a bluish watery liquor that has little food value. "But," exclaimed the Indian, "those Jersey and Guernsey cows in France stand as high as my shoulder, morning and night they give 10 to 12 quarts of rich yellow milk, thick with cream." "Well, but what about those Jersey cows?" asked the English traveler. And the soldier replied: "Why, this: We must have cows like this in India."

More important still, the million and a half of men from India, who have returned home, have become advocates of New India. Each man today is assembling his townsmen and telling them the story of the roads in France and England, of the farm houses, the sewing machines, the carpets on the floors, the pictures on the walls; the vineyards and orchards, the fine bridges, the hospitals, the schools, the art galleries, the churches, the street cars, the telephones, the phonographs, the daily newspapers, the great railway trains, and also of three good meals a day, as well as the fine clothes that the women wear, and the shoes for the children. Millions of commercial travelers could never have done in years what these soldiers who have returned home have accomplished within a few days. It is perfectly evident there is to be New India. These heroes are the apostles of a new social order. Day after day, they are assaulting poverty and attacking the caste system. They are talking about a new agriculture, rebelling against drudgery; they are asking for new tools. Suddenly Great Britain is waking up to find that she has a million commercial agents out in India talking to three hundred million Indians, and creating a market for British goods. Just now the English manufacturer may be having a hard time, but the new era for the colony, India, means a new market for the men in the motherland. If history teaches us anything, it shows that every country that has fought a just war for the advancement of honor, truth and freedom has soon entered into some form of material reward through an enlarged commerce and an increased prosperity. At the very moment, therefore, when some men are saying that England's industries are approaching a crisis and that her future is very dark, suddenly, in far away India, the torches are flaming up, and the industrial sky is becoming bright, and orders are being cabled back to the motherland. England's fairness to India, the justice of her courts, the high average of her civil service, her gifts to education, won in return the loyal response of a million and a half men from India, and now these men who have received much good from Britain will return those gifts, multiplied one hundred fold. What Great Britain gave to India she is to receive again, good measure, pressed down, shaken together, and running over with golden gifts.

Bits of New York Life

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, November 21.—Some one has called them the ladies with the pink crepe de chine souls. They are the foaming and iridescent back-wash of a great city and find lodgment in the onyx and marble apartment houses on the windiest bend of Riverside drive, in the quiet of Park avenue and even among the very select residential blocks of Fifth avenue.

They constitute the speck of a rouge that a metropolis wears. They have the raciest roadsters, the limousines with the most gorgeous fittings and they buy Russian sable by the yard. Birds in gilded cages! Chattels of those fleshly yogis with rolls in their pocket and on the back of their necks.

The beauty salons are filled with them every day. It is a constant fight against the ravages of time. A wrinkle! and they may go into the discard. They bathe in everything from mud to ultra-violet rays. Hairdressers are able to buy country homes on their largess.

They are the birds of a feather who flock together in real life. One sees them in such exclusive hotel foyers as the Ritz, St. Regis and others. Now and then they seep into the best boxes at the opera. They are over-dressed, over-powdered and over-rouged and the scent of their perfume lingers for an hour after they depart.

Their gold, diamond-studded mesh bags are crammed with sleeping powders and cosmetics. They renew their make-up brazenly wherever they happen to be with no show of shame. One Pom or Pake is not enough. They must have three or four. All of their affections are centered upon them.

Most of them, if they do not marry, take to drugs eventually, and a few years finds them snivelling and whining for dimes along the east side. They fade fast. Midnight suppers, all night orgies in Long Island road houses, before luncheon cocktails all require their toll.

Two or three times a week they get a case of what they call "the blues" and that calls for stimulants and companionship. Life is an endless array of debauches. And where do they come from? A social worker who has spent years among the fallen say they are most always from the small towns.

Bootleggers are already keeping the old topers happy. Federal officials in New York admit being unable to catch Mr. Bootlegger by the heel. Secret traffic in hard liquor has reached tremendous proportions. Every neighborhood is literally infested with furtive agents of dealers that hold a considerable supply of whisky, wines and beer. These runners have a neighborhood list of families or individuals that formerly patronized retail liquor stores. They take orders like the small town grocer at the back door. They will not do business by phone or mail. Their prices are from $10 to $16 a quart for vile whisky, but they get it. Revenue agents say that it is a disgrace to call the whisky "moonshine" whisky. It is far inferior to what is known in Kentucky as "moonshine."

The craze to build a movie palace that will excel all the rest seems an obsession in New York. Two or three are in the course of construction now and one has recently been finished—but the Rialto and Rivoli, pioneers in the elaborate symphony orchestra theater, seem to hold the bulk of the movie following. The new ones make a great splash at first, but soon they are in a new field. The reason for the success of the Rialto and Rivoli is simple. They have never deviated from the artistic path that was their standard at first. Their musical programs are as carefully selected as those of the Metropolitan. The lighting effects are a revelation and the solo numbers are of the highest order. It is small wonder they brought limousines to the movies.

By RICHARD SPILLANE

We have a golden village here in America of which few persons know. It is Hicksville, L. I., about 6 miles directly south of Oyster Bay. Theodore Roosevelt used to go there occasionally, and loved to wander through it and chat with the golden people. Somehow Hicksville became the center of the gold-beating industry in this country. There the men and women employed by the dealers in gold leaf, in New York, congregated. There in their homes they prepared the metal, and, with the surpassing patience and skill the work demands, beat it out into the infinitesmal thinness of gold leaf.

There was a time when nearly every one in Hicksville was a gold-beater, or a family of gold-beaters, but not now. New York is spreading out. Some adventurous commuters defied distance and reached Hicksville. Others followed. Now there are many city folk living there, and the gold-beaters are submerged and forgotten and their quaint glory gone or nearly gone.

Today America possesses more than one-third of the gold of the world.

Nations have risen and nations declined because of gold. Spain is a striking example. It has caused many wars, many panics and unnumbered other tragedies. It has been a power throughout all recorded time, a wonderful power.

And yet you could put all the gold of the world in one great room.

From a firm with headquarters that front the curb market in New York, with branches in six or seven large cities, a Philadelphian received a letter the other day, which, in opening, said: "We have your favor of the 14th instant, and note that you may be interested in . . . Regarding the question as to when the next dividend in . . . is payable, we imagine in November—"

And then the communication goes on to suggest certain oil and mine shares to buy, and closes with a request for business, assuring the Philadelphian that he will get a service second to none, and the firm's facilities have been perfected through years of experience.

The Philadelphian inquired of the business section how his name got on the sucker list. "I never heard of this concern," he said. "Did you? I never wrote to them. They have no 'favor' of mine of the 14th or any other date. I never heard of the cat-and-dog stocks they are touting, and wouldn't touch them. I'm not in the market, and never have been. And yet they write to me at my home address and think I am Rube enough to be caught by that 'we have your favor,' etc., stuff into thinking I'm getting something intended for some one else or that I may be drawn into doing business with them. Why does the postoffice department allow these swindlers to use the mail?"

The Philadelphian was informed by the business section that the concern had been mixed up in various questionable transactions that brought it into public notoriety, and the head of the firm was owner of a race track which had an unusually bad reputation. Whether the postoffice department would pay any attention to a complaint and compel this firm to remove his name from its roster of "suckers," the inquirer was told, was doubtful, for previous attempts to get it to protect the public had been of no avail.

Isn't it a shame the mails should be open to the sharpers of the curb, who fatten on brazen swindles?

That letter received by the Philadelphian is a fraud, a snare. There is one truthful statement in it, however. This is assuring the Philadelphian "of a service second to none . . . our facilities having been perfected through years of experience," etc.

The service in separating the "sucker" from his money which this concern furnishes probably is second to none and it has been perfected by years of experience.

And in those years the head of the house has managed to keep out of jail. But he has had some narrow squeaks.

A decision that may be ditsurbing to Wall street has been handed down by the appellate division of the supreme court of New York. In the suit of Flora MacDonald White against the brokerage firm of Henry B. Slayback & Co., to recover securities valued at $17,581, the plaintiff alleged she was "sold out" without having received proper notice of the need of putting up additional margin.

Now, what constitutes "proper notice?" In a violent market a margin might be inadequate that would be ample in a dull market, and the broker, after successful or unsuccessful telephonic or telegraphic attempt to get in touch with his customers, might suffer heavy loss if he held the stock without additional margin. Is he compelled to hold the stock until he gives notice to the customer of the need of further margining?

Some market players hide out, refuse telegraphic messages or telephone summonses at such times, and, if the broker sells them out without the stock having gone to a point to wipe them out, they let out a roar that would drown the fog blast of an ocean liner.

In this Slayback case the court says if the plaintiff is able to prove she did not receive the brokers' notice—the brokers having agreed to notify her if margin was required -and that, because of not receiving this notice, she was wiped out, then she is entitled to recover.

If on trial Slayback & Co. lose, there will have to be some serious thinking by brokers as to speculative accounts. Incidentally, there may be some sharp things said about women, for the female of the species has raised the deuce in Wall street shop at times, and not a few brokers have lifted their right hands and turned their eyes to high heaven and said "never again" when they have had a siege with women players after the women have had disastrous days in the market.

HEALTH TALKS

ISOLATION AND THE FLU.

At the beginning of the epidemic of influenza in this country last year some of the health authorities announced that in view of the great prevalence and widespread character of influenza it would not be feasible to attempt anything like a strict quarantine, that is, isolation of the patients. Among other health authorities that took that strange position was the United States public health service.

If smallpox were the disease under consideration there is not a shadow of doubt that these same health authorities would insist upon rigid quarantine of every suspect, and the quarantine would be backed by public opinion. But influenza—well, there seems to be some hesitancy about taking any drastic measures to protect the public against influenza. Yet influenza is a far more fatal affection than smallpox today.

In New York city the health authorities did not even close the schools while the epidemic raged. They believed that the school children were safer in schoolrooms, under the observation of the teachers and exceptionally careful medical inspection, than the same children would have been if allowed to run about the streets. There may be good logic in this—for New York city. It would scarcely hold good for small cities.

The city of Buffalo fought the flu by closing every public, parochial and private school, every church, theater, saloon and other gathering place; by the use of vaccines; by prescribing and insisting on suitable gauze masks—all of these measures put in force early in the epidemic, instead of waiting, as was too often the case in towns burdened with political health officers, until the infection had become alarmingly widespread. This program was in strong contrast with the passive program suggested by federal and other health authorities. The city of Buffalo came through the epidemic with a lower morbidity rate (number of cases per thousand population) than most large cities.

Whether the "flu" will recur this year is a question no one can answer. If it does, will the same passive, impotent keynote be sounded by our so to speak greater health authorities?

Every illness, be it ever so mild, that resembles an alleged "cold," should be immediately considered at least suspicious enough to warrant isolation of the patient. If this is not done, our safety from another epidemic is nothing but a matter of luck. As a matter of simple common sense and scientific efficiency every alleged "cold" ought to be isolated anyway. Until this fundamental sanitary principle is recognized by those having authority to make public health or sanitary regulations, I suppose the "flu" or any other severe respiratory infection will find as good picking as ever, should an epidemic recur.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Whooping Cough.

What is good for whooping cough? (Mrs. E. A. E.)

ANSWER—The best remedy we have is bacterin—commonly called whooping-cough vaccine. This is injected under the skin as an ordinary hypodemic injection is given, usually in three doses at intervals of a few days to a week. It often protects a child who has been exposed from coming down with the disease, and it always diminishes the severity and duration of whooping-cough, sometimes aborting the disease. Any doctor will administer the bacterin. Otherwise the only general suggestion I would make is that the child should remain out of doors all day and sleep on a porch, in a tent, or at least with all the bedroom windows open at night.

Hot Drinks Harmful.

Is there any harm in drinking exceedingly hot drinks, such as tea? (J. S.)

ANSWER—Yes. Excessively hot fluids irritate the stomach. Some experienced physicians think the habit of taking excessively hot fluids and excessively cold beverages (ice water, for instance) is at least a predisposing factor of cancer of the stomach. Anything so hot that you have to sip it to prevent burning is too hot to drink.

Eating

The question of eating is a very serious and unsettled one in dreamland, and about it the authorities dispute as acrimoniously as do those given to the eating habit in the world of realities over who is responsible for the present high cost of living. According to some, to dream that you are eating in company with others, either at the family dinner table or at a banquet, is a sign that you will be successful in profitable undertakings, and that your surroundings will be pleasant and cheerful. The opposing school warns you to beware of attending a dream banquet, as that signifies that secret enemies are plotting against you, recommending only a small family party at the table. To dream of eating at all say some of the oracles, means that you are going to spend money foolishly, to which the other side retorts that everyone does, sometimes, spend money foolishly, but not on the banquets of dreamland, which are attended with profit and success. Perhaps the reason for this disagreement of the mystic authorities is that the old saying, "What is one man's meat is another man's poison," holds good in the realm of shadows as well as out of it, and that the phantom food of dream tables gives nourishment and strength to some egos, while it gives others psychic indigestion. As the authorities refuse to agree on the eating subject, the reader must determine it for himself. The next time you dream of eating observe what happens, and then say which school of mystics is right. As to the different articles of food, even the pessimists admit that it is a good sign to dream of eating broiled meat. Potatoes are looked upon with favor, but the ban is placed upon turnips, as they mean quarreling, and salads are declared to be distinctly unwholesome. Oysters, especially if raw, are the most highly recommended of dream foods. Eaten in any form, they denote friendship, and if raw, splendid successes. All the pessimists can say against them is that they mean that you are going to become a gourmand. Many hold that to dream of being at a banquet means that you will soon go on a journey or will change your residence or place of business. These same people say that, while it is unlucky to eat at a dream banquet yourself, to see others eating fortells great success in your enterprises. If you are unmarried, you shall wed the one you love and live happy ever after, with riches and dutiful children.

Method in Work.

A person may work very hard and use up full days in the process, but if that work is not pursued with exactness and method, waste enters and time and effort is lost.

The scatterer always compels others to follow him and do over much that he merely attempted.

Where there is no method, there you will find unfinished business which always points to chaos. Thoroughness is always the forerunner of ease and independence.

Hard work is what instills ambition and arouses enthusiasm for place in the world.

The one who accomplishes most is the one who has planned out best. And there is always time to finish the day's work and to look back upon it with satisfaction, where method and care have been used to guide.

A day is only so long. And to crowd more of work into a single day than it will stand is to court confusion and exhaustion of mind and body.

It is better to do three things well than a dozen only half well.

And take pride in what you do. Sometimes I think that people are beginning to forget that "the gods see everywhere." There seems to be such a scurry for money and show. But the gods are just as watchful as they were a thousand years ago. They still hand to the worker who does his work well their meed of unbuyable praise and glory.

The man of method is the man of might!

GIVE AID IN FIGHT ON TUBERCULOSIS

Support Is Pledged at Meeting of Presidents' Club Held at Piedmont Club—$30,000 in Subscriptions Asked.

At a meeting of the Presidents' club, called Friday night by President Mell R. Wilkinson, a group of executives of practically all Atlanta's civic organizations, pledged their support to the anti-tuberculosis campaign, and promised to do everything within their power to place these organizations 100 per cent behind the movement.

The meeting took the form of a banquet at the Piedmont hotel. The members of the club were the guests of Mr. Wilkinson, who announced that he had called them together for the specific consideration of the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

At the close of the gathering, a resolution was unanimously passed, indorsing the splendid work done by the association during the past twelve years, in its work to stamp out the white plague in Atlanta, and calling upon the people to whole-heartedly support the coming campaign. The resolutions point out that the work of the association is so essentially linked with the future welfare of the city that it is a simple matter of self-interest for every citizen to come to the support of the association as strongly as possible.

Work Is Indorsed.

Among those who spoke briefly were D. W. Webb, president of the Admen's club and executive director of the campaign; Dr. E. C. Thrash, president of the Fulton County Medical association; W. R. C. Smith, Fred J. Paxon, Lee Ashcraft and others.

Dr. Thrash told how he had been closely associated with the work of the Anti-Tuberculosis association for several years past, giving largely of his time to the clinics which are held weekly for the treatment of sufferers from the disease and those who have been exposed to it.

"Nothing is closer to my heart," he said, "than this work. I am proud to be of any use in the effort to stamp out the worst plague of America today, the 'Captain of Death,' who causes more suffering, misery, sin and death than any other one cause."

"It is exceedingly gratifying to me," he continued, "to see the leaders of Atlanta's civic life so wholeheartedly giving their support to this work, which has so quietly and unostentatiously carried on its magnificent crusade."

W. R. C. Smith pointed out that good health and morality go hand in hand.

"If we succeed in stamping out tuberculosis," he said, "we shall have done much for the moral as well as the physical welfare of our people. We are too apt to overlook the close connections between all factors in man's life, and to forget the apparent trifles until they grow to spell disaster.

Act of Home Charity.

"To aid the Anti-Tuberculosis association is a simple act of home charity, which will return promptly to our own benefit. Truly we are our brothers' keeper, and if we forget this, we soon reap sadly ourselves. Let us never forget the ever-present menace from the house next door."

Colonel F. J. Paxon stated that he looked upon the support he gave to the association and their work as a very practical and great insurance feature of our industrial and social life.

"The returns," he said, 'are not only physical, but moral and financial also. Every large employer knows this to be a fact."

Lee Ashcraft spoke briefly and suggested some very practical means by which all of those present could best secure the co-operation of the memberships of their respective organizations. He told from his own experience of how important a careful plan was to such an undertaking and stressed the necessity for complete understanding of the work on the part of each and every subscriber.

Dave W. Webb, president of the Admen, who is in charge of the campaign, told how the anti-tuberculosis association has for years been a sort of protege of the Ad club. He told of the ever-increasing scope of its work and said that he rejoiced to see the interest in its support likewise broadening, as evidenced by the many organizations represented at the present meeting.

Not a Single Refusal.

Mr. Webb also stated that in the preliminary work done for the campaign the canvassing committees had to date not received a single refusal.

"As soon as we explain the work of the association," he said, "every man realizes that, for his own good, he must give his support."

The campaign, which will begin its active period on Monday next, is for $30,000 in sustaining subscriptions, renewable annually. Subscribers may pay either annually or quarterly and their subscriptions will continue each year until they personally countermand them.

Among those present at last night's meeting were:

CO-OPERATION TO CURE INDUSTRIAL TROUBLES

Chicago, November 21.—Genuine co-operation is the remedy for the present unsettled industrial conditions, Carl S. Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture, today told representatives of twelve farmers' and labor organizations, meeting under the auspices of the Farmers' National council and the National Co-operative association.

Mr. Vrooman asserted that in his opinion, cures for the "present troubles of the world" could be worked out at this conference.

Prediction that successful co-operation would supplant all other systems of industry in this country within five years, was made by Duncan McDonald, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor. He declared that co-operation was one subject on which the radicals and conservatives in labor would agree.

One of the purposes of the meeting is to bring about an extension of government control of railroads, Benjamin C. Marsh, a director of the conference, said.

Release of the vast horde of middlemen from war-time obligations to maintain fair prices is responsible for the high cost of living, Dalton T. Clarke, Chicago, president of the National Co-operative association, asserted. He denied farmers and organized labor were to blame for high prices.

COURT-MARTIAL TRIAL FOR GENERAL ANGELES

Chihuahua City, Mexico, November 21.—General Manuel M. Dieguez, federal commander of military operations in northern Mexico, arrived here this afternoon with General Felipe Angeles, the Villa leader, who was captured near Parral recently. General Angeles was placed in the state penitentiary to await his trial, which, it is believed, will take place immediatley.

Angeles Chased Seven Days.

El Paso, Texas, November 21.—Details of General Felipe Angeles' capture by Mexican federal troops received today by Andres G. Garcia, consul general of Mexico, showed the rebel leader was caught after a pursuit lasting seven days. Angeles was accompanied by fifteen men, five of whom were killed. The leader and four of his followers were overtaken at the Cerro de Las Moras, near Parral.

Reports in circulation along the border today were to the effect General Angeles would be accused of rebellion against his government and the death penalty would be asked. Many Carranza officials were said to favor this disposition of the case as a warning to all rebel chieftains. Shortness of time between his capture and the date set for the trial was pointed to as indicating the possible fate in store for General Angeles.

Conjecture was rife as to the effect of the trial. Some authorities in El Paso believed his execution would be disastrous to the Carranza government in that a new revolutionary movement might follow.

Villa sympathizers here today were outspoken in the opinion that the bandit leader would make some demonstration over the capture of his chief lieutenant. Villa was last reported in the broken country southeast of Ojinaga, Chihuahua, on the international boundary, gathering his forces for a new offensive within the next month.

Plens for Angeles.

Washington, November 21.—Many officials and private citizens of Washington and other cities have sent cablegrams to friends in Mexico urging them to persuade President Carranza to save the life of General Felipe Angeles, who is reported to be on trial by court-martial today at Chihuahua City. The messages pointed out that Angeles served the allies with distinction during the European war as inspector of munitions for France in this country.

When Angeles crossed the border early this year and announced that he would join Francisco Villa, believing the Villa movement offered the strongest hope of overturning the Carranza regime, officials here declared that he was the best military man "south of the Rio Grande." He graduated from Chapultepec, the Mexican West Point, and St. Cyr, in France, and was known in military circles throughout the world as an eminent artilleryist.

Wife of Angeles in New York.

New York, November 21.—Senora Felipe Angeles, wife of the Mexican general reported captured by government troops in Mexico, has not been informed of the reported capture because of her illness, according to friends of the family. Senora Angeles, it was said, has been ill at her home here for several months.

A plea for the life of General Felipe Angeles, Villa's lieutenant, who is facing court-martial, after being captured by Mexican federal troops, was made by telegraph today to President Carranza of Mexico by F. Gonzalez Garza, governor of the federal district of Mexico under Madero. Garza appealed for clemency on the ground of the fidelity of General Angeles to the cause which Carranza and Garza supported during the "tragic week" marking the overthrow of the Madero government.

PLOT TO MURDER LAID TO RADICALS

Alleged That Federal, State and Police Officials in New York Were Marked for Assassination.

New York, November 21.—Discovery of a plot to assassinate federal, state and police officials who have been active in prosecuting I. W. W. and Union of Russian Workers members was announced tonight.

Alexander I. Rorke, assistant district attorney; Charles F. Scully, head of the red squad of the department of justice, and Detective Sergeant James J. Gegan, of the momb squad, were the men marked for death for their activities in the recent drive to halt the red movement by deportations and criminal prosecutions.

Three members of the Union of Russian Workers disclosed the plans when they made it known that they believed their arrest was due to knowledge of the "death plot." The men deny that they were members of "The Ring of Death."

Some time ago, it was said, a committee of five was selected by the radicals to devise ways and means for disposing of their enemies, and it was learned that the committee was told that if the use of bombs was decided on, an expert chemist would be obtained. The committee was composed of three I. W. W. members and two members of the Union of Russian Workers.

The Lusk legislative investigating committee is endeavoring to learn if the existence of a $68,000 fund for the purchase of arms and munitions to equip the red army for a revolt is more than radical talk. The sum was mentioned recently by a red orator in Boston and it is commonly supposed that the amounts represent contributions levied on members for the specific purpose of preparing for armed revolution by organizations of "red guards" in New York.

EYE DESTROYED FOR "PUSSYFOOT" BY BRITISH MOB

London, November 21.Three specialists who today examined William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, the American Anti-Saloon league campaigner, whose eye was injured during a students' demonstration against him recently, found Mr. Johnson utterly unable to see with it. They discovered, however, a hopeful sign in that a strong electric light held near the eye, although unseen by the patient, caused h' pain, indicating there was sensitiveness in the injured member.

Socialists May Get 150 Seats in Italian Chamber, Says Dispatch

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Rome, November 21.—(By Cable.) It is now certain that the socialists will have more than 150 seats in the new chamber. Only a little more than 300 retiring deputies presented themselves for re-election and only a few more than 200 have succeeded according to present indications.

The new chamber, therefore, will contain more than 300 new deputies out of 508.

The figures for Rome have been changed considerbly by the latest returns from provincial districts. The number of seats gained by each party leaves the list unaltered, but the Catholics are ahead on votes and the socialists and liberals are neck and neck for second place, over 2,000 votes behind.

TROLLEY CAR SERVICE IN SIGHT FOR TOLEDO

Toledo, Ohio, November 21.—Judge John M. Killits, in United States district court, here today paved the way for resumption of street car service within a week, when he gave the opinion that the Miller Public Utilities Abandonment law is applicable to street railways.

Following the ruling Mayor Cornell Schreiber, who introduced te ouster ordinance which resulted in the cars being removed from the streets two weeks ago, filed a demand for immediate resumption of service.

The mayor contended in his petition that the traction company violated the law by not giving the state public utilities commission notice of intended withdrawal of the cars.

Henry L. Doherty, of New York, who sent the cars into Michigan when official notice was given him that the people had approved the ouster ordinance at the election on November 4, was not in court today.

SINN FEIN CHIEFS FLOUT AUTHORITY OF BRITISH CABINET

Belfast, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—In the crimes court of Armagh today Edward Donnelly, Sinn Fein organizer for Ulster; Edward Hughes, a farmer, and William O'Brien, a Galway university professor, all charged with unlawful assembly at Tynan, in October, and soliciting funds for the Dail Errean (Irish parliament) loan, created a scene by declaring that they did not recognize the authority of the court.

The accused men were carried into the court. Mr. Donnelly said the Dail Errean was a legal body in the eyes of Irishmen and the only body that had the moral right to legislate for or to rule the Irish people.

"Your authority," he added, "is that of a usurper, backed by the military, machine guns, tanks and rifles."

Mr. O'Brien made a similar statement and Mr. Hughes declared that he had been born a Sinn Feiner and would die one.

Donnelly and O'Brien each were sentenced to three months' imprisonment, while Hughes received a two months' sentence.

NO INSURANCE GOES ON LIQUOR OWING TO THEFTS

New York, November 21.—Thefts of liquor have become so numerous that many of the largest insurance companies here have decided not to issue any more specific liquor policies. A general household policy, however, still covers liquor.

Since prohibition has been in effect burglars have ignored jewelry, cut glass and fine linen in preference for wine, brandy and whisky. The companies say claims for losses have been inflated. One official said:

"We must be satisfied that the liquor was stolen and not consumed at a party or by employees in the household of the man who makes the claim."

OFFICERS TO RECRUIT DIVISION OF ARMENIANS

(The Constitution—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Washington, November 21.—The Armenian generals, Antranik and Bagratouni, with their aids, are due to arrive in New York tomorrow on the steamer Savoy on a military mission to the United States. They will come direct to Washington and it is understood they will endeavor to obtain permission from this government to raise a division of volunteers in this country and to procure arms and munitions for troops in Armenia.

Generals Antranik and Bagratouni are well-known military leaders whose reputations are international. General Bagratouni has held high military positions in Russia and was chief of staff of the Russian armies under the Kerensky regime.

General Antranik fought in the Balkan war against Turkey from 1911 to 1913. During the hun war he was chief of the volunteer corps in different parts of Armenia and in the Caucasus, resisting and defeating the Turkish regulars until after the armistice. He is regarded as the hero of Armenian independence. While in America the two officers will work in co-operation with the Armenian National Union of America.

FOUGHT OVER WOMAN AND ONE IS KILLED

Winnfield, La., November 21.—James S. Carter, merchant, shot and killed Robert F. Machen, restaurant owner, in a pistol duel here late today in Carter's store. Carter, police officials, said, was fired upon first and retreated behind the counter, where he obtained a pistal, returned the fire and killed Machen. Jealousy over a woman, police officials said, led to the killing. Carter was not arrested.

ALMOST KILLED BY PISTOL HIDDEN IN KNIFE HANDLE

Fairmont, W. Va., November 21.—United States Commissioner Charles R. Lilley, of Grafton, W. Va., narrowly escaped injury or death when a bullet was discharged from a pistol concealed with the handle of a huge pocketknife found in raiding alleged radical headquarters at the Dakota mines, near here.

When Commissioner Lilley, who was assisting department of justice agents in the raid, picked up the knife from a table it was discharged instantly, the bullet tearing a hole through the sleeve of his coat and barely missing his body.

Three alleged radicals were arrested, bringing the present total here to forty-nine. Federal agents said that more than half this number are being held pending deportation proceedings, while the remainder will be placed under the jurisdiction of county and state officials.

SITUATION IN ITALY CAUSING ANXIETY

Rome, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American embassy here is carefullly watching the situation in Italy, which, it is asserted, may develop sefiously from one hour to another as regards both Italy and the Dalmatian coast.

Peter A. Jay, the American charge d'affaires, with the entire personnel of the embassy, including Brigadier General Evan M. Johnson, was engaged throughout Thursday night sifting from reports received data from which to compile cipher dispatches to the state department at Washington, and the American peace delegation in Paris.

Because of the pressing situation Mr. Jay has decided not to absent himself from Rome, even for a short time, and has abandoned his plan to go to Naples to meet Mrs. Jay, who is returning from the United States.

There has been nothing in previous dispatches recently to indicate that an unusually serious situation is impending in Italy.

A dispatch from Rome Wednesday said Signor Tittoni had insisted or resigning his post as foreign minister, but that his action was due to personal reasons nad because of ill health.

A Valuable Atlanta Asset

Atlanta is finding in The Citizens and Southern Bank a big and dependable INSTITUTIONAL ASSET.

Opportunities, in the past, to bring to Atlanta large industrial enterprises, have been lost for lack of facilities to meet their financial needs.

The Citizens and Southern Bank, with its increased capital and surplus, now aggregating $4,500,000.00, has removed this objection; for it is now enabled to take care of the requirements of the most extensive business development, fully within the regulations of the Federal Reserve System, of which it is a member.

So that, in seeking new enterprises, no matter how extensive, Atlanta may now add to her other many inducements, the presence of ample banking facilities.

Through these facilities, The Citizens and Southern has already contributed to the success of many flourishing industries in and near Atlanta; and it has likewise brought to Atlanta several large accounts heretofore necessarily carried in the East, where the required accommodations could be obtained.

Now that they may be obtained here through the extended facilities of this institution, others have signified their intention of bringing their accounts here.

A valuable asset to Atlanta, The Citizens and Southern Bank, through your association with it, will prove a HELPFUL AND BUSINESS BUILDING ASSET TO YOU.

We shall be glad to have you come in and let us tell you how.

Luncheon Assembles Bright Party

Mrs. Charles J. Haden assembled a bright party at luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club yesterday to meet Mrs. Augustus Milton Anderson, formerly of New York, and Mrs. Louis Symonds, of Charleston, the guest of Mrs. Andrew Calhoun. Mrs. Anderson, who was Miss Martha Goode, of Atlanta, daughter of the late Samuel Goode, a distinguished citizen, has resided in New York for a number of years, but recently has returned to Atlanta to reside.

Dr. Anderson is also a former Atlantan, and is receiving a cordial welcome from countless friends.

Mrs. Haden invited to meet Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Symonds the following ladies:

Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, Mrs. Inman, Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. Price Gilbert, Mrs. William R. Prescott, Mrs. George Howard, Mrs. Brooks Morgan, Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mrs. Sam Slicer, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Miss Isma Dooly.

The decorations were in rose-colored begonias and roses, and the place cards were dainty in their decoration in tiny French pastels. Mrs. Haden's becoming costume was in seal brown velvet, her hat of velvet and tulle. Mrs. Anderson wore gens d'arme blue satin embroidered in self tones, and her toque was to match. Mrs. Symonds wore a black chiffon showing a design in rose-colored flowers, and her hat of gold lisse was softened in a trimming of tulle.

A bright incident of the occasion was the meeting of the ladies with Hon. Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the national democratic committee, who is the guest of Mr. Clark Howell. He and Mr. Howell came by the club, just as Mrs. Haden's party was departing, and the ladies were introduced by Mrs. Ottley, who is the Georgia committeewoman of the democratic party.

A "DEAD SHOT"—SAYS MINISTER

Black-Draught Given High Praise as a Stomach and Liver Medicine by Well-Known Old Gentleman Who Has Used It.

Mineola, Texas.—The Rev. M. G. Jenkins, a retired minister of the M. E. Church South, living in this city, says: "I have used Black-Draught as a stomach and liver medicine, and have never found its equal.

Once I suffered for two months with cramps and pains, tried everything I could hear of without avail but Black-Draught was a "dead shot."

I am known here and all over the state for my honesty and truthfulness. I am 78 years old and have used Black-Draught for years.

I can highly recommend it to any one as a liver medicine that has no equal. It is excellent for stomach, liver and other ailments. I use it for a bad taste in the mouth, headache and other sicknesses that come from the disorders of the liver."

Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and acts actively on the bowels, gently stimulating the liver, and helping to increase the normal discharge of bile into the intestines.

It assists in the digestion of food and relieves constipation in a prompt and natural way.

DOCTORS AND DRUGGISTS PRAISE NEW DISCOVERY

Absolutely Revolutionizes the Treatment of Nose, Throat and Lungs.

Bad colds, sore throat, tonsilitis, adenoids, croup, coughs and hoarseness—in fact, all simple inflammations of the air passages—have at last met their master in Eucapine Salve, the elegant new pharmaceutical preparation which is generally regarded as the most important contribution of late years to the science of medical treatment.

Physicians and pharmacists throughout the country are enthusiastic, believing that they at last have found a practically perfect antidote to catarrhal inflammations of the air passages. The effect is most delightful, almost instant, and permanent. People who have tested it say it is absolutely indispensable to every family medicine chest. Get your winter supply today. The Testing of Julia Grant

BY HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.

RED THIS FIRST.

What girl would willingly take back the man who had jilted her unless she had a very strong reason? Julia Grant thought she had the best reason in the world when she took Dan Carson back into her life; she thought she still loved him and she felt he needed her, but after she had given her promise she discovered that she had given her heart to another man, Dr. John Norville, the surgeon in the hospital where she had gone for training. To complicate matters still more, Lucy, Julia's younger sister, suddenly confessed that she had fallen in love with Dan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV.

"I came to your room last night," Lucy began, "but you were asleep."

Julia, with her wonderful, red-dish-black hair over her shoulders, turned from the glass to look at her sister. Lucy was at her worst in the morning. She looked too white, too fragile, almost pinched with no color in her face; even her eyes seemed colorless. Lucy, too, had the habit that so many girls have of never dressing in the morning. At 11 o'clock she had a bath and made a careful toilet; she curled her blonde hair and rubbed color into her cheeks, and she emerged with a certain faint, delicate charm which was absolutely lacking when she knew that there was no one but her mother and sister to see her. Mrs. Grant, too, liked to come down to breakfast in a kimono and with her black hair streaked with gray tumbling slight over on one side of her head. Julia had never liked this sloppy way of beginning the day, but it had never seemed so dreadful to her as it had of late. Now she had the immaculate standards of the hospital to go by, the crisp uniforms, the snowy caps, the effect of starchiness and efficiency that a well-groomed nurse always gives.

Even in her early morning disarray Julia was never colorless. Her cheeks did not have color, but there was a warmth that suggested itself under the skin and her lips were always red. Her hair, too, instead of stringing out at the ends as Lucy's did, was of a uniform thickness and stood out like an aureole before it was combed.

Lucy looked at her sister now and a grudging admiration came into her face. Inwardly she resolved never to appear before Julia at a disadvantage again as long as she lived.

Julia came to the point and talked while she was dressing.

"Lucy, I did talk to Dan last night. I even said that I thought you would make a better wife than I would, but he simply refused to admit anything of the kind. I'm sorry, I hoped he might. Oh, I wish with all my heart that things were different, but I don't know what to do."

"I know what you can do, but you won't do it. You can tell Dan that you love another man, you can go to him and admit the truth. And then after it is all over I could be there to help Dan over the jolt. Couldn't you do that, Julia; couldn't you?"

Julia was silent.

"Then if you don't," Lucy continued, "I will."

Julia started at that. "Lucy, you can't do that, I won't permit it."

"But I shall. I'm going to take my own chance at happiness. If I weren't so sure tht I could make Dan happier than you can perhaps I might not say a thing, but I know I can, I am convinced of it."

Before Julia could make any further protest, Lucy had turned and slipped from the room, closing the door behind her. She evaded Julia all morning, too, and at the usual time dressed and went out. Julia spent an impossibly restless day around the house. In the afternoon she went down into the kitchen and persuaded Mary to let her make a special dessert for dinner, a dessert that her father was unusually fond of. Lucy had not come home for lunch, and Julia did not even see her until dinner, when she appeared in a suspiciously new blouse of a wonderful shade of blue that somehow gave color to her face and made her unusually attractive.

Mrs. Grant looked at the new waist suspiciously, and as was her wont waited for an auspicious moment, then said suddenly:

"Where did you get that waist, Lucy?"

"I bought it this afternoon."

"With your own money?"

"No."

"Lucy, you didn't charge it! You know we've charged too much always this month and the bill has not been paid at Conway's although I have spoken to your father about it."

Lucy did not answer.

"Lucy, I spoke to you." Mrs. Grant's tone was severe.

Lucy looked at her mother, impatiently. "Oh, mother, don't nag. Yes, I did charge it at Conway's. I needed it and I got it and that's all there is to it."

Mr. Grant looked up from his plate and there was a glint of steel in his eyes.

"Next month I am going to withdraw all charge accounts," he announced calmly. "After this everything shall be paid for with cash." And to the storm of protests from Lucy and her mother he was deaf. Once he met Julia's eyes across the table and a look of understanding flashed between them that was very comforting to Edwin Grant.

(Tomorrow—What Julia did and the result of it).

1st Ward Launched "Spotless Town" Campaign Friday

Housewives, janitors and servants of the first ward launched a "spotless town" campaign Friday. Back lots, alleys, attics, basements and other places where rubbage has accumulated were attacked by the public-spirited people in their sanitary work.

The work done by the first warders was their contribution toward the success of the "spotless town" campaign being launched by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

City sanitary inspectors were busy in the first ward Friday helping the people in their work and explaining the methods of sanitary improvements.

The campaign chairman representing the women's federation of the first ward is Mrs. T. J. Akridge

Other wards will launch these sanitary campaigns as their turns come. According to Mrs. R. M. Striplin, general chairman of the campaign, the wards will await their turns to start their work as the city sanitary wagons will be concentrated in each ward as their turn comes.

Society

Psychological Society.

The Atlanta Psychological society will meet Sunday afternoon, at 3:15 o'clock, in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel. The subject is "The Psychology of Healing." The subject of healing is being generally discussed and revived at this time and a scientific analysis will be given to mental, spiritual and magnetic healing. This will be a practical and instructive meeting. All interested are cordially invited.

Week-End Dinner-Dance.

The regular week-end dinner-dance will take place this evening at the East Lake Country club. Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock.

WOMAN ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP IN LEGION POST

Georgia's first woman member of the American legion is Miss Nellie May Burney, of Atlanta, who is a former yeomanette of the navy, and now a full-fledged member of the Jesse D. Hamlin post.

Miss Burney served at Washington, D. C., and at Charleston, S. C., in her capacity of yeomanette, and was one of the first Atlanta girls to enroll in the navy department.

The membership committee of the Hamlin post, in passing upon Miss Burney's application for membership, recommended that her name be placed at the head of the list of names in the formal application of the post for charter.

The Hamlin post is named for a former Atlantan who was a member of the crew of the ill-fated Cyclops, the United States collier that disappeared during the spring of 1918. The ensuing search of the world for the missing craft failed to disclose any traces of it, and the navy department finally declared all the crew dead.

MISS HUGHES WILL DISCUSS SITUATION IN IRELAND SUNDAY

The meeting which was announced for the chamber of commerce tonight in the interest of a campaign of organization for the Friends of Irish Freedom, and which was to have been addressed by Miss Katherine Hughes, secretary of the Irish national bureau, Washington, D. C., will not take place, but instead Miss Hughes will make an address Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the hall of Marist college.

Immediately following her address, Miss Hughes will invite the members of the audience to question her on any phase of the subject they may desire. Monday afternoon she will speak at the meeting of the Atlanta Woman's club.

SECOND BAPTIST WILL HAVE UNIQUE SERVICE

There will be a unique service at the Second Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will be a vesper service in the interest of the 75-million campaign. It will not take the place of the Sunday night service, but will be a service in addition to the regular hours of worship. There will be a brief address by Dr. Porter and those who were present at the Georgia Baptist convention will make a report of the greatest convention in the history of Georgia Baptists.

The church quartet will present a musical program. The most interesting feature of the service will be the announcement of some large gifts to which publicity has not yet been given. Dr. Henry Alford Porter, the pastor, says that one of these gifts will be of special significance.

It is expected that there will be a great attendance of not only members of the church, but of other Baptist churches which have no conflicting service at this hour.

YOUR HOME AND YOU

BY HELEN KENDALL.

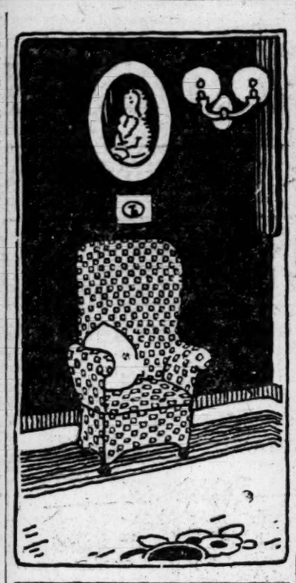

Be Bold With Black

"A black room" usually gives the woman who has never seen one a case of the shudders. It does sound funereal, I admit, and bizarre, too; but it doesn't necessarily look any gloomier than a gay chintz or cretonne that has a black background. Black sets off color in a way that nothing else can. One of the least doleful things I've ever seen was a big, roomy davenport of black velvet filled with warm yellow silk pillows, each finished at the corners with black tassels. The velvet caught lovely lights from the lamp, and looked rich and cheerful. And it was far from bizarre.

Black walls are not depressing, either. Gaze one moment on the sketch that accompanies this, imagining the chair to be covered with an oddly blocked pattern of orange and yellow, golden disks back of the sconce lights, and a pale yellow rug with a big padded appliqued flower in dull blue and green with a black center. Anything gloomy about that? Yet its color is all brought out and accentuated by the soft black walls, that are no more depressing than a black tailored suit worn with a colored "gilet."

In this case a touch of black and stripe is introduced just above the baseboard and in the hangings, which is perhaps going a bit farther than many people would care to follow; but there is a black pad on a window seat just out of sight, and the orange, gold and blue pillows on it would never be as beautiful if it were not for the black against which they are laid.

To be sure, the room in which black is used must have plenty of light and the black must never have a hard, cold finish. A thick, soft black paper takes on tones of violet, yellow and blue when placed near these colors. A plain black rug makes a most satisfying background for Oriental rugs, and is even lovely without them, although it is apt to show footprints. The woodwork should always be white, or cream rather, and the ceiling, of course, kept light. Pictures show up well against black, and the arrangement of an old print with an ancestral silhouette below it, as seen in the sketch, is a suggestion for good spacing and composition.

HOME COOKING

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

(Copyright, 1919, for The Constitution.)

The purchasing power of a dollar may be materially increased if the family willingly co-operates with the housewife. To determine just how far economy may be carried, the family must determine, first, do they want the best food for the least amount of money? Second, shall this food, which must be purchased, be selected with the idea that it makes the body strong and healthy and supplies the growing child with the needed material for growth and strength? Third, if this is to be so, many prejudices must be laid aside and each member of the family must be agreeable and willing to do his or her share of the actual co-operation. Good health is impossible with poorly cooked and unsuitable food.

Meat is expensive and should be selected for nutrition, for the building of tissues, repairing of waste, growth of bone and body structure. Milk, cheese, fish, dried beans, peas and lentils may be used to replace meat occasionally.

Cuts from the flank, chuck, brisket, leg and neck are reasonably priced, and because of the part they play in the animal's existence they are usually tough, but they contain a larger amount of nutrition per pound than the more expensive cuts of meat. The one thing, among all others, that is necessary to prepare these cuts so that they will be delicious is long, slow and moist cooking.

Hard and rapid boiling of the cheaper cuts of meat not only makes them tough, but also causes a loss of flavor and food value.

Neck of Beef, Polish Style.

Select one pound of meat from the neck and wipe with a damp cloth. Roll in flour and brown quickly in hot fat. Place in a saucepan and add one-half cup of flour to the fat left in the frying pan. Brown well and add one quart of water. Bring to the boiling point. Pour over the meat and cook very slowly for one and three-quarter hours. Season, add a pinch of caraway seed and service with boiled noodles.

Polish Noodles.

Place in a bowl
Two tablespoons of evaporated milk,
Four tablespoons of water,
One tablespoon of grated onion,
One-quarter teaspoon of white pepper,
One-half teaspoon of salt.

Stir to blend, then add sufficient flour to make a stiff dough. Knead for five minutes to develop the gluten, then cover and let stand for fifteen minutes. Roll on a lightly floured pastry board until thin as paper and let stand for three minutes. Roll up loosely as for jelly roll and cut into broad noodles. Let dry for one hour. Then place in a saucepan

Six cups of water,
One grated onion,
One-quarter bay leaf.

When boiling add the noodles and cook for fifteen minutes. Drain and place on a large hot platter. Lift on the meat and pour over the gravy.

Lima Bean Croquettes.

To replace the meat in the menu, wash and soak overnight one cup of lima beans. In the morning wash, cover with boiling water and cook for ten minutes. Drain and cover again with boiling water. Cook until tender. Try to cook nearly dry without scorching. Shaking the saucepan occasionally and placing an asbestos mat under the pan keeps the beans from burning and sticking to the pan. Mash the beans and put through the sieve to remove the skins. Now place in a frying pan

Four tablespoons of bacon or ham fat,
One-half cup of finely-chopped onions.

Cook slowly until onions are soft, add the beans and

One-half teaspoon of salt.
One-half teaspoon of white pepper,
Two tablespoons of finely chopped onions.

Cook slowly for a few minutes then turn into a dish and cool. Form into croquettes and roll in flour. Dip in beaten egg, then roll in fine crumbs. Fry golden brown in hot fat. Serve with either cream or tomato sauce.

Navy beans, peas and lentils may all be used in place of the lima beans. For variety, one-half cup of cold cooked meat may be added.

Try This Cheese Cutlet.

Place in a saucepan
One and one-half cups of milk,
Ten level teaspoons of flour.

Stir to dissolve thoroughly, then bring to a boil. Now add
One onion grated,
One-half cup of grated cheese,
Onen teaspoon of paprika,
One teaspoon of salt,
One-quarter teaspoon of white pepper.

Beat hard to mix, then turn on a platter and set aside for two hours to mold. Form into croquettes and roll in flour. Dip in beaten egg and roll in fine crumbs. Fry until golden brown in hot fat. Serve with parsely or tomato sauce.

KHORASSANS PLAN GREAT INITIATION FOR DECEMBER 1

The members of the Kibla temple, No. 123, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan, are looking forward to and planning a great initiation ceremony on the night of December 1. An unusually large class of applicants will be initiated at this meeting and several notables will be present.

The meeting will be held on the ninth floor of the Forsyth building and will be called to order at 8 p. m. sharp.

The Knights of Khorassan is the highest degree of the Knights of Pythias. The meeting will be called the Georgia lodge ceremonial, in honor of this state furnishing the largest number of applicants for the coming event.

Besides the large number of applicants to be initiated, and the entertainment program being arranged by the lodge, further interest in this meeting is stimulated by the announced presence of the imperial prince, Harry W. Nice, of Maryland, the highest officer of that lodge, and the imperial secretary, Mr. A. L. Frye, of Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Frye has visited this city before and has many friends here.

Mr. Nice, accompanied by his wife, and Mr. Frye will arrive in Atlanta on Sunday, November 30. A delegation from the order has been appointed to welcome the party.

DRIVE FOR CHARITIES WILL CLOSE SATURDAY

With $17,000 Needed for Work, Only $6,409 Has Been Received.

Today is the last day of the Associated Charities campaign for $17,000 to carry on the work of the association for the coming year. So far only $6,409.75 has been received in response to the 6,500 letters which have bee nmailed. The campaign is being conducted entirely by correspondence. It is desired to reach the goal by tonight in order to make way for the Anti-Tuberculosis campaign which begins next week.

"There are a good many replies to be heard from yet," said Miss Louise Ware, financial secretary, "and we hope that those who have not answered will do so now, responding with as much as they can afford."

Among the contributions received in Friday's mail were the following: Mrs. Robert J. Lowry, $100; W. L. Richard, $20; T. H. Jeffries, $20; W. T. Dorough, $100; American Bakeries Co., $25; E. S. Ehney, $200; G. W. Brine, $200; Mrs. Mary M. Raoul, $100; Mrs. Florine G. A. Candler, $75.

day will be the sermon delivered by Bishop W. A. Candler. A very large attendance is expected, as all members of the Methodist denomination will congregate at this church.

BAPTISTS INCREASE CAMPAIGN EFFORTS

Many Four-Minute Speakers Scheduled to Deliver Talks Tomorrow in Atlanta.

As the campaign period for the big Baptist drive nears the end, the leaders everywhere are putting on increasing steam as is illustrated in the following schedule of Baptist four-minute speakers for the city of Atlanta tomorrow.

W. W. Gaines, a well-known lawyer of this city, is in charge of the speakers for Atlanta, and he states that the work which they have rendered in the previous Sundays has been highly praised by the pastors of this city. The actual canvass for the money will be made next Sunday, November 30, which makes tomorrow's work the most important of any Sunday in the campaign period.

The schedule follows:

Antioch, Paul V. Jackson; Bellwood, Edward Carswell; Brown Memorial, Walter Thomas; Buckhead John W. Henley; Center Hill, A. F. Todd; College Park, W. W. Gaines, Central, S. B. FREE ORGAN RECITAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The free organ recital to be given tomorrow at the Auditorium-Armory by Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., city organist, promises to be a very unusual afternoon of entertainment. The recital begins promptly at 3:30 o'clock, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Health Crusade Will Be Conducted in Schools of Atlanta Soon.

As a part of their far-reaching work in the stamping out of tuberculosis in Atlanta, the Anti-Tuberculosis association is planning a health crusade in the schools, which will be inaugurated shortly and which will undoubtedly prove extremely effective in reducing the percentage of cases of this dread disease in the city's population.

The association has found it necessary to extend their work into a wide range of ramifications. They operate free clinics of many kinds for the poorer patients, both white and colored.

Miss Rosa Lowe, secretary, stated in a recent report that they have found that it is absolutely essential for their success that they carry their work into every nook and cranny of the city.

White people catch the disease from the negroes, and, just as frequently, the negroes catch it from the white. It is pointed out that, while a white family may catch tuberculosis from the clothes which have been handled by a tubercular washwoman, it is just as likely that the washwoman will catch it from the soiled clothing of tubercular white people.

Statistics for the last ten years show that a large number of colored patients have been cured, and that also a large number, whose condition was too far advanced for cure, have been so far bettered that they do not endanger the lives of those about them.

The association maintains three colored nurses and a colored instructor, who are carrying on a campaign of education among their race teaching them to live so that the conditions causing tuberculosis will be stamped out.

Leading physicians have discovered that tuberculosis is almost invariably contracted by the sufferer when a child. It may be years before symptoms develop, but almost always the germs are first assimilated by children at a very tender age.

The local association daily cares for many children, both white and colored, who either have tuberculosis or have been exposed to it. In the last three years, 867 children under 16 years of age have been treated. Forty-seven of these had tuberculosis and 470 were exposed in their homes to the infection. The children are always kept under closest observation, either until they leave the city or die.

In order to carry on the work of the association, which is strictly local and of essential importance to every citizen and business here, a campaign to raise $30,000 in renewable annual pledges will be conducted actively, beginning next Monday. Every cent will be spent in Atlanta for Atlanta's and Atlantans' good.

Dave W. Webb, chairman of the campaign, stated recently that every man or firm which has so far been approached by the workers has responded generously to the appeal. "We have not met with a single refusal," said Mr. Webb, "and we can only attribute this fact to the universal realization of the necessity for maintaining the work."

Negroes Will Help.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held at the soldiers' rest room, 197 Edgewood avenue, Wednesday afternoon in the interest of the big drive for the Anti-tuberculosis association which begins next week for $30,000. A number of the leaders from the headquarters at the chamber of commerce were present and gave helpful information as to how to get the movement started among the colored people.

Dr. P. James Bryant called the meeting to order, and W. J. Trent was elected secretary. The chairman stated the object of the call and in a short while the members present voted that the colored people go into the campaign and do their best to help put it over.

The following chairmen were elected for the various committees: J. C. Lindsay, chairman of insurance companies; Dr. George Dwelle, chairman of the physicians; Mrs. A. D. Jones, chairman of the public schools; Prof. John Hope, chairman of the colleges; H. H. Pace, for the business men; P. H. Steele, for the citizens committee; A. F. Stewart, chairman of the fraternities and secret orders; Mrs. D. R. Green, for the affiliated women's clubs; Mrs. Georgia Washburn, for the Courts of Calanthe; Dr. H. R. Butler, for the Masons; Mrs. Mamie Hailey, for the Household of Ruth; Dr. E. P. Johnson, for the Baptist ministers; Dr. R. H. Singleton, for the A. M. E. ministers; Rev. W. Q. Rogers, for the Episcopal church; Rev. S. D. Thom, for the Presbyterians; Dr. L. H. King, for the M. E. ministers; Rev. W. Q. Welch, for the A. M. E. Zion church; Rev. H. W. Evans, for the C. M. E. ministers; Rev G. J. Thomas, chairman of the Congregational ministers.

It was voted that the headquarters would be at the soldiers' rest room, and P. H. Steel was elected as office secretary, and he will be in charge of the supplies. H. H. Pace was elected vice chairman. The next meeting will be held Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

KAPPA ALPHAS EFFECT A NEW ORGANIZATION

The Atlanta alumni of the Kappa Alpha fraternity have been reorganized on an active basis after a lapse of activity for the last two years, due to war conditions. Quite a large number of men prominent in business and social circles were assembled for this purpose of reorganization. Fully 90 per cent of the Atlanta alumni were present at the meeting.

The new officers elected to take the place of those who had served during the war period were John W. Westmoreland, president; J. L. Willett, vice president; R. S. Fleet, secretary, and Robert Lee Avery, treasurer. Mr. Avery has been treasurer of the Atlanta Alumni association of the Kappa Alpha fraternity for the past twenty years, and has been a big factor in the organization and keeping together of the association from year to year.

Plans for the future of the Alumni association were formulated and a program for co-operation between the association and the three active chapters located in Atlanta was made.

Kappa Alpha numbers among its active alumni in Atlanta Governor Hugh Dorsey, K. G. Matheson, Clark Howell, Mel Wilkinson, Albert Howell, Bishop Mikell, Thomas H. Jefferies, Bishop W. A. Candler, Dr. Charles E. Dowman, Henry Heinz, Dr. W. F. Melton, Dr. W. P. Nicholson, Jr., and others.

Tallahassee, Fla., November 21.—Returning a well paying county office to the man who gave it up to serve his country soon after this country entered the war, is the fulfillment of voluntary pledge on the part of J. R. Hellier, tax assessor of St. Johns county. Mr. Hellier sent in his resignation to Governor Catts explaining that when he took the office, succeeding W. B. Edminster, of St. Augustine, he stated that if Mr. Edminster returned from the war he would turn the office back to him. He asked the governor to re-appoint Mr. Edminster and the governor promptly complied.

Christian Harmony Singers.

Lovers of old-time vocalism will have an opportunity to hear their favorite style of singing when the Christian Harmony Singers, a local organization of considerable renown, appear at the North Atlanta Baptist church on Sunday afternoon. The singing will commence at 2 o'clock and the church is located at the corner of Tenth street and Hemphill avenue.

Church Debate Planned.

On Wednesday, at 7:30 o'clock, ten of the liveliest young people of Cooper Street Baptist church will debate the question, "Which is the greater hindrance to church progress, lazy members or outside criticism?" Three of Atlanta's pastors will be called in to act as judges. The public is invited.

Poncey Stage Is Set For Mighty Conflict Georgia vs. Alabama

Thousand Strong, Red and Black Will Invade Atlanta This Morning for Battle to Death Against Crimson Horde.

By Les Rawlings.

When "Bill" Shakespeare slipped up on Julius back in the olden days and heard him say, "The Die is Cast," he must have been in charge of the football game between Rome and Athens, for them was the same immortal words which ex-Major Warren Moise spilled Friday night when queried relative to the big contest which is to take place at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon.

With both teams arriving in Atlanta this morning accompanied by the entire student bodies of both colleges business will begin to pick up around 11 o'clock, which is train time.

At 2 o'clock, when the party begins, there will probably be one of the greatest crowds at Ponce de Leon park that has ever witnessed a football game in Atlanta.

Everybody Ready.

The old grads, the plain ordinary alumni and every football fan in Atlanta and the two states of Georgia and Alabama ought to be on deck when the skippers gamble for position.

The alumni committee of Atlanta, which was headed by Major Moise, has slaved like a gang of Trojans to have everything just right for the big game, and they are willing to state that if anything at all goes wrong it won't be because they haven't done all in their power to make things go right.

Ponce de Leon park is in excellent condition for the game, with the field relined following the Tech High-Georgia Military academy game Friday afternoon and the goal posts placed in such a position that the gridiron runs east and west with the use of the big grandstands at the south end of the field assured.

Because of the condition of the road leading on to the field it will be impossible for those in charge to follow their original plans of bringing the convalescent soldiers from Fort McPherson to the game in army motor trucks and allowing them to witness the game from their cars on the sidelines. Because of that special care will be taken to see that the soldiers get the best seats available for them.

2 P. M.'s the Hour.

Regardless of rain, wind, snow or a street car strike, the contest is going to begin promptly at 2 o'clock, so everybody who would like to watch the real opening of festivities when the two student bodies begin their snake dances and band concerts will be there about 1:30 o'clock to see that it is started off in proper fashion.

Arrangements have been made with the Georgia Railway and Power company to take charge of the crowd and special cars will run on the three lines which pass the ball park.

In addition to the car arrangements, Chief of Police Beavers has ordered an extra squad of bluecoats to be on hand to handle traffic and parking, which will greatly facilitate matters.

'FED' GRID ARTISTS CHALLENGE EMORY

All-College Pick Will Battle Outlaw Team on Monday Afternoon for Supremacy of Methodist Hills.

By Ernest Rogers.

Emory University, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Interest is greatly aroused at Emory over the announcement that a "Fed" organization has challenged the supremacy of the All-Emory fotball team, which was recently chosen by the Athletic committee of the university, for Monday, November 24.

This comes rather as a sequel to Jim Thorpe's boast of some days ago, for this strong "Fed" gang believes that htere is no man living who can pierce their line for ten yards in four downs—or forty for that matter.

The Federals number among their adherents such men as Jim Lester, Wiley Sanders, Jeff Richardson, "Bearcat" Weld and others of their ilk, who have made football history at Emory and elsewhere. These men have been steadily at practice for a week or more and report themselves as being in the "red" of condition—which is one stage past the proverbial "pink."

The men on the All-Emory pick are sure that they can prove their mettle and are rearing to get at these usurpers who have questioned their sovereignty on the football melting pot. Stokes, a Moultrie High school product, and captain of the Freshman team, is a prominent member of the All-Emory bunch, and with his teammate, Lester, who should do much toward shaking loose the hold of their opponents. Griffin will be a tower of strength on the line for the All-Emory bunch, and out of luck is the fullback, who aspires to plunge through his particular section of the line.

The game should be a whizzer, and there will be a thrill in every play. Arrangements have been made with Grady to have a dray outside for those who run afoul of some husky opponent. There is no admission fee, so there is no reason why a goodly throng should not crowd around the Emory athletic field Monday afternoon to see this struggle for the supremacy of Emory.

Today's Calendar of Sports

Football—Harvard vs. Yale, at Cambridge, Mass.

Residents in the vicinity of Ponce de Leon park, if they have any objections to noise, better pull down the windows, batten up the doors and then crawl in the cellars, because there's gonna be one hullabaloo on the old Cracker stamping ground when the sons of the Red and Black clash with the sons of the Crimson this afternoon.

On special trains the Georgia and Alabama rooters will reach Atlanta this morning approximately 2,000 strong and the New York of the South will take on the aspect of a real college town when the celebration before and after the game begins.

Chief of Police Beavers has notified his men to be especially lenient to the boys in their celebrations and natural college pranks, and the keys of the city and Grady hospital will be turned over to them.

Out-doped by past performances, the Red and Black eleven will have to fight to the last ditch to beat the strong Alabama team, but the promise has been given and Georgia's team is going to put up one of the hardest battles of the year to be returned victorious.

From the advance ticket sale and indications noted, there will be one of the greatest crowds at the game this afternoon that has ever witnessed a similar conflict in this city.

Both Alabama and Georgia have large numbers of alumnae living in this city and keeping either a Georgia or Alabama alumnus away from today's game would be like keeping the doughboys out of Germany.

It's going to be a great day for sportdom, and the beauty about the whole thing is that it is the first of an indefinite string of annual affairs in which Georgia will participate.

With no other games of particular interest in the south today football fans below the Mason-Dixon line will center their optics on the Georgia-Ayabama struggle, and it is to be the real piece de resistance of the gridiron schedule until the Thanksgiving games.

Tulane university and Louisiana state play today as do the University of Florida and University of South Carolina; Clemsen and Furman.

Tech supporters and local fans generally will turn their attention to the game between Georgetown and Washington and Lee, which takes place in Washington. The Generals have the idea that they are going to finish things in a blaze of glory with a victory over the Georgetown crew, but others have a different opinion of the matter.

With most of the southern elevens having just one more game before the official close of their 1919 season it might be appropriate to hazard a few comments on just what the season has shown.

First and foremost it has proved that so far as "dope" is concerned with reference to sports—there ain't no such thing. Dope has positively and finally been upset to such an extent that it's not much use trying to figure things.

The rebound, which has brought the major college sport back has been one of the most remarkable things witnessed in many years, for football was hurt far worse by the war than was baseball.

The southern teams of 1920 should give those from any parts of the United States a mighty god run for their money.

It's been a great session, and it takes just such sessions to get folks back to a normal healthy enjoyment of life, which was for the most part seriously impaired on account of the war.

THAT GUILTIEST FEELING : : : : : : : By Briggs

Georgia's Captain Is Atlanta's Own And Argonne Hero

"Artie" Pew, Who Leads Red and Black Against Crimson at Ponce de Leon This Afternoon, Is Idol of Students.

In every corner of Georgia as well as neighboring southern states, there are many prominent men who cherish fond memories of the years they spent at the University of Georgia, and take a lively interest in the affairs of their alma mater.

On Saturday afternoon, the Georgia football team will meet the team from the University of Alabama at Ponce de Leon park in a game which promises to be fast and furious. As this will be one of the most interesting games of the season, a few notes in regard to Georgia's captain, Arthur Pew, Jr., may be of interest.

"Artie" is an Atlanta boy, having lived here since he was five years old. After going through the grammar schools he entered Peacock's prep school and later went to the University of Georgia. At all of these schools he was one of the first string men on the football team.

If there is anything in heredity, he ought to love the game, as his father played football at Cornell in the early days of the sport, and his uncles, F. D. Harvey, Henry Harvey and Mike Harvey, were stars during their college days at Auburn.

Immediately after graduating, he volunteered and soon afterwards was sent to France, where he was assigned to the 5th marines. His first fighting was in the Argonne, and a few hours after he was first exposed to fire, a piece of shrapnel struck his cheek, but did no damage except to give him a bloody face, which he had no opportunity to wash for three days, so that he fought for three days with real war paint on his cheek.

Just a year ago "Cap" was with the army of occupation, marching through Germany towards the Rhine, and Coach Cunningham was in France with the 82d division, resting after their glorious fighting. The mimic warfare staged for Saturday will be quite a contrast to those strenuous days, and both coach and captain will welcome the change.

Fear the Giants.

Cincinnati baseball scribes are busy telling the followers of the world's champion Reds that McGraw is planning to pull off the big deals this winter that will make the Giants dangerous antagonists. The Forkville critics say that they will not be surprised to learn that McGraw has obtained Rogers Hornsby to play third base, and Rabbit Maranville to succeed Art Fletcher at shortstop. They also insist that Frisch will play second base for the Giants and that Hal Chase will remain at the first corner. Larry Doyle, according to the Cincinnati writers, will manage the St. Louis Cardinals in 1920. In short, the Giants are feared in Garry Herrmann's town.

Answer: Prior to 1886 when a ball was lost, the umpire gave the team five minutes to recover it before he put a new one in play. The umpire was not allowed to throw an old ball which was out of sphere or ripped except in even innings.

In Decorated Trains Ancient Rivals Come

By Comer Howell.

Athens, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—With the old "Georgia spirit" at its best the University of Georgia machine will tackle Alabama this afternoon before nearly a thousand Georgia students who will be on hand for the game.

A special train has been secured and will leave Athens Saturday morning at 9 o'clock bedecked from front to rear in red and black and carrying the Georgia team, the famous band and the student body to the number of nearly a thousand. A monster parade will be staged through the streets of Atlanta upon the arrival of the special. Plans are being formulated for a demonstration between the halves at Ponce de Leon park.

Alabama Is Confident.

From the camp of the Alabamans comes the report that it is only a matter of how many points Georgia will be defeated. All of these rumors have made the Georgians determined to put up the fight of their lives. They will be playing in Atlanta for the first time in four years, and they are determined to show the people of Atlanta that Georgia has a real football team.

She will have her back to the wall and will fight for every foot of ground.

Georgia has not a great scoring machine. Her backfield has been hard hit by accidents which have marked the work necessary to run up the big tallies, but the line is wonderful.

"Bum" Day is the mainstay of the team, holding down the position of pivot man. It was he who made all-American last year and this year he is even better than he has been before. He is in every play fighting all the time, and he will bear watching tomorrow. Owen Reynolds has been putting up a great fight on left end. He is a dead tackler and gets down the field in great style under punts.

Collings Is Out.

Dave Collings, who has been playing right end, will probably not be able to get in the game at all. He has been sick in Atlanta all week and has not been at practice in quite a while. He has been doing the boot work for the team and his presence will be missed. His place will be taken by Vandervier, who has been at tackle so far, but has been handling the end position splendidly lately.

Austin will be put in the backfield at right half. This is the first time he has been used there, having been on the end before, but he is needed on account of his punting ability because of Collings' absence. He has plenty of speed and can be safely entrusted with the ball.

Austin will be put in the backfield at right half. This is the first time he has been used there, having been on the end before, but he is needed on account of his punting ability because of Collings' absence. He has plenty of speed and can be safely entrusted with the ball.

University, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—Alabama's Crimson Warriors, in perfect trim and anxious for battle, left Tuscaloosa tonight for the game with the University of Georgia at Atlanta Saturday. Never this year has the "thin red line" been in better shape. It is true that Emmett was injured in the L. S. U. game and will not be able to enter the contest, but O'Connor, who in normal times has the call over Emmett, will be seen at the right half position. Coach Scott will have no alibis to offer in case of defeat at the hands of Coach Cunningham's aggregation.

The players who will make the trip are as follows: Captain Rogers, Hood, Brown, Jones, Sessions, Jack Hovater, Boone, Walter Hovater, O'Conner, Stevenson, Lenoir Hunt, Johnston, Montgomery, Thomason, Counts, Moore, Emmett, Sewell, Bartlett and Doster. The squad is scheduled to arrive in the Georgia capital early Saturday morning.

As is generally known, Alabama has only suffered defeat one time this year, in a 12-to-16 game with Vanderbilt. Members of the team, owing to the good-natured rivalry between the two institutions, are particularly desirous of victory. Crimson supporters wish to see the team defeat the Athenians and later Mississippi A. & M. at Birmingham on Thanksgiving day and thus make a whirlwind finish of the season. Provided these two games are won supporters will feel that the year has been very successful for Alabama.

In looking forward to victory neither the team nor supporters are underestimating the strength of the Georgians. Comparative scores show that the two teams will be about evenly matched. Coach Cunningham's eleven has not been defeated this year except in a fluke touchdown registered by the Auburn team at Columbus. Reports from the Tulane game state that the Georgians fumbled the oval a number of times. If that is the case the game in Atlanta should be a record-breaker in that particular, because fumbling has seriously hindered the Crimson squad all the year.

Coach Scott gave his men a few new plays this week, which will more than likely be sprung against the Georgians at the opportune time. If sport writers pay careful heed they will be surprised at the proficiency of the Crimson team in one angle of the game. Coach Scott prefers to reveal this feature in actual battle, rather than through newspapers. It is sufficient to say that a crimson-hud tempest may break over the Athenians Saturday.

Willard's Old Boss Is Having Trouble Developing Champ

Tom Jones, former manager of Jess Willard, and now in charge of the business end of the fistic career of Bryan Downey, an Ohio welterweight, is having trouble to make a champion of the Buckeye state lad. Jones has frequently been called the developer of champions, because he steered Billy Papke, Ad. Wolgast and Jess Willard into titular places.

Of all the fistic managers of the past and present, Tom Jones is easily one of the most remarkable. Starting some years ago as a fight promoter at La Salle, Ill., he signed Billy Papke, then an awkward preliminary fighter, and pushed him until he won the championship of the middleweight class. When Papke faded, Jones knew it was necessary to have a champion in order to pull down the coin, so he started after another.

He signed Ad. Wolgast and had the pleasure of getting Wolgast into a championship mill with Battling Nelson, from whom the Michigan lad won the 133 pound title. When Wolgast began to go back, Jones did not allow his interest to lag, but he immediately stepped out and searched for a man who could whip Jack Johnson, then the most unpopular fighter the game had ever known.

Jess Willard was the victim of Jones' eager search. By the liberal use of conversation and a little money, Jones soon had the former cowpuncher in a ring with Johnson, and as the fans know, Willard grabbed the title and Jones grabbed a young fortune.

Jones made much more money from his connection with Willard than he did in any of his other engagements, because he had full charge of Willard's first circus tour, and then after the break with Willard dragged down $10,000 as compromise money.

Jones has apparently run his course as a developer of champions, however, for despite the fact that Bryan Downey is apparently a high-class mauler, many of the fight clubs pass up his charge and Downey finds it difficult to fight any place but in his home town of Columbus, Ohio. There is evidently a limit even to the makers of champions. Jones is not worrying about the future, having "salted" some of his earnings.

BOYS' HIGH LEAVES FOR LANIER GAME ON MACON GRIDIRON

Coach David and sixteen men who compose the Boys' High school football team will leave for Macon this morning where they will tackle the Lanier High team this afternoon. Coach David and Captain Staton have been working hard all week so that they may bring back the bacon from Macon.

Lanier High was beaten by Tech High only two weeks ago by a score of 40 to 0, and it is probable that Boys' High will pile up such a score. Lanier has been practicing hard since the defeat handed them by Tech High and when they take the field this afternoon will be in much better shape than when they met the Junior Tornado.

Coach David did not give out a line-up and does not know just what men will start the game today. He has so many injured men that it would be hard to pick the line-up until the game.

JUNIOR TORNADO DEFEATED G. M. A.

By Roy E. White.

The Junior Golden Tornado climbed another rung of the ladder to the state championship when they defeated the G. M. A. Cadets of College Park Friday afternoon at Ponce De Leon park by a score of 13 to 0.

The game was interesting from several viewpoints. First, there was more punting in it than any prep contest ever held here. Then a fight opened festivities. Wilson and Anderson were the victims. Bawsel was downed and some one put his knee in his face. Wilson objected, but "Shorty" Guill, the referee, kept him off the G. M. A. man. Anderson rushed up just as play was resumed and started the fight over again, and both men were ejected from the game.

The most interesting thing of the game, aside from the fight, was the 25 yards that Bawsel made in the third quarter. That boy swept around left end and before he stopped had made a touchdown. Captain Jordan and Harris, in the backfield, made the most gains for Tech High. Alexander kept up his line plunging for which he has been noted.

Work in Line.

In the line, the work of Williams, Lake and Stone was by far the best. Mention must be made of Benning, who was substituted for Wilson. Sartain and Thompson also were on the go.

The game started off with a rush, but it did not last more than one down. G. M. A. received and made the first down and on the second were held. They were forced to punt. Tech High then received and after several plays made a first down. They then made several others and Bawsel made a neat run for a touchdown. This was the only scoring until the third quarter. The G. M. A. team made another first down in the second quarter and two in the last.

The second quarter was mostly a punting game from both sides and very few first downs were made by Tech High. The Junior Smithies, after several good gains, got the ball to within striking distance and the half ended with the ball in Tech High's possession on the 15-yard line.

In the beginning of the third quarter the Junior Smithies succeeded in making another touchdown. Jordan and Harris made several good gains, then Bawsel made the 25-yard run around left end for the second touchdown. They failed to kick out and lost the chance for a goal.

G. M. A. did their best in the last quarter when all of the Tech High regular backfield, with the exception of Alexander and Harris, were on the bench. G. M. A. made several attempts at forward passing and were given only one of them on interference. However, they never did get into dangerous ground The Tech High line held so that when they would run a play over it a mass of humanity was piled up.

The Line-Up and Summary.

Hard-Fought Contest Was Staged on Grant Field Friday Afternoon Between Soldiers and Team From Knoxville.

By Geo C. Griffin.

Volunteer met Volunteer Friday at Grant field when the University of Tennessee went down before the Fifth Division by the score of 18 to 0.

Showing a much smoother working aggregation than when they played the Jackets early in the season, Camp Gordon finally wore their lighter opponents out and in the second half were able to score three times after being held scoreless throughout the first half.

Bertschey at quarter, and Bartlett at full, were the outstanding lights from the Fifth Division viewpoint, Bertschey getting away several times for long runs, his 43-yard run in the fourth quarter being directly responsible for the Red Diamonds' second touchdown.

Tennessee's Second Team.

The Tennessee team, while billed as the first squad turned out to be Bender's second stringers when they appeared on the field, and the explanation offered was the fact that he was saving his varsity for their annual Thanksgiving game with Kentucky State. If they have any better men of the first string than Powers, who performed at quarter, they must have a wonderful team, and were not playing above their form when they tied Vandy. This man was practically the whold works for his team being entrusted with the responsibility of gaining most of the ground for his team.

Fumbling has been the bugbear of many good teams this year, and it was no more so than in the case of Tennessee, one touchdown being the result of their miscues when Camp Gordon recovered the ball on their 17-yard line.

The game started with Tennessee kicking off to Camp Gordon; the ball see-sawed up and down the field for the whole first half, neither side having the advantage, and the only redeeming feature being a 40-yard run by Powers, and one for 25 yards by Bartlett of the Fifth Division.

Second Half Good.

What the first half lacked the second made up for, for as soon after receiving the kick-off the Fifth Division with Blene, Bartlett and Bertschey carrying the ball, started a drive which resulted in a touchdown three minutes after the half had started.

The second touchdown was directly due to a wonderful run of 43 yards by Bertschey around right end. The ball was carried over in the next three plays. The third touchdown came soon after when Tennessee fumbled on her 17-yard line, Dewall removering for the Fifth Division. Grove carried the ball through center for the last score of the game.

Two Mikes Battled Savage Ten Rounds In St. Paul Arena

Many Spectators Favored Draw, But Majority of Critics Gave Middleweight Champion the Close Decision—Was Hot Scrap.

St. Paul, November 21.—Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, and Mike Gibbons, the St. Paul phantom, fought a terrific, bloody ten-round bout tonight. The fight was vicious and close all the way, and although several of the ringside experts called the bout a draw, the majority gave O'Dowd a slight shade.

Round One—The men clinched and Gibbons forced O'Dowd to the ropes. O'Dowd landed a right and left to the body. Gibbons made no effort to box the champion, but stood toe-to-toe and slugged. Gibbons made O'Dowd miss and landed several blows in return. A tame round.

Gibbons Outboxes O'Dowd.

Gibbons Again Best.

Round Six—Both fighters took things easy at the start. Gibbons lande da right uppercut to the jaw and they clinched. O'Dowd began to miss again. Gibbons began to outbox the champion. For the first time during the fight Gibbons was applauded for his clever footwork. Gibbons' round.

Round Eight—Gibbons' eye bothered him considerably. Gibbons hooked a right to the jaw. O'Dowd landed two lefts to the jaw. O'Dowd landed two more light blows. O'Dowd sank his left into Gibbons' stomach. Gibbons landed a right squarely on the jaw. O'Dowd battered Gibbons in a neutral corner. O'Dowd's round.

Round Nine—Gibbons began to force the fighting, but O'Dowd again opened Gibbons' left eye and sent Mike to the ropes. O'Dowd kept on top of Gibbons and kept the phantom busy. O'Dowd crashed a right to Gibbons' jaw. At this stage of the battle O'Dowd had a slight lead. They traded wallops. O'Dowd landed two straight lefts. O'Dowd's round.

FURMAN TIES CLEMSON.

Greenville, S. C., November 21.—Furman and Clemson college elevens fought to a 7-to-7 tie in an unusually hard battle here this afternoon, both teams putting up a magnificent form of the gridiron sport and each deserving the draw through a splendid series of offensive and defensive plays, which would have made the result unfair to whichever team had lost on account of the excellent fight.

TECH'S FRESHMEN HAVE GAME TODAY

"Kid" Clay's Yannigans Meet "Boozer" Pitts' Youngsters on Grant Field at 2 O'Clock This Afternoon.

By George C. Griffin.

Freshman vs. Freshman is the bill offered at Grant field this afternoon when "Kid" Clay's Yannigans and "Boozer" Pitts' scrubs tie up in their annual game at 2 o'clock today.

This is each team's biggest game and the one in which whichever is returned a winner can call the season a success. So far the young Techites have not met wtih a defeat except of course the licking handed them every afternoon by the varsity, but in the language of the scrub this is one day they will give the varsity one pass and take two themselves, for it is their day, and the varsity will have to take a back seat for once.

But the varsity is true to the core. The whole squad will be on the side lines offering Clay any expert advice needed. The famous Gold band will be there and the student body has determined that their future stars will not be lacking in supporters when the referee's whistle blows to start the game.

Admission will be $1 anywhere on the field.

CLIMAX OF SEASON IN BOSTON TODAY

Boston, November 21.—Deluged and dazed by the unexpected thousands descending upon the city for tomorrow's Harvard-Yale football game, Boston is a flustered host tonight. Great throngs have gathered here for this gridiron classic in past years, but nothing approaching the present invasion has heretofore confronted the Massachusetts metropolis.

Both Yale and Princeton have drawn huge assemblies of adherents and football followers in other seasons but all previous records pale in comparison with the 1919 crowds. Of the scores of hotels and clubs of the city, not one has even a cot available for late comers and hundreds of visitors from distant points are being directed to towns and cities many miles away if they would be assured of a night's lodging.

Although the Harvard stadium will seat close to 50,000 persons, the demand for tickets is far in excess of accommodations and with bids of $100 for midsection seats, even the speculators find themselves unable to profit by the fabulous premiums promised for their aid.

The contest has produced unusual conditions in other respects. Garage space is not for hire at any price and railroad officers say that more long distance specials will roll into the city tomorrow forenoon than at any previous game.

Wagering also appears to be more prevalent than in recent similar contests, although it is impossible to obtain any definite idea of the amount at stake. Harvard rules a slight favorite tonight at odds ranging from 5 to 4 to 10 to 7.

Ryan-Root Battle.

Tommy Ryan and Jack Root boxed four rounds in Philadelphia fifteen years ago tomorrow, the referee stopping the bout. As Tommy is of mingled English and French blood, and Root was born in Austria, they might have put up a stiff battle if present conditions had prevailed. England, France and Austria were then at peace, however, and Tommy and Jack seemed to be afraid that if they mixed things they might disturb the friendly relations between their fatherlands. So, they boxed in an entirely friendly style, each apparently using the greatest care lest he ruffle the other's equinimity. The referee was a pugnacious person, with Irish blood in his veins, and he became so plumb disgusted with the proceedings that the left ring after accusing the men of faking, and thus broke up the party. Both Ryan and Root were then getting along in years and nearing the end of their careers, and both had reached that period of life when unnecessary physical effort seems foolish.

New York, November 21.—The cotton market showed continued nervousness today and there were violent fluctuations. After selling at 34.15 on an early break, January rall'ed to 35.10, or 25 points net higher, but broke again in the late trading and closed at 34.24, with the general list closing easy at a net decline of 60 to 95 points.

There seemed to be considerable disappointment over the failure of yesterday's conferences to result in a settlement of the coal controversy and after opening at a decline of 5 to 27 points the market soon sold 70 to 80 points net lower.

Houses with southern and western connections were very heavy sellers on this decline, which carried March off to 32.20, but Liverpool bought considerable cotton, and as soon as the liquidation slackened prices turned firmer on the better tone of the stock market, steadier foreign exchange rates and larger clearances. For a time there appeared to be very few contracts for sale and the market advanced rapidly with March selling up to 33.33 and with the active months showing rallies of 93 to 103 points from the lowest.

Buyers then seemed to have been pretty well supplied, however, and the market was very weak in the afternoon under renewed liquidation and heavy foreign sellinñ accompanied by rumors of unfavorable Mexican developments.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET ALSO SWINGS WIDELY

New Orleans, November 21.—Price swings were wide in cotton today and they carried the market to both net declines and net advances. The large ginning during this last period resulted in heavy selling around the opening, under which the trading months went 55 to 65 points below yesterday's close, but by the middle of the morning the market was rising on rumors that the coal strike was likely to be settled before the day was over.

The upward movement carried the active months 21 to 48 points over the level of yesterday's close. In the afternoon reports from Washington, from private sources, were that the coal strike conference was in a hopeless deadlock, and the heaviest selling of the session came upon the ring.

It drove the distant months to new low levels and the close was at net declines for the day of 40 to 76 points, July closing at the lowest.

The ginning returns of 7,577,826 bales were called bearish because they indicated production for the fifth ginning period of 1,303,960 bales against 929,261 during the same period last year.

The exports of the day attracted much attention, but had no influence on the trading. Clearances from all ports amounted to 96,269 bales, being larger for the day than they were for the entire week last year. Exports for the week amounted to 245,367 bales against 65,281 this week last year.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, November 21.—(Special.)—During the early session of today's markets prices eased off quite considerably under pressure from the south and Wall street interests. Later the market rallied on a steadier ruling of foreign exchange and rumors that an early settlement of the coal controversy was in prospect. During the late session, in the absence of any further reports confirming the earlier optimistic rumors and on a more pessimistic feeling as regards the present difficulty with Mexico, which many believe to be a delicate situation, prices again sagged, and the market closed at practically the low point of the day. A feature of the trading was the selling of January against purchases of March, which accounted for the relatively firm ruling of the later delivery. We believe the market to be adjusting itself to changed conditions and, therefore, do not look for other than a scalping range until outside conditions become more settled.

JOHNSTON BROS.

New York, November 21.—(Special.)—The ginners' report was quite up to expectation and shows picking and ginning has progressed rapidly and the relatively large ginning of the past period has come at the expense of the final outturn. Sentiment is mixed badly, but we believe the southern line will hold and values will hold and will ultimately advance to the convertible value. The discount on July is absurd and will not last, for July will prove the test month.

CLARK & CO.

New York, November 21.—(Special.)—Liverpool failed to meet our advance yesterday, and consequently our market opened lower on fresh hedge selling from the south. After easing, the market turned stronger on reports of a better situation in the coal industry, but the advance failed to hold, as the basis in the south was reported to be easier. In fact, during the last hour there was a considerable increase of selling for southern spot account. Generally speaking, the trade has been expecting a further rally on the idea that all bad news was out of the way. As a consequence, there has been a disposition to make purchases on all weak spots. This, however, has proved to be disappointing, as each time the market advances a larger volume of cotton is for sale, indicating that there is still quite a large amount of cotton carried over the recent break and also that spot holders in the south are taking the opportunity of any advance to hedge their holdings. The market lacks new buying stimulus.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, November 21.—(Special.)—The market continues nervous, and fluctuations are rapid in both ways. Liverpool and the trade were moderate buyers, while the south sold. Reports of an easier spot basis in the Atlantics with a poorer demand were responsible for the late decline. Exports were heavy for the week, about 246,000 bales against 59,000 last year. Exchange was slightly higher.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, November 21.—(Special.)—The bureau report today on ginnings to November showed 7,578,000 bales, comparing with 8,707,000 for the same period last year and 6,274,000 bales to November 1 this year. The report was in line with expectations, and it would seem confirms a crop of 10,-000,000 bales or under. Under scattered selling during the early session, the market was temporarily depressed. Contracts were absorbed by prominent trade interests and towards midday prices advanced sharply. On another wave of general selling the market sold off easily. Advancement of the price of cotton flannels from 28 cents to 35 cents per yard by one of the most prominent manufacturing concerns indicates that there is no likelihood of cheap fabrics for some time to come. Local sentiment as far as many of the ring traders goes is bearish, but fundamentals are bullish.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

NEW ORLEANS LETTER.

New Orleans, November 21.—(Special.)—While there were both advances and declines in the trading in cotton today, the advances were not sustained and the market closed at net losses. The census bureau report on ginning on the opening was more bearish than expected and resulted in moderately wide declines, from which the market recovered and went to substantial net advances on the rumor that the coal strike would be settled before the day was over. However, after the noon hour there were reports that the coal conference had settled into a hopeless deadlock and the market broke again.

The ginning report counted the production to November 14 at 7,577,826 bales against 8,706,420 bales to the same date last year and 8,571,115 to the same date two years ago. For this last period the ginning was 1,303,960 bales against 29,-261 this period last year and 1,385,937 two years ago. The bearishness of the figures lay in the output for the period.

DUGGAN & BOUDEN.

STOCKS WITNESS SHARP RECESSION

List Was Comparatively Strong and Gaining During Day, But Fell Abruptly on Selling in Final Hour.

New York, November 21.—Stovks were firm to strong at the outset of today's trading and made general extensions to their gains at midday, but fell away rather sharply under pressure in the active selling of the last hour.

Much of the early advance was naturally ascribed to less stringent monetary conditions and another rally in foreign exchange. For the first time this month call loans were renewed at 8 per cent and plenty of money was available later at 6 per cent.

Relaxation did not include time funds, however, for which 7½ per cent was again eagerly bid. Many loans were reported to have been negotiated on an 8 per cent basis and commercial discounts also were firmer.

Sentiment among traders was more hopeful, but this was neutralized by the conservatism of commission houses, where further belated liquidation was in progress. The coal strike situation and related industrial conditions also invited realizing for profits on recent purchases.

Shorts again found it expedient and somewhat difficult to cover in such stocks as General Motors, Crucible Steel and several of the high grade equipment, shipping and oils, where extreme gains ranged from 6 to almost 16 points.

United States Steel was among the first of the accepted leaders to yield, but the late recession began with coppers, where declines of 2 to 4 points followed the publication of adverse quarterly statements..

Anglo-French fives were the only strong feature of the bond market, the tendency otherwise, including Liberty issues, being toward moderate irregularity. Total sales, par value, aggregated $17,500,000. Old United States bonds unchanged on call.

SCARCITY RULING COMPLAINT; BANK OPERATIONS WIDE

New York, November 21.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Distributive trade continues at a swift pace with demand apparently outstripping supply, despite a number of ordinarily disturbing elements. Indeed, the ruling complaint might well be summed in the word scarcity, which still seems to dominate all lines from the mine or mill to the ultimate consumer.

"Hardening money rates, unsettled stock markets, advancing prices for many staple commodities, insufficient supplies of soft coal in large areas of the west, demoralized exchange markets, high priced and inefficient labor and retarded export trade, all operative as they are seem to offer no important check to domestic buying, which continues eager for current account and confident for spring and the further future.

"Statistics of bank operations show no let up, indeed, they are larger this week than ever before, and failures after the apparently momentary fillip of last week, have dropped off again to a low point compared with records of previous years.

"Keekly bank clearings $9,763,379,-000."

DIPHTHERIA FEARED AT FORT OGLETHORPE

CORN GOES DOWN AS PLANTS CLOSE

Announcement of Shutting Down of Big Industries Has Depressing Effect—Oats Lose, Provisions Vary.

Chicago, November 21.—Announcement of the shutting down of big industrial plants as a result of coal shortage had a depressing effect today on the corn market.

Prices closed heavy at ¾ to 2⅛ cents net lower, with December $1.31¼ to $1.31⅜, and May $1.24¼ to $1.24⅜. Oats lost ⅛ to ⅜@½c. In provisions the outcome varied from 50 cents decline to 15 cents advance.

Bears took control of the corn market at the opening and maintained their grip virtually unimpaired throughout the session. The fact that several large consumers of corn were among the manufacturing establishments rendered idle by lack of fuel tended especially to weaken values, inasmuch as demand for grain was thus diminished, and it soon became evident that receipts of corn here were in excess of immediate requirements.

Lower quotations on hogs did a good deal, likewise, to discourage buyers, although the effect was counterbalanced to some extent by upturns in Sterling exchange and in securities on Wall street.

Oats sympathized with corn weakness. No sales to the seaboard were noted.

Provisions were pulled down by a drop in hogs value, but subsequently became firmed owing more or less to assertions by the British food minister that the world supply of meats was insufficient.

Coffee.

New York, November 21.—The market for coffee futures was very irregular today. The opening was 12 to 37 points lower, owing to lower Brazilian cables and a renewal of scattering liquidation. December was relatively weak, selling off to 14.75, while March declined to 15.30 and May to 15.34. There was considerable covering at this level, however, with March selling up to 15.50 and May to 15.51 in the later trading, and with the market closing net 3 points higher to 6 points lower. Closing bids: December, 15.15; January, 15.35; March, 15.50; May, 15.55; July, 15.60; September, 15.45.

Spot coffee unsettled; Rio 7s, 15⅝@15¾; Santos 4s, 26¼@26½. There were conflicting reports from the cost and freight market. Some shippers were said to be asking 29¼@30¼c for Santos 4s, London credits, and 16.15 for Rio 7s, American credits, but there were rumors that lower bids had been accepted.

The official cable showed an advance of ¼d in Rio exchange on London, with a decline of 15 reis in the Rio market. Santos spots were not quoted and the early cables showing a decline of 600 to 900 reis in Santos futures was followed by a special cable reporting a further decline of 27 to 600 reis.

Brazilian port receipts, 32,000; Jundiahy receipts, 14,000.

Dry Goods.

New York November 21.—Gray cotton goods were easy and irregular today. Finished goods were firm, with business on wide domets for fall delivery being active. Large supplies of carpet wool are in the market, but trade is quiet owing to restricted production of carpet mills.

Sugar.

New York, November 21.—There was no change in old crop sugars, which are quoted at 7.28 for centrifugal to the refiner. New crops continue firm, with offerings not aggressive, although the demand today was less active and no new business was reported. There were no purchases by the board.

There was nothing new in the refined situation, with the demand still active, while refiners are allocating as much as possible through the committee. Prices were unchanged at 9 cents for fine granulated.

Ginnings to November 14 7,577,826 Against 8,706,420

Washington, November 21.—Cotton ginned prior to November 14 amounted to 7,577,826 bales of lint, including 33,543 round bales, 17,067 bales of American Egyptian and 4,226 bales of Sea Island, the census bureau announced today.

Prior to November 14 last year, 8,706,420 bales, including 127,034 round bales, 6,873 bales of American Egyptian and 20,854 bales of Sea Island, were ginned.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

New York, November 21.—There has been continued liquidation in the cotton market during the past week with sentimant unsettled by the money situation, the failure of the senate to reach an agreement on the peace treaty, and apprehensions of a coal shortage.

The rule limiting fluctuations to 200 points was again called into operation on the break of Tuesday, and the decline extended to 33.00 for January contracts during the middle of the week, when active months generally showed losses of about 3½ to 7¼ cents as compared with recent high records. Since then liquidation has been less active and fluctuations very irregular with January selling back above the 35 cent level during today's trading, on covering.

The weakness of foreign exchange was one of the disturbing factors, but the rate showed some improvement toward the end of the week, and there was heavy Liverpool buying here supposedly to take profits on straddles at the widest differences between the two markets so far this season.

Trade interests have also been credited with buying considerable cotton on a scale downward in the futures market, although spot sales in the south have been smaller on the decline, and New England mills are said to have been holding off for more settled conditions.

The better weather reported in the south led to predictions of an increased movement, but there has been very little further discussion of crop prospects, and the selling movement has been most generally attributed to liquidation of long accounts influenced by the opposition of bankers to the use of money for speculative purposes.

Today's census report showing 7,-577,826 bales of cotton ginned prior to November 14 against 8,706,420 last year was about in line with expectations and was not considered an immediate factor.

One of the prominent southern authorities had reiterated a crop estimate of 10,900,000 bales excluding linters, and a British estimate places it at 11,500,000 bales, including linters, but according to private cables says the loss of good working cotton is disastrous.

LocalMoney Market Firmest in Country Outside New York

That the money market in the Atlanta district is more evenly balanced and in better general shape than in any other district of the federal reserve system outside of New York is shown in the following extract from The Wall Street Journal of November 19, which places Atlanat first in this respect, data being supplied the paper by R. N. Berrien, Jr., well-known local stock broker:

"There has been practically no change in outside money rates since the disturbance of the money market here, caused by the raising of the federal reserve discount rates. This is considered remarkable, as it is thought the flurry in the Wall street call money last week might have imparted an influence to the markets in the interior cities.

"However, there has been a slightly firmer tone as the banks are observing a more conservative attitude, in view of further possible measures by the federal reserve authorities to curb the speculation in the local commodity markets.

"In only one district is there any indication of a strain. This is in Kansas City, where the bankers appear to be strongly loaned up and are in no position to extend their commitments. Car shortage is said to be causing the congestion in loans because this prevents the sale of wheat and the regular return of funds into that territory. An advance in discount rates is looked for.

How They Stand.

"Telegraphic dispatches received by Dow, Jones & Co. this week from the principal reserve centers outside of New York give money rates on call, time and commercial paper as follows:

City.	Call Money. Pct.	Time Money, Pct.	Com. Paper. Pct.
ATLANTA	......	......	5½, 6
Chicago	6	6	5½, 6
Cleveland	......	6	......
Dallas	6, 8	6, 8	5½, 6
Kansas City	......	6	5½, 6
Minneapolis	5¼, 6	5½, 6	6
Richmond	6	6	6
St. Louis	5½, 6	5½	6
San Francisco	..	5½	6
Philadelphia	6	6	5½, 5¾
Boston	8	6	5½, 6

"A resume of the telegraphic dispatches from the different centers on the local money conditions follow:

"ATLANTA.—Local money market practically unchanged for week, collateral and commercial rate, 6 per cent; 5½ per cent for the prime loans where balances justify. Rediscounts of local banks with federal reserve, nominal, except for government certificates. Probably a sixth of the loans is made up of cotton warehouses and cotton in clearing loans, all legitimate demands being comfortably cared for.

"Chicago.—Brokers' loans, time and demand, 6 per cent, almost nominal. Practically no new loans are being made. Commercial paper, 5½ per cent for the best names, some being marked up to 6 per cent, with tendency upward. General market very firm. Banks doing little outside the fixed credit lines for own broker customers.

"Federal Reserve bank's ratio of reserve to deposit liability and note circulation decreased last week from 59.4 per cent to 53.1 per cent for the best names, and its ratio of reserve to note circulation after 35 per cent against net deposit liability declined from 73.3 per cent to 62.9 per cent.

Dallas.

"Dallas.—Time and demand money at 6 per cent to 8 per cent. Commercial paper at 5½ per cent to 6 per cent. Very little of what corresponds to call money. Money on the whole plentiful, with little change in market for months.

"Kansas City.—Banks quote time collateral loans at 6 per cent and commercial paper at 5½ per cent to 6 per cent. Banks strongly loaned up and in no position to grant extended accommodations. Kansas City Federal bank shows reduction of only $589,637 in rediscount, despite purchase here this week of $6,000,000 of treasury certificates from member banks by war finance corporation.

"Federal bank officers predict further advances in rediscount rates unless sharper loan reductions are effected. Car shortage continues to prevent sale of wheat and flow of funds into this territory. Cattle sales are also restricted by lack of cars. Several cotton seed feed interests who normally borrow in the east at this time are placing some paper at 5 per cent with Oklahoma country banks in localities where cotton has been sold. A little packers' papers went to rural banks this week at 5½ per cent. Kansas country banks never before carried so large a volume of loans here at this season as now, but cannot liquidate until cars are furnished to move wheat.

"Minneapolis.—Interest rates unchanged from former report, but there is an increasing strong demand for money. All legitimate business requirements are being met. Country banks are larger borrowers than had been expected and seasonal liquidation is somewhat retarded by inability of railroads to furnish enough cars to move grain and cattle.

"St. Louis.—Time money, 5½ per cent; call, 5½ per cent to 6 per cent. Commercial paper about 6 per cent. Money market in good shape, business big.

"San Francisco.—Money market is normal in spite of eastern developments. There is plenty for essential purposes and there has been no perceptible tightening because of the shakeout in the stock market. There is no call money here and no carrying by brokers on close margins. The only effect of the rise of call money market in New York was complaint on part of speculators of difficulty of borrowing money to trade with, but this was immaterial. Money rates here are unchanged from 5½ per cent to 6½ per cent, standing as they have practically stood for many months. While there is an occasional tightening of purse strings for cause, money rates in San Francisco remain practically unchanged at all times.

"An increase in rediscount rates of San Francisco federal reserve is expected next week, probably to a 4½ per cent minimum."

Prices Move Upward As Money Pinch Slackens

By R. L. Barnum.

(The Constitution-Philadelphia Public Ledger Service. Copyright, 1919.)

New York, November 21.—There was an irregular price movement at the opening of the stock market today, but at the end of the first half hour an upward movement started which carried quotations well above yesterday's low levels.

With call money opening at 8 per cent against 10 yesterday and 12 for every other day of the week, Wall street's belief that the money pinch was over for the time being was greatly strengthened. The demand for call money today amounted to only $20,000,000 against the daily average of between $35,000,00 and $45,000,000 for the month up to the beginning of this week.

During the last hour call money dropped to 6 per cent. However, on profit taking, many stocks made their low for the day.

October Exports Show Gain.

Inasmuch as the foreign trade statement for October was generally expected to show a falling off compared with September in favor of the longshoremen's strike and the unfavorable foreign exchange market, unusual interest was attached to today's report from Washington showing October exports up to $652,000,000 against only $593,000,000 for September.

Imports for Otcober, however, although based on par value of exchange, were down to $416,000,000 against $435,000,000 for September. For the ten months of the year up to the end of October the country's exports were the largest on record, with the excess of exports over imports also at a high record.

The high record for monthly exports was made in June of this year.

Wall Street Gossip.

Today's unexpected increase in exports for the month of October was explained as being due to very large shipments of cotton and wheat through the ports of Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk, Savannah, New Orleans, Galveston and other large shipping centers not tied up by the longshoremen's strike. Plans are being made to list on the New York stock exchange the common as well as the preferred shares of the Atlantic Refining company, a Standard oil corporation.

So far no Standard Oil shares have ever been listed on the big board. The common shares of the Atlantic Refining company are selling around $1,500 and it is reported that that will be a split up into shares having no par value. It is also reported that other Standard Oil companies, including the parent company of New Jersey, are planning to first list their stock and then have a split up such as that proposed by General Motors.

New Stocks Break Record.

This year's listings of new stocks on the exchange have broken all the high records, the total so far amounting to 15,903,426 shares. But as many of the new shares have no par value, comparisons cannot be made with other years. The large offerings of new stocks which have been handled by underwriting syndicates have been an important factor in the money market.

Sugar stocks were very strong today on the prediction that the price of sugar next year would be up to 16 or 18 cents a pound. In conservative quarters, these figures are believed to be too high. However, even at the present price for sugar the companies engaged in this industry are making very large earnings, as shown by the statement recently issued by Cuba Cane. As long as the market remains as quiet and orderly as that of today, Wall street believes that the money situation will cause no trouble.

Call Rates Drop.

Already there has been a sharp drop in call rates, but the significant thing is that these have encouraged only temporary spurts of activity on the exchange. Loans were renewed at 8 per cent today, the lowest renewal rate of the month. One view of the defeat of the peace treaty is that we are no longer obligated to make big loans to Europe, and hence that we will have more money for our own purposes. This view is frankly characterized as "brutal." It might also be characterized as short sighted, since it inevitably contemplates a restriction of our foreign trade.

Sterling exchange was up 1¾ cents to the pound at the opening this morning and 3½ cents above yesterday's low price of $3.99½. Most other rates were also higher, but there were few people who believed that this recovery represented a definite turn in the tide. Sterling declined a cent before the close. Especial apprehension is felt regarding the German and Austrian situation. In Germany the newspapers are printing long discussions on the possibility of national bankruptcy and the scaling down of state obligations. Austrian exchange has fallen into such demoralization that some bankers are refusing to quote it.

Heavy Selling in Copper.

Following the publication of earnings of Utah Copper company for the third quarter of the year, which recorded a deficit of $17,000,000 after payment of the regular dividend, there was heavy selling of the copper shares in general. Special weakness was experienced in such issus as Utah Copper, American Smelting and Refining, Anaconda and others. The copper metal market continues quiet, with no material change in prices, although there is a tendency to lower quotations again in order to stimulate the demand.

No extra stock dividend was declared by the directors of the General Chemical company at the meeting of directors today. For many years past it has been the policy of the directors to declare such a dividend at this time. The directors, following the meeting, however, announced that such a dividend was not declared before the case pending in the supreme court in regard to taxability of stock dividends. Only the regular quarterly cash dividend of 2 per cent was announced.

STOCKS RULE FIRM ON LONDON MARKET

London, November 21.—Apart from a partial reaction in gilt-edged securities, the general tendency of the stock markets today was again distinctly firm. The volume of business in progress was well above the usual average for the last day in the week. Buoyancy of the markets in oil and South African mining shares was the outstanding feature. South American railway stocks again showed pronounced strength and a further recovery took place in home railway stocks.

During the early hours short loans were in keen request, the borrowers occasionally paying 5 per cent for the accommodation. In the afternoon, however, floating supplies of credit were increased as a result of government disbursements and late money was freely offered at 4 per cent. Discount rates remained firm at the previous day's level.

American exchange showed a recovery of 4.04¾, and the franc and lira appreciated to value. Paris closing at 39 and Rome at 49.85. The mark was again higher, at 175 to the pound, but the peseta was weaker, at 20.38.

'DRY' COMMISSIONER FOR GEORGIA URGED

More Drastic Punishment of Prohibition Law Violators Is Asked.

Crystallization of public sentiment for the appointment of a state commissioner of prohibition is being effected by the prohibition enforcement campaign committee, headed by Judge Nash R. Broyles, chief justice of the state court of appeals.

One of the resolutions passed at the meeting of the state executive committee last week urged "that the governor of Georgia be requested to appoint a commissioner, whose duty it shall be to see that the prohibition laws of our state are strictly enforced."

Stricter punishment of violators of the law was urged upon the judiciary in a resolution tsating "that we respectfully request the judiciary, both federal and state, to put adequate punishment on violations of prohibitory laws, such as will prevent commission of more crimes."

The work of organizing the state for the campaign is proceeding rapidly. The following additional county chairmen were appointed Friday:

Rev. W. F. Moore, of Lumpkin, for Stewart county; Arthur Hill, of Ellaville, for Schley; J. A. Hill, of Smithville, for Lee; A. J. Baskin, of Carrollton, for Carroll; S. R. Wood, of Conyers, for Rockdale; Colonel J. R. Hutcheson, of Douglasville, for Douglas; Prof. M. D. Collins, of Fairburn, for Campbell; R. Douglas Feagin, of Macon, for Bibb; J. N. Wall, of Elberton, for Elbert county; H. M. Whitworth, of Lavonia, for Franklin county; Clarence E. Adams, of Danville, for Madison; A. W. Evans, of Sandersville, for Washington; William Proctor, of Swainsboro, for Emanuel; E. J. Giles, of Lyons, for Toombs.

One of the most important activities of the prohibition enforcement campaign will be what might be termed the "home mission department," through which will be conducted necessary educational work among the foreign-born, foreign-speaking and backward groups of the United States.

The work among negroes will be conducted very largely in the southern and east central states, while work among the foreign-born and foreign-speaking population will be principally in the New England states, North Atlantic states, east central states and Pacific states.

Negroes in the United States own 20,000,000 acres of land, 500,000 homes, 64 banks, 398 newspapers and periodicals and 31,393 churches, worth $26,000,000. There are 4,000 negro physicians, 2,000 negro lawyers, 1,000 trained nurses and 750,000 negroes have migrated from the south into the north since 1916.

"MA" SUNDAY ATTENDS FIDDLERS' CONVENTION

"Ma" Sunday and "Society night" were the features of the Friday night program of the Famous Fiddlers convention at the Auditorium. Mrs. Sunday came to the convention and Fiddlin John Carson, manager, and ten of the other players will go to Chattanooga Monday night to play for the revival which Sunday is holding there.

Good attendance has marked the programs of the convention, Friday night being especially popular with the women, on account of its being Society night. Many special box parties were formed for the occasion. Among the popular fiddlers last night were Shorty Harper, John Goozleberry, Alonzo Adams, F. S. Coupland, Ross Bagley, Jesse Wilson, John W. Hackett and Lowe Stokes.

This afternoon a special matinee will be given. The convention closes tonight, when the fiddlin' championship of Georgia will be settled, after solos by each fiddler. Great interest settles in the championship each year, and various places in the state are betting on their chances.

W. O. Alexander Freed.

W. O. Alexander, of College Park was acquitted Friday afternoon by a jury in Judge John D. Humphries' division of the Fulton superior court, of the charge in an indictment returned against him last April of carbreaking and robbery alleged to have been committeed on the Centhral of Georgia railroad. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after being out only twelve minutes. The offense for which Alexander was indicted was alleged to have been committed last January. He was an employee of the Central of Georgia railroad and will return to a position on this road. His defense was conducted by Branch & Howard, attorneys.

BARNEY SCHREIBER DIES AT CINCINNATI

Prince Places Wreath on Grave Of Col. Roosevelt

New York, November 21.—The Prince of Wales laid a wreath on the grave of Theodore Roosevelt today and later presided over a function which would have had a particular appeal to the farmer president. For one entire afternoon the young British heir was host to 1,000 school children on board the great battle cruiser Renown. At the prince's own request the children were left free to wander at will over the great warship.

The prince had wished to visit Roosevelt's grave at Oyster Bay, accompanied only by his immediate personal staff, but he found it impossible to avoid the enthusiastic crowds who have sprung up whenever he has made his appearance in New York. When he arrived at the little cemetery on the bay side the roads were blocked with automobiles and many hundreds of pedestrians had trudged to the spot from the surrounding villages.

Put Wreath on Grave.

The prince placed a wreath upon the grave and paid several minutes' silent homage to the memory of the late president. He was met at the grave by Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and after examining in silence the simple slab remarked upon the appropriate simplicity of the monument.

"Yes, that was what he wanted," replied Colonel [illegible]evelt.

A "Prince of Wales tree" hereafter will stand in Central park, close to those planted by the king of the Belgians and [illegible] Pershing. The royal visitor halted at the park on his way to Oyster Bay and shoveled in the earth around the tree which will serve as a memorial of his visit.

Scene on Warship.

The scene on board the warship in the afternoon was one of the most picturesque that has attended the prince's visit to America. The children were selected by lot from the high schools of the greater city and were carried out to the cruiser in launches provided by the board of education. As each boy and girl arrived at the gangway of the Renown he or she was handed an invitation to tea by a midshipman about the same age as the guest.

Finally they were marshaled on the quarter deck and presently the prince stepped from his cabin and jumped on to a capstan, where he stood laughing down at them while they cheered him for several minutes. When he had a chance to be heard he bade them welcome.

After the reception to the children the prince went ashore and spent an hour at his favorite game of squash at the Racquet club. Later he was the guest at dinner of the Pilgrims' club, following which he attended a performance at the Hippodrome. The last item on the day's program was a reception at the Seventh regiment armory, which lasted until long after midnight.

The prince's visit to America will be brought to a close tomorrow, with the decorating on board the Renown of more than 100 American soldiers and sailors who won honors on the battlefields of Europe. The Renown is scheduled to sail for Halifax shortly after 2 p. m.

LEAN PERSONS LONGER-LIVED THAN THE FAT

Chicago, November 21.—In an address before the American Institute of Actuaries, H. W. Butholph, of Indianapolis, who has devoted years to the study of life insurance, made the observations:

That thin persons live longer than fat persons.

That the moderate use of alcohol beverages is not likely to lessen life.

That the middle west is the most healthful locality of the United States.

POLAND IS GIVEN GALICIA MANDATE TO LAST 25 YEARS

Paris, November 21.—The supreme council decided today to give Poland a mandate over eastern Galicia under the league of nations for twenty-five years. At the end of that time the league is to determine the future of the territory.

Australia Accepts Treaty of Peace After Hot Debate

Sydney, Australia, November 22.—Ratification of the peace treaty and the treaty of guarantee to France by the federal house of representatives at Melbourne was preceded by angry debate. The chief antagonists were the prime minister, William M. Hughes, and three other members of the first labor party war administration.

The charge that Mr. Hughes was censurable for the cession of the Marshall and Caroline Islands to Japan prompted the use of the word "you lie" and like expressions. Mr. Hughes said that he was not responsible for the allocation of the islands, nor was the Australian government. The government accepted the situation as it found it and as it had to be. But he did not accept it without setting forth the "White Australia" policy.

TWO NEGRO BROTHERS GRANTED RESPITES

Raleigh, N. C., November 21.—Ralp and Sinclair Connor, negro brothers, of Statesville, who were to have been electrocuted here today for the murder of a deputy sheriff in Iredell county, have been granted respites pending the outcome of an appeal to the state supreme court.

TWO GIVEN SENTENCE FOR BLOWING SAFE

Rome, Ga., November 21.—H. E. Clark, charged with blowing the Central of Georgia railroad safe at Chickamauga, November 1, pleaded guilty in United States court here and was sentenced to four years and a day in federal prison, while Carl Llewellyn, accused of being an accessory, was given one year and one day. Mrs. Llewellyn was acquitted of complicity in the crime.

JACK ABEL AND VIC ARE WORKING HARD

Atlanta Boy Has Lot to Win and Very Little to Lose, While Moran Must Fight to Win or Lose "Heaps."

Skipping the rope seems tame stuff to Vic Moran, the pride of the New Orleans levees and welterweight champion of Dixie, but he agrees it's necessary, in preparation for the local boxing classic next Tuesday night at the Auditorium, when he meets Atlanta's favorite of the glove-gladiators, Jake Abel.

A look at the champion, stripped for action in his training quarters here, is enough to strike terror to any ordinary human being, but on the other hand, Jake Abel has never laid any claim to being ordinary. So don't look for any of the panic stuff when the two fighters rought it a bit next Tuesday.

But back to Vic. The one unanimous opinion around the lair of the tiger from the Crescent City is that Moran is SOME man, with a whole lot of emphasis on the "some." Vic is a fighter; every nerve seems trained for a hard struggle, and each string of quivering muscle works in perfect unison with the pile-driving wallop the Louisiana "wop" sends forward.

Quite a number of spectators, "boxhectically" inclined, braved the chill breezes of late afternoon for a front-row view of the pugilist from New Orleans, and no one was disappointed.

After a few minutes of rope skipping and shadow boxing, moving with the grace of a dancing master, and handing out a few punches that seemed harder than a traffic cop's billy, Vic took on his training partners for six rounds of whirl-wind scrapping. Billy Hooper, the dusky demon who won a knockout in the last display at the Auditorium, stood three rounds of the pummeling before an ambulance was called to cart off his remains, and then Young Sharkey was called to bear the brunt of the continued performance.

And now the story drifts to the den of our own Jake Abel. It's really not necessary to bring Jake to the attention of the Atlanta fans, at all, for he's fought enough times and well enough, too, for the Atlanta sport fans to know he is going into the fray Tuesday night prepared to stake his all for the chance he has of winning the southern welterweight championship.

It's a wonderful opportunity for Atlanta's favorite boxing son; to win means the "fat of the land" literally to Jake; while to lose would mean the same old rut, with the final rung of the ledder to few inches higher.

So Jake isn't going to take a single chance at missing the golden opportunity for a glorious success. His fight will be one filled every minute with expectation for the opportunity to smash himself through the barrier that looms between obscurity and the dazzling blazes of the limelight.

Every hour to him now is replete with preparations for the coming classic; every means to win for himself the laurel crown of champion is being appropriated by Jake and his able assistants. Studies of Moran's methods of fight occupy a good many working minutes of the aspirant, and when the gong rings for the opening slap, it's not an unprepared Jake that'll answer from Atlanta's corner of the gladiators' arena.

But, Jake Abel, trim as the stripped deck of a dreadnought, and ready for the fight of his life; Jake Abel, superbly groomed for the scrap that spells so much for him, who will gird the armor for his supporters, who see nothing but a clean-cut victory for the clean-fighting Atlanta crown-seeker.

It'll be the struggle of the year for Atlanta, and its outcome will have a very large bearing on the fight records of 1919.

ARMY ORDERS

Washington, November 21.—Captain William M. Goodale, infantry, is relieved from duty at war prison barracks No. 1, Fort McPherson, and will proceed to Fort Douglas, Utah.

Major Gustave R. Lukesh, corps of engineers, in addition to his other duties, will report to the commanding general southeastern department for assignment to duty as department engineer, relieving Major Joseph H. Earle, corps of engineers.

Captain Harry Holmes, dental corps, will proceed to Camp Benning and report to the commanding officer for duty.

Colonel Jere Black Clayton, medical corps, will proceed to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., for the purpose of making a sanitary inspection.

WOULD DEPRIVE KING OF WAR-MAKING POWER

Copenhagen, November 20.—The home secretary has introduced a bill to alter the constitution. Under it the king would no more decide solely about war or peace. The Rigsdag's sanction would be necessary.

Under it also the government would be able in any case to dissolve the Landsthings whereas now there are certain restrictions. Eighteen members of the Landsthing would be elected and the age of voters will be then lowered to 21 and 23 for the folkething and Landsthing respectively.

NEW CHAMP FOUND

Young Britt Finds Boy Who'll Make 'Em Step Some Day.

Young Britt, one of the most popular youngsters who has ever trod the boards of the squared circle in Atlanta, announced on the side to the sporting editor Friday morning that he has found a boy who some day is going to be the greatest little fighter the south has ever known.

The popular young scrapper knows his words are true because the boy he has in mind weighed nine pounds when he first laid eyes on him and immediately made his health known with a lusty yell. Both the youngster and Mrs. Britt are doing fine.

NAVY OFFICER DROWNS WHILE IN BATHING

Rio Janeiro, November 21.—Lieutenant Commander Lathrope, attached to the United States naval mission to Brazil, was attacked with heart failure while bathing in Rio bay Thursday afternoon and was drowned.

A FREE LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE will be given under the auspices of
First Church of Christ, Scientist, Atlanta, Ga.
By William D. Kilpatrick, C. S., of Detroit, Mich. Member of the Board of Lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass. At the Church Edifice, Peachthree and Fifteenth streets, Monday evening, November 24, 1919, at 8 o'clock. There will be special cars waiting at Peachtree and Fourteenth streets after the lecture.

AMUSEMENTS

(Coming to Atlanta.)

Harold Bell Wrights' "The Eyes of the World" will have its initial showing in the south the week of December 1 at one of Atlanta's leading motion picture theaters. Wherever this picture has been shown it has been accorded a tremendous welcome, playing to big houses throughout its entire engagement, and a great deal of interest is being manifested in its coming engagement in this city. "The Eyes of the World" will be accompanied by special orchestra music.

Pedrini's Monkeys.

(At Keith's Lyric.)

There's a rare treat for the youngsters at Keith's Lyric today in the offering of Pedrini's Simian actors, monkeys who do all sorts of funny stunts. The act is lavishly staged, depicting the deck of a battleship above which an airship circles. The monkey company includes Teddy, the first monkey to ride in an airship. LaZar and Dale are two blackface comedians on the bill who are among the most popular who have ever played in Atlanta. Jolly, Wild and company offer a fast-moving farce that is productive of laughs galore. Ed Morton is a popular singing comedian of the bill. Black and White, two clever girls, are starred in a diverting novelty.

Four Shows Today.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Laurie Ordway, the eccentric comedienne, can be seen for the last times today and tonight at Loew's Grand. Her act is original and very amusing. Other acts on the bill are "Fashion DeVogue," Brown's Dogs, Norton and Noble in "Out of a Musical Show," and Burke and Birke in "A Messenger Boy's Flirtation." Featured on the screen is Albert Ray in "Vagabond Love." There will be four vaudeville shows today, starting at 2, 4, 7 and 9 p. m.

EMBARGOES SOON END ON WHEAT AND FLOUR

New York, November 21.—Embargoes on whe[illegible] wheat flour will be lifted Dec[illegible] 15, it was announced by the Un[illegible]d States Grain corporation here late today.

Lifting of em[illegible]rgoes on both exports and imports followed the action of President Wilson in Washington today in signing a proclamation completely terminating the embargo control which has been in effect for more than two years.

Control over embargoes first was exercised by the war trade board to protect the supplies of wheat and wheat flour for the allies. Later control was taken over by Julius H. Barnes, wheat director, under the wheat guarantee bill.

Discussing the lifting of the embargo, Mr. Barnes said:

"This is one step in the necessary reconstruction of trade facilities broken by the war, which must function when the grain corporation terminates its three years' work. While ocean transport conditions and also disorganized international finance will probably prevent free trading between merchants of the various countries for some time, it is expected that, step by step, international trade may be reknit in the usual channels. Until this is fully accomplished, the grain corporation will continue to sell from its stocks of wheat and wheat flour the foreign trade that is not supplied under private business initiative.

"This release of embargo also permits Canadian wheat and wheat flour to enter American markets free of duty under rulings of the customs service. It is expected that this will greatly enlarge the United States supply of spring wheat flours which are favorites in the baking trade and which, because of the partial crop failure in the northwest this year, have been relatively in light supply."

Mr. Barnes also stated that the sales of the grain corporation from its accumulated stocks, largely in western markets to American mills, under its advertised offer effective yesterday, have amounted to about 30,000,000 bushels. He added that mills in all sections are now amply supplied with wheat, though some particular qualities of wheat are relatively in light supply.

ONE BADLY HURT, ANIMALS KILLED, IN TRAIN WRECK

Greensboro, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—A fast eastbound freight ran into an open switch at Carey station, seven miles north of Greensboro, on the Georgia railroad, early this morning.

Sam Burlington, a traveling fireman, was the only one injured, being severely bruised and cut. He is not expected to live.

Mr. Burlington was standing in the gangway and jumped when the engine struck the switch, falling on some lumber piled by the track. The center of the train jumped the track when opposite the depot, turning over, and it caught fire from a stove. Several of the cars blazed. Three cars of animals were completely demolished and a number of horses, mules, cows and hogs were killed.

NEW DEVICES SOUGHT FOR USE IN WARFARE

Washington, November 21.—Military and civilian experts are collaborating in an effort to perfect "certain new devices for offensive operations," according to the annual report of the board of ordnance and fortifications made public today. Details are withheld as "confidential," but the report says "several models have been built from which information of value has been secured."

The centrifugal gun, first proposed during the war as an ideal weapon for aircraft, has not been abandoned. A gun has been developed which is declared to be far superior to the original model and tests will be made soon, the report says. Experiments with railway mounts for 7-inch howitzers, however, have been dropped "as the 7-inch howitzer has become obsolete and the experience gained in the world war indicates that modern guns of the same characteristics should be mounted on wheeled carriages."

AMERICAN OFFICERS ARRESTED IN ZURICH

Paris, November 21.—(By Cable.)—Two American offcers have been arrested by the Zurich police in circumstances of alleged violence which have led to a strong protest by the United States legation in Berne. They were investigating cases of fraud which have taken place in connection with the American army purchase office in Switzerland.

An American non-commissioned officer is under arrest in Paris charged with complicity in fraudulent contracts entered into by Swiss merchants with the United States government.

Two American officers sent to examine into this matter are said to have been roughly handled and threatened with revolvers by the Zurich police.

ARMY ASKS FOR BIDS ON SURPLUS TEXTILES

More Than Five Million Yards of Cloth to Be Sold.

(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, November 21.—The surplus property division, quartermaster general of the army, is offering for sale by negotiations approximately 5,314,446 yards of textiles, informal bids on which will be accepted until 3 p. m., December 1. Bids may be made for 500 yards, or multiples thereof, of any one lot or an entire lot of any fabric included in the offering and may be made by letter, telegram or telephone.

The government has previously made and acted upon four similar offerings of surplus textiles and has presented to textile users of the country a fifth offering, informal bids on which will be accepted until 4:30 p. m., November 24.

The textiles embraced in this, the sixth offering, include convalescent cloth, drill, duck, gauze, felt, jeans, jerkin, linings, meltons, Osnaburg, outing flannel, sateen, shirting flannel and twill.

Bids for the textiles offered and inquiries relative to the yardage of each fabric embraced in the offering, specifications and conditions of sale, should be addressed to the Zone Supply Officer, Transportation Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Use Concrete Coffins When Price of Wood Becomes Prohibitive

London, November 20.—(By Cable).—Owing to the prohibitive price of wooden coffins substitutes of concrete have been delivered for the burial of poorer people. Up to a few weeks ago many cemetery authorities have declined to sanction the use of concrete coffins, but in many industrial quarters conditions have become so acute that the e[illegible]bargo has been withdrawn and they are now constantly used. Concrete coffins answer.

SAVANNAH WILL GET TUBERCULOSIS MEET

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 21. The tuberculosis conference of the ten governors of southern states called to be held in Chattanooga November 29, has been transferred to Savannah, Ga., by the National Antituberculosis association for the same date.

Chaney Bests Leonard.

New Orleans, November 21.—Young Chaney, of Baltimore, won a decision over Brooklyn Joe Leonard here tonight in a fifteen-round featherweight boxing bout.

In the Churches

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who has been in Kentucky for the past ten days, returns to Atlanta today and will occupy the pulpit tomorrow morning. His subject will be "I Believe God." A full and attractive musical program will be rendered by the chorus choir and quartet, under the direction of Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., as follows: Organ prelude (Lemaire); doxology; voluntary quartet, "Seek Ye the Lord" (Perry)—Mrs. Chears, Miss Small, Mr. Drukenmiller, Mr. Bates; "Safely Through Another Week;" "My Faith Looks Up to Thee;" offertory solo, "Today If Ye Will Hear His Voice" (Rogers)—Mr. H. R. Bates; voluntary quartet, "I Know Whom I Have Believed"—congregation joining in the refrain; postlude (Mendelssohn. There will be no Wednesday evening worship next week, but a service of much interest will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thanksgiving day. Dr. Lyons will speak upon "The Unmeasured Harvest of 1919," in which he will dwell upon the significance of the past twelve months in the social and spiritual welfare of the nation and the world. An offering will be made for the joint benefit of Thornwell orphanage and Nacoochee institute. The Thanksgiving service will be marked by a musical program of great beauty and inspiration under leadership of Charles A. Sheldon, Jr.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN.

Tomorrow morning at 9:45 the Brotherhood will have the privilege of having Dr. Marion McH. Hull speak to them at the Central Presbyterian church, his subject being "A Victorious Life." Dr. Lacy will fill his pulpit at both the morning and evening hour. Communion service will be observed at the evening worship. Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m.

HARRIS STREET PRESBYTERIAN.

At the Harris Street Presbyterian church Sunday services will be as follows: Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.; classes for all. "Reasons for Being Thankful" will be the subject of the pastor, Rev. Jere A. Moore, at the morning service. Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:45 p. m., led by O. L. Whatley. 7:30 p. m., Gospel song service and sermon by the pastor.

PRYOR STREET PRESBYTERIAN.

Special evangelistic service will be conducted Sunday by the pastor, Rev. J. Edwin Hemphill, at 7:30 o'clock upon the subject, "An Emblem of Shame That Is Full of Glory" at the Pryor Street Presbyterian church, corner Pryor and Glenn streets. Special music under the direction of W. M. Sheats, assisted by full chorus choir and large orchestra. Bible school, 9:30 a. m., under the direction of D. G. McNair, superintendent. The session will meet at 10:45 a. m. in the pastor's study and at the close of the evening service for the reception of members. At the 11 o'clock service the pastor will speak upon the subject, "The Lesson of the Falling Leaf." On Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a special Thanksgiving service at the church.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN.

The members of Westminster Presbyterian church, corner Ponce de Leon and North Boulevard, are very much encouraged over the good start that was made last Sunday on the building fund for the new church. The remainder of the congregation will be canvassed Sunday afternoon for their subscriptions, and it is hoped that the amount in sight will be materially increased. Dr. J. W. Caldwell, Jr., will preach at both services, and the topic for the morning hour is "The Christ of Power," and that for the night will be "The Three Steps." The Christian Endeavor society meets at 6:30 and the evening worship is at 7:30.

DRUID HILLS PRESBYTERIAN.

At the Druid Hills Presbyterian church Sunday morning the musical program will be as follows: Prelude—Miss Sheler; doxology, "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow;" hymn, "What Shall I render to My God?" "Gloria;" anthem, "Thanksgiving hymn"—chorus; hymn, "Now Thank We All Our God;" anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say" (Stainer)—Mrs. Summer and choir; hymn, "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling;" postlude.

EAST POINT PRESBYTERIAN.

At the East Point Presbyterian church services Sunday will be at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. "Our National Blessings" will be the subject of Dr. Holderby's sermon in the morning. Christian Endeavor, 7:30 p. m.; topic, "How May We Practice Thanksgiving?"

PEACHTREE ROAD PRESBYTERIAN.

At the Peachtree Road Presbyterian church there will be the usual combination service Sunday morning with Bible classes at 10:30, song service at 11, sermon at 11:30. The subject of the sermon will be "Gambling on God," suggested by Donald Hankey's definition of religion as betting one's life that there is a God, and Mark 9:36, "For what doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and forfeit his life." AGED TRION WOMAN HAS 92D BIRTHDAY

Rome, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary A. Allgood celebrated her ninety-second birthday at her home near Trion yesterday. She is the mother of Mrs. J. M. S. Holmes, of Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. J. P. Cooper, of Rome.

Since her ninetieth birthday Mrs. Allgood has knitted seventy sweaters, of which she gave half to the American soldiers and half to the Belgian orphans. Besides this she has knitted many dozens of pairs of socks and wristlets. Chattooga county takes great pride in her record of patriotic service, believing it to be unequaled in the state.

LEGION AND MAYOR CLASH OVER HAYWOOD

Detroit, Mich., November 21.—Recourse to legal action was decided upon tonight by the local post of the American Legion in its effort to prevent William D. Haywood, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, from speaking at a mass meeting here Sunday, November 30. David G. Janes, adjutant of Charles Learned Post, announced. The decision followed Mayor Couzin's announcement that Haywood's appearance would not be interferred with as long as he refrained from inflammatory remarks.

Preparations for injunction proceedings against Haywood, Police Commissioner Inches, Mayor Couzens and agents of the hall reserved for the meeting, it was announced, are being made. Officials of the post denied that they planned to use force to prevent Haywood's speech.

Mayor Couzens today announced police protection will be given Haywood if necessary to enable him to deliver his address.

The mayor's statement was met by the assertion of David Jones, adjutant of Charles Learned post, which comprises 6,000 members of the legion, that, "regardless of what Mayor Couzens does, Haywood will not speak in Detroit."

A statement authorized at state headquarters here of the legion said: "If Mayor Couzens and the police department do not intend to prevent Haywood from speaking here, the American legion will."

Representatives of the legion also stated that efforts will be made to prevent Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman from addressing a meeting here November 23.

Dixie Furniture Men.

Asheville, N. C. November 21.—Selecting Charlotte as the meeting place for the February, 1920, gathering, the annual convention of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers' association, which has been in session here for two days, adjourned this afternoon. About 60 delegates were present from six southern states.

NEW UNION FORMED BY WEB PRESSMEN

St. Louis, November 21.—Organization of the newly formed Web Pressmen's union, to be known as the United Newspaper Web Pressmen's and Juniors' Association of North and South America, was perfected last night.

Resolutions were adopted providing for group insurance, settlement of all working grievances by arbitration, the "prohibition of strikes, lockouts and walkouts," and the recall of officers charged with maladministration of office.

Officers elected include Frank J. Pyle, of Pittsbur, president, and J. T. Kreitler, of New York, secretary-treasurer.

BALTS WILL TREAT WITH BOLSHEVIKI

Dorpat, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Letvia and Lithuania have definitely decided to join Esthonia in inviting the Russian bolsheviki to send a delegation to Dorpat to begin peace negotiations, as was announced after the final adjournment this evening of the Baltic states' conference with bolshevik representatives over the exchange of prisoners. The invitation to the soviet government will specify December 1 as the date for the proposed conference, the announcement stated.

BOASTS ARE MADE BY BOLSHEVIKI.

London, November 21.—A bolshevik wireless message received here says:

"The British bourgeoisie are dismayed and are attempting to arrange a peace conference, in which soviet Russia and its white guard enemies can participate. The transformation is the work of the red armies, which prepared the ground for diplomatic negotiations.

"After the reds had driven Kolchak eastward, Denikine southward and Yudenitch into the sea, the idea of negotiations with soviet Russia began to warm in the minds of the bewildered allies. While the entente is convening a peace conference the reds will finally defeat the black hundred impostors and the entente will face the only lawful Russian government—that of the soviets."

LEE NOT LYNCHED BY ARKANSAS MOB

Little Rock, Ark., November 21.—Reports that T. T. Lee, arrested in connection with the killing of K. V. Loba, a farmer, near Mountain Home, Ark., had been lynched, are untrue, according to a dispatch from Mountain Home, which reported that Lee is in jail there. Lee denies that he was implicated in the killing of Loba.

Reports current last night were that Lee was taken from officers near the Arkansas-Missouri boundary and hanged. According to the dispatch from Mountain Home today, Lee was placed in jail there last night and there had been no demonstration.

Benton, Tenn., November 21.—W. A. Slack and his son, Herbert Slack, charged with the murder of Dr. Riley Womack, near here recently, were found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in circuit court here today and sentenced to the penitentiary for an indeterminate term of from two to ten years.

Grange Ends Convention.

Grand Rapids, Mich., November 21.—The national grange brought its annual convention to a close here today with adoption of resolutions demanding a national highway construction program under a single administrative department and reasserting the disclaimer of responsibility for the present high living cost.

ENGLISH MOTORISTS CONCERNED ABOUT GASOLINE SUPPLY

London, November 21.—(By cable.) The question of supply of motor spirits to this country is causing perturbation among motorists.

In 1914, Great Britain imported over 100,000,000 gallons of motor spirits, of which one-third came from the United States, about one-quarter from India and the Straits settlements, as much again from the Dutch East Indies and the rest from various sources, Russia being among them. In the following year, the contribution from the United States was nearly one-half the total, in 1916 and 1917 it was fully one-half, while in 1918 this country drew no less than 70 per cent of its total of 193 million gallons from that source.

Can the United States continue this support? In five years the imports of motor spirits has doubled, while in one year, 1918, the proportion brought from the United States was substantially larger than the whole imports from all sources in the year before the war.

ALABAMA ACCUSES STEEL CORPORATION

Montgomery, Ala., November 21.—Making the claim that the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries are being operated in violation of certain sections of the anti-trust act, that they are showing unfair discrimination against the coal districts of Alabama by refusing to take into consideration the exceedingly low price of producing steel products and that the price for such is fixed on the Pittsburg basis, Governor Kilby and Attorney General J. Q. Smith, of Alabama, today asked the federal trade commission at Washington to permit him to submit its briefs and arguments in a case which originated years ago in Birmingham. The case is up for hearing in Washington on December 2.

The proceedings in Washington have been on for some time. It is known as the "Pittsburg basing point controversy." Steel producing towns of the country have intervened.

The state claims that steel and steel products are produced at a lower cost in the Alabama district than in Pittsburg, but that the price for such is fixed on the Pittsburg basis. Unlawful restraint of trade and unfair competition are among the allegations of the state of Alabama.

Attorneys of Birmingham will go to Washington to appear for the Birmingham Civic association, the organization that is leading in the fight.

$100 MONTH ALIMONY AWARDED MRS. WATSON

One hundred dollars per month alimony was awarded Mrs. Mae Watson for the support of herself and two minor children Friday morning by Judge John T. Pendleton, in the motion division of the Fulton superior court.

Mrs. Watson in her petition for alimony claims that her husband Ransom M. Watson, who is a salesman, slapped and beat her, and threatened her life with a pistol, forcing her to flee from him. She also alleges that he refused to provide for his family though he makes an average salary of $250 per month. Mrs. Watson was represented by Attorneys Hewlett & Dennis.

Greeks Capture Part Of Black Sea Coast In Rear of Denikine

London, November 18.—An increasingly important factor in the military life of Russia is "the greens." They are the Robin Hoods in the Lincoln green of Russia. Every village has its coterie of them.

When the reds, followers of Lenine and Trotzky, advance, likewise the whites, adherents of Judenich, Kolchak and Denikine, the greens fade away into the forests and swamps of that vast country. When some enemies have departed they reappear. They constitute the unknown quantity of Russia's men, women and children out of politics belonging to a faction which craves for peace.

Efforts have been made to unite the greens under a common leadership without success, but with winter closing in and hunger coming upon Russia, there is evidence of the unification of these thousands of persecuted, terrorized and detached people. Without arms or ammunition, without organization up to now they have not been formidable, but each day draws them closer together in the common purpose of ending the period of civil war. They include peasants, merchants, industrial workers, in fact all classes of social life.

In Denikine's rear bands of these greens have consolidated and are reported to have seized part of the Black seacoast, including Marinpol, which is 70 miles from Tiganrog, Denikine's administrative headquarters.

POLISH PEASANTS DEFEAT FOOD BILL

Warsaw, November 18.—(By Cable.)—The government has been defeated on the new bill of the minister of approvisation which was to relieve the food shortage by instituting free traffic in corn instead of the nominal government monopoly which has resulted in the present famine. The defeat was effected by the peasants party joining the socialists in opposing a point of detail—the amounts of corn to be retained by the government in the form of taxes.

The result came as a thunderbolt to the diet as, in committee, the peasants party had promised to support the whole measure. The government is so completely committed to the new measure that adverse vote amounts to a vote of no confidence and the defeat makes Premier Paderewski's position very difficult. It is very evident that the premier's prestige has waned. That is largely because he is ponularly supposed to be too much influenced by unsuitable advisers. Possibly he will resign with a view to his resignation being refused by General Pilsudski

AMERICAN REPR'EVED FOR KILLING NURSI

London, November 21.—(Via Ottawa.)—Joseph Ray Hutty, an American serving with the Canadian forces, who recently was sentenced to death for killing Nurse Jones on the hospital steps at Liverpool, has been reprieved. The prisoner is suffering from shell shock. The thirty-four signatures to the petition for a reprieve included that of the lord mayor of Liverpool.

SENATE NOMINATION OFFERED TO FOCH

Paris, November 21.—Marshal Foch has been offered the nomination for senator in the Department of Finisterre, according to The Presse de Paris, which says he has accepted the nomination on condition that all parties will unite in supporting him

To Rebuild Cambrai.

(The Constitution—London Times—Philadelphia Public Ledger Service—Copyright, 1919.)

Paris, November 18.—(By Cable.) The municipality of Algiers has decided to adopt the city of Cambrai.

An initial appropriation of 50,000 francs ($10,000) has been voted to assist in rebuilding the town.

STOP ENLISTMENTS FOR FOREIGN SERVICE

(By Constitution Leased Wire.)

Washington, November 21.—The secretary of war announces that in view of the fact that the number of men prescribed for the American forces in France and Germany for the infantry and engineer corps have been obtained, enlistments for those countries will be discontinued.

Instructions will be issued, however, to recruiting officers that intensive recruiting campaign be made from now until January 1, next, with the idea of obtaining as many enlistments for the Panama canal department as possible. There are approximately 3,400 vacancies still to be filled in Panama. At least 1,700 recruits or re-enlisted men will be necessary in order to bring the strength of organizations in that department up to the point where they can carry on the necessary work and training. Enlistments for Panama will be for three years only and all men enlisted for this department will be sent to Jackson Barracks, La.
